VETERANS FIRM FOR UNIONISTS

There is no mistaking the attitude of the Great War Veterans' Association in regard to the need of sending help to the men at the front. They are for the military service act and against deserting their comrades at the front. The following circular tells the story:

The Great War Veterans' Association,
34-35 Citizen Building,
Ottawa, Canada.

To All Members of the Great War Veterans' Association of Canada,

Comrades.— Our president, whom duty to the country has taken overseas, having relegated to me his duties in our association during his absence, it devolves upon me to address you at this, the greatest crisis in the history of our country.

Over three years ago our empire of necessity entered into a war which has developed into the most stupendous conflict of all time. The issues at stake are the greatest for which men have ever fought. The forces of oppression, barbarism and brutality oppose those who champion liberty, freedom and righteousness.

Britain stands and fights for what she has long stood and fought for—the freedom and advancement of the world. Canada, the child of Mother Britain, and the greatest of the British dominions, has thus far proudly and gloriously borne her part in this great struggle; and has thereby gained an unswerving name and reputation which history will record for the benefit of generations to be, long after those who gained the glorious heritage we are fighting for have passed away. When we say that the issue is the freedom of humanity, we mean that it means the existence of the empire; for if freedom died, it would be because its greatest champion had gone down in the fight.

The great conflict still continues. Our object is yet unattained. The blood of our fallen comrades cries from the ground that their sacrifices shall not have been in vain. The ideas of our comrades died for are not realized. Our foe is as determined as ever. Are we? Is Canada? Is Britain? Is the Empire as determined? If we are, there cannot be any doubt as to the outcome.

We, comrades, must not refrain from giving a decisive answer to this question; and we dare not stand alone from taking an active part in the struggle incident to the approaching general election, the outcome of which means so much to Canada and ourselves, and to our comrades, living and dead. Its vital effect upon the lives and needs of those who still fight on demands not only our earnest consideration, but our active participation in the struggle at home.

Consequently, it behooves us to bring all our forces to bear, and leave no stone unturned in an endeavor to secure the defeat of any candidate who seeks your suffrage, who is not prepared to give us the fullest guarantees that he will do all in his power to secure the enforcement of conscription, and aid to the fullest extent the successful prosecution of the war.

It must also be our earnest endeavor to imbue our fellow citizens with the knowledge which we ourselves possess of the true state of affairs at the battlefield, and so impel them to act, as we know they would, did they but realize how serious the menace is that confronts us.

It is for you to give the answer; for you to say whether the proud name of our country shall have its lustre dimmed; for you to say whether our brave comrades have fallen in vain; for you to say whether reparation shall be made, and for you to say whether those of our comrades, who are now facing the foe, shall be left to continue the struggle unaided, and confronted with the certainty that not only they, but also Canada, shall become effaced from the ranks of those who are fighting for the freedom of humanity.

Comrades, in conclusion, I wish to remind you that we are an independent body, and determined to remain such. That fact, however, does not remove from us the obvious duty of such move from us the obvious duty of supporting the principles for which we have already fought, and; therefore, I have not any doubt as to what will be your reply, when the time comes for you to go to the polls; and that your voice and action will be so united as to sound the death-knell in public life for any forces in this country who would be willing to permit Canada's further participation in the war to cease, for that is what is at issue to us; and, therefore, with every confidence, I leave the decision in your hands.

(Sgd.) JAS. J. SHANAHAN,
Acting President
The Great War Veterans' Association of Canada.

VINOL MAKES CHILDREN STRONG

And Invigorates Old People

Any doctor will tell you that the ingredients of Vinol as printed below contain the elements needed to improve the health of delicate children and restore strength to old people.

It Cod Liver and Beef Peptides, Iron and Manganese Peptones, Iodine and Ammonium Citrate, Lime and Soda Glycophosphates, Cascara.

Those who have puny, ailing or run-down children or aged parents may prove this at our expense.

Besides the good it does children and the aged there is nothing like Vinol to restore strength and vitality to weak, nervous women and overworked, run-down men.

Try it. If you are not entirely satisfied, we will return your money without question; that proves our fairness and your protection. Many of our people have been convinced this way.

NOISY AUTO CUTOUT IS CAUSE OF DEATH

VANCOUVER, Nov. 26.—Because an automobile made an excessive noise while passing along the 700 block of Seymour street on Thursday afternoon, W. J. Evans, a carpenter, employed on the new B. C. Telephone building, lost his life.

The fact was brought out at the inquest held yesterday afternoon at the Center & Hanna undertaking parlors, when the evidence showed that the engineer in charge of the hoisting of a gravel hopper, failed, owing to the noise of an automobile on the street, to hear the stop signal given by the foreman who was directing the work. As a result the engine continued to hoist, and the hopper being jammed against one of the floors of the building, an extra strain was put upon the crosshead to which the block and tackle was attached, causing the timber to break. The hopper fell and struck the workman, knocking him through an elevator opening from the seventh to the third floor, killing him instantly.

At the conclusion of the enquiry, Coroner Jeffs, after asking whether it would not have been possible for certain safeguards to be taken, remarked that the haste with which work was done in the western country was a constant menace to the lives and limbs of the workers. Men would not take a minute to make a thing safe, he said, and he believed a mechanic could easily suggest methods by which many lives could be saved.

R. Wilson, construction foreman who was standing near the man at the time of the accident, stated that he had given the signal for the hoisting to be discontinued as the hopper, which was only a few inches smaller than the space it had to pass through while being raised to a higher floor, had caught and jammed. The engine, which was on the cable, increased, causing the four pieces of two by six lumber to which the block was attached, to break. The hopper fell, struck Evans, and threw him from the building. His body struck a concrete beam and rebounded to the third floor. Autos were making considerable noise on the street at the time and the witness believed they prevented the engineer hearing the signal.

F. R. Turner, engineer, said he did not hear the signal whistle, the noise of an auto passing up the street with cutout open, preventing the sound reaching him. His fireman was also listening, but failed to get the signal. He did not think a bell signal with a wire pull would be practicable for the work they were doing, as the hoisting of the hopper only took place about six times during the entire work of construction. It would be possible, however, to run a wire to the opening in the floor for that purpose. The witness also thought a building frame could be used to keep the hopper in position while hoisting, although he had not seen one used.

D. D. Hastie and C. C. Miller also gave evidence, the former, who was on a floor higher than Evans, having a narrow escape when the crosshead broke. He jumped back in time to avoid being hit by the falling timber.

The verdict was to the effect that death was due to being accidentally knocked from the seventh floor of the building by the fall of a gravel hopper on which the man was working.

From the evidence they expressed the opinion that the accident was due to the fact that the engineer did not hear the signal given by the foreman.

HORSE WON $35,000, IS SOLD FOR $120

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Bargains in trotting horses were plentiful at the opening of the Fasig-Tipton Co.'s Old Glory auction, in Madison Square Garden. The first day's offerings included many horses whose past performances constituted their chief claim to consideration, while the buyers were nearly all in search of trotters and pacers of promise for next season's campaign.

Baron Alcyone, 2:11 1/2, winner of the American Trotting Derby, for a purse of $95,000, as Boston, in 1905, was one of the celebrities sold. E. B. Haring, of Brooklyn, bought him for $120. The horse was once owned by Horace White, of Syracuse, formerly governor. He is fourteen years old, and has been earning his oats in the shafts of a bakery wagon of late.

Airedale, holder of the world's record for yearling trotters, 2:15 1/2, brought $150. D. F. Keefe, of Lynn, Mass., was the buyer. H. W. Hagan, of Brooklyn, consigned the stallion to the sale. Airedale was campaigned in the metropolitan circuit last summer, winning more than $1,000 in the five races in which he started.

Among the other horses with fast records sold here the pacer Directeur, 2:10 1/2, that went for $100 to George B. Perrine Jr., of Hightstown, N. J.; Kewanee Queen, 2:07 1/2, another pacer, for which L. P. Christman paid $210; Battle King, 2:09 1/4, a pacer that made $500, going to R. C. Lashbury; Host Peter, 2:10, a royalty bred trotting stallion, by Peter the Great, 2:07 1/2, struck off for $310 to E. C. Bull, of Norfolk, Va.; Pavlowa, 2:14 1/4, a well bred daughter of Peter the Great, for which Dr. R. L. Kingston, of Brooklyn, paid $100, and Colorado E., 2:08 1/4, knocked down for $225, to Hammond Kelly, of Charlottetown, P. E. Island.

A NOTABLE CRUSADER.

Death stands above me, whispering low
I know not what into mine ear.
Of this strange language all I know
Is there is not a word of fear.
Battisti no more shank from the Austrian scaffold than did the Italian patriot Angelo with his little dagger shrink from the sword of Weisspriess, first duellist of the old Austrian army, in George Meredith's story.
This hanging of Battisti was typically Austrian. I merely mention it because of its recent and dramatic interest. There is no doubt the Austrian is the artist of his age in this branch of "working people off" as Pennis, the singular character in "Barnaby Rudge," puts it.
To this day—during the war and the peace before it—people, Slav and Italian, who disagree in politics, markedly, with the ruling classes in Austria are "worked off" quite in the Denitio manner; their attendants, after nothing we would dream of calling trial, being priest, doctor executioner.—George A. B. Dewar, in the Daily Mail.

Italy did not go to war in May, 1915—when the allied cause was at its nadir—simply for her own ends. She is quite as good at idealism, as lofty in her views as to humanity, as any nation, old or new, of the Entente. But frankly, she did go to war with the resolve to release her people and her lands from the Austrian grip. How has Austria treated those people during the last half-century, let us say, and how is she treating them today? As to the latter part of the question, I wish I could put before every reader of this article a photograph of the murder of a noble Italian crusader.
The Austrians took Lieut. Battisti prisoner, and they hanged him like a vulgar criminal.
It happens that an Austrian officer took a wonderful snapshot of the incident. Battisti is seen marching among a guard of assassins to the scaffold. About his set face and whole mien—the face and mien of a hero—is not a sign of flinching—

THE RETURN OF PAN

By Roscoe Gilmore Scott in Cartoons Magazine

You have shrunk, Pan, shrunk at the cannon's roar
They have driven you from your haunts
As the murdered shrieked, you have sped the more
O'er your grassy hillocks now bathed in gore,
Past the mounds where the Gray King Vaunts.

But you'll come, Pan, come to the broken groves;
And you'll scamper and race the meads;
And the wrecked and wounded will mark your moves;
And your lute will waken their ancient loves,
Though your pipe on these blood-smear'd reeds.

The Pallor of Anaemia Calls for Reconstructive Treatment

THE FOOD CURE

MISS ALICE HOWES, 21 HADDINGTON STREET, GAIT, ONT., writes:—"I was very ill with anaemia, could not sleep at night, and my appetite seemed entirely gone. I suffered in this way for nearly three years, and had treatment from two doctors in Toronto, where I was living at the time, but did not get any relief. I became completely run down, and as I did not see any immediate hopes of getting better, I went back to live with my mother in Gait. I thought, perhaps, the change of air might do me good. My mother saw that I was in a bad state, because my nerves were affected, and everywhere I went I used to take dizzy and fainting spells. My hands and limbs would become numb, I would see black specks before my eyes, and cold perspiration would come out on me. My mother had been taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with excellent results, and she advised me to do the same. But it is hard for me to take pills, so I went to a doctor in Gait instead. However, his treatment did me no good, so I at last decided to follow my mother's advice. I began taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and gradually found myself getting better. I soon was able to sleep at night without any difficulty, my appetite came back, and I began to gain back my natural color. After taking about twelve boxes of this medicine I was able to return to my work in Toronto. My friends there all noticed the improvement in my condition, and I am now stronger and healthier than I have been for a long, long time. I shall always recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food wherever I go, as I really think it is the best treatment obtainable for worn-out nerves and run-down system."

ANAEMIA comes on so insidiously that you may not realize its presence until a look in your mirror discloses the pallor of the skin and of the gums, the lips and the eyelids.

You may be gaining in weight, but the flesh is soft and flabby, and you are laying on fat rather than muscle. You find yourself disinclined to exertion, and greatly fatigued by any effort. There is weakness, heart palpitation and a disturbance of the digestive system.

The failure of the organs of digestion to derive proper nutrition from the food you eat has reduced the number of red corpuscles in the blood. The blood has become thin and watery, and in spite of the food you eat you are literally starving to death.

As this process continues you must necessarily grow weaker and weaker, and the bodily organs become more and more incapable of performing their natural functions.

There can be no question that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the ideal treatment for anaemia or bloodlessness, because it supplies to the blood in condensed form the very elements from which new, rich blood is created. In this way it makes up for the deficiencies of the digestive system, and sets in motion the process of reconstruction.

As the blood improves in quality under this treatment the action of the heart is strengthened, circulation is better, appetite is sharpened, the digestive organs gradually resume their functions, and you gain in strength and vigor.

You will not use this food cure long before you realize the upbuilding influence on your system. With returning strength comes new hope and confidence. The discouraging days will disappear from your life, and you will feel again the joy of health.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.75, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.
