THE ONLY HOPE!

For Victims of Bright's Disease is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Not a day passes on which the newspapers do not record the death of one or more persons from Bright's Disease. Already its victims number hundreds of thousands. Day by day the awful total grows larger. No class is safe from this destroyer. War and intemperance, with all their miseries and fatalities, are not responsible for as many deaths as have been caused by Bright's Disease. Yet, there is a way of resisting it; of drawing its poisoned fangs, and making it as harmless as a summer breeze. That great medicine, Dodd's Kidney Pills, has cured thousands of the worst cases. It never fails to cure, hopeless as the case may seem. Would you safely shield your loved ones from the fatal grip of this curse of mankind—Bright's Disease? Then use Dodd's Kidney Pills, the only cure on earth for this disease.

Profit in Keeping Hens.

It is considered that 75 cents is a fair estimate for keeping a hen on a farm for one year. This estimate does not allow for kitchen waste, etc., which may be of little value when not fed to the hens. When everything has to be purchased it is estimated that the average size hen will consume from $1 to $1.50 worth of grain and supplies in a year. Some farm poultry growers in the United States reckon the cost of keeping their fowls at 60 cents a year. Such an estimate, however, must only cover the cost of feeding them during the winter, and does not place any value on summer feeding in the fields. The lowest estimate recorded is 25 cents per year, but this must apply to countries where there are summer conditions all the year round.

If $1 per year be taken as a fair average for keeping a hen a year, what profit is there in the business for the poultry raiser? This will depend largely, upon the kind of fowls, and how they are cared for and fed. It is stated that an experienced poultry raiser of New York State, by selecting the best layers among his flock of Leghorns for several years got his whole flock of 600 up to average of 196 eggs per hen per year. This is an extremely high average for so many hens on one farm, and it is not to be expected that ordinary fowls will do as well. At the current price for fresh eggs each of these fowls would return its owner about $3 a year for eggs. But even if we cut the number down to 100 eggs for each hen per year, there is money in the business for the farmer if he looks after it properly.—Farming.

"I don't like to upset a cherished tradition," said a doctor, who is himself a devotee of the weed, "but the talk one hears of nicotine saturating the systems of smokers is mostly rot. Nicotine is a deadly poison. One drop of it will make a good-sized mastiff turn up his toes, if injected subcutaneously, and it would take precious little of it to kill a man. The truth is that very little is absorbed, even by the most confirmed smokers. Now and then you read of men who die from excessive tobacco using, and are found on autopsy to be literally reeking with nicotine. All rubbish. Nothing of the kind ever happened. Again, its a favorite experiment to blow smoke through a handkerchief, and the steam that is produced is popularly supposed to be made by nicotine. It is really oil of tobacco, which is a horse of quite a different color. No, the chief harm done by smoking is the stimulus which it gives to the heart. This is particularly true of cigarette smoking, where 'inhaling' is nearly always practised. Each time the smoke is inhaled it acts as a slight spur to the heart, and, needless to say, there is sure to be a reaction. If the smoker is in good general health, he will probably never feel it, but if he isn't there will be periods of profound depression, and, not knowing the cause, he is apt to try to brace up on a drink, which makes matters just that much worse. If he has organic heart trouble—a valvular weakness I mean—it's quite possible that he will tumble over some day and put his angel-plumage on. Those are the cold facts about smoking—none other are genuine."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.
