The Last Call

This is the last call in the Victory Loan Campaign. The three weeks contest to raise money for Canada's gigantic financial undertaking is within a few hours of its close.

All day yesterday money arrived in large quantities at Victory Loan headquarters from all over the Province. Subscribers of Charlottetown were numerous and many of them went to headquarters, heeding the advice that 3 per cent in Canada's war loan was both a patriotic and wise investment.

At the time this was written figures were not available from Charlottetown headquarters but Mr. C. Guy Scott said it would not be surprising if the Provincial total would be boosted $100,000 as a result of the day's arrivals.

It seems certain that all units have gone over the top, and that goes for Prince County outside Summerside, Queen's County outside Charlottetown and King's County. (Previously Charlottetown, Summerside and the Province as a unit had attained the nominal objective.)

If this proves correct when figures are released later on it will mean that Prince Edward Island is within attainable distance of its new objective, $1,700,000. That figure was set by Victory Loan headquarters a few days ago when the Province went over the top in its $1,500,000 objective. Great credit must be given to all connected with the loan, especially to the canvassers who worked long hours and painstakingly, and, most of all, to the people who rallied so splendidly to make this Province hold an honored place in the great second Victory Loan campaign.

Today affords the last opportunity for those who have savings at home or in the bank to invest. Don't worry if someone has not called to see you, call at Victory Loan headquarters, Summerside, Charlottetown or Montague and friendly people will gladly take your subscription. The Charlottetown office will be open this evening until 9 p. m. Out of town parties wishing to subscribe who mail letters postmarked Saturday will be afforded the same privileges of subscribing even if their letters do not reach Victory Loan headquarters in any center until Monday.

Makes Plea For More Cooperative Effort By People

"Along the lines of restoration of ownership and property lies the hope of tranquility in the world. Ownership leads to pride in home and country. The cooperative way is the path to a better world." Thus concluded Prof. A. B. MacDonald in a well attended meeting held in Queen Square School Hall last night. Dr. J. T. Croteau presided.

Prof. A. B. MacDonald, a recognized authority on the subject of the cooperative movement, spoke to a highly interested audience. Prof. MacDonald opened his address by analysing the prevalence of monopoly in the present economic structure. He showed the trend toward a high concentration of wealth that has been working for years in capitalistic countries all over the world.

Monopoly in the meat packing industry was cited as an illustration of the effects of monopoly upon the farming population. Monopoly, Prof. MacDonald claimed, leads to price control which has a harmful effect both upon consumer and producer.

After concluding this analysis Prof. MacDonald asked the challenging question: "Is this presence of monopoly the reason that the masses of the people are becoming propertyless, that there is an increase in farm tenancy and mortgage debt and that in urban centres we find unrest and insecurity?"

To effect a reform, Prof. MacDonald continued, there must be a decentralization of wealth. In his opinion the co-operative movement will be a prime factor to bring about this redistribution of property. It may be, he stated, that a wide co-operative development will be the next step in economic evolution. Its basic principle that the buyers of goods and the users of services should get the full benefits of business may in the not too distant future become recognized by business everywhere.

Economic Control

It is not necessary for co-operatives to own the entire business structure, stated Prof. MacDonald; by their presence they exercise an element of economic control.

The work of local officers of credit unions received high praise from Prof. MacDonald. Then he went on to state, "If we really appreciate the meaning of our work we must carry through our principles to the limit." He spoke of the work of the credit unions in building a spirit of thrift and protection from insecurity. By way of illustration he told of many co-operative developments throughout the Maritime Provinces.

Many members of the audience took part in an informal discussion after the main address. Mr. W. R. Shaw, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, stated that in his opinion the benefits that consumers enjoy today as a result of graded products have resulted from the decision of farmers to organize for the purpose of selling co-operatively. The grades came from the co-operative effort to the consequent benefit of all. Mr. Shaw also spoke of the achievements of the Cheese Selling Board that operated in this province during the past production season. He expressed a hope that there will be even greater cooperation between the three Maritime Provinces in the years that lie ahead.

Appeal On Behalf of Second Victory Loan Campaign

The following earnest appeal for support in the Second Victory Loan was made by Mr. W. R. Shaw, deputy minister of agriculture in a broadcast address last night.

Almost three weeks ago the beacon fires of Freedom, ushering in the second Victory Loan, were lighted in this province. It seemed eminently fitting and proper that across this broad Dominion, its people should have caught the first reflection of these fires in the skies over a province, that has coontributed to the cause of liberty and justice so many of its gallant sons. Into every village and hamlet, over every hill and into every valley and home the light of this illumination like the fiery cross of old, has called our people to defend with all their might, their birth right and their freedom in this time of grave peril. And the peril is grave and the need pressing. An all out effort is not a mere phrase. It has become a trumpet call of the utmost urgency.

In this quiet province with a history so singularly free from the devastation, sorrow and distress of war, we are prone to disregard the dangers that confront us. War in Europe or in the Pacific seems so remote, it is hard to conceive and entertain the idea that our safety is threatened or that the peace and serenity of this little, quiet homeland should be disturbed by the conflict. Nevertheless the danger is real. A titanic struggle is being waged. The world is the battle field and the enemy is at our gates. We cannot afford to surround ourselves in the false covering of complacency and indifference, or ignore the seriousness of this situation. Our duty is plain, our responsibilities are great, and we must fully dispose of these responsibilities if we are to survive. Defeat is unthinkable, but victory can only come through a united effort, involving the resources and assistance of every man and woman in this country. We need only turn for a moment to the conditions common in subjugated countries of Europe to realize what defeat would mean to our possessions, and our way of life. This land of Canada with its tremendous assets and sublime attractions would probably be brought under the conquerors heel and experience the same treatment that has been meted out with studied cruelty to other lands and peoples.

The examples of France, of Poland, of Czecho-Slovakia, and similarly conquered nations is sufficient. Under the highly ambitious and inhuman direction of Hitler and his villainous satellites, the sanctuaries of free worship are held up to scorn and contempt, family relationships are demoralized, the beauty of friendship is dissipated, the sincerity of neighbourliness disappears, and moral standards are depraved. The intellectual and able leaders among the conquered people are being destroyed by the firing squad and the prison camp, and the ultimate objective is the binding of the balance of the population in the chains of slavery, to become the unfortunate vassals of a supposed superior race. Think these conditions over. They are not far removed from us as the world is constituted today and compare them with our own. Go through this God blest, smiling land, and in every community, church spires reach toward the heavens, and a liberty loving people wend their way in harmony together in answer to the tolling bells of their respective denominations. In our urban centers, the business man, the laborer, the tradesman, the artisan, the educationalist and all other classes happily mingle and follow their daily avocations with the utmost freedom and peace of mind The farmer surveys his goodly acres and pursues his daily program untouched by interference, in the enjoyment of unfettered thought and action, and unhampered by barriers or divisions with other elements of society. Our homes are sanctuaries of love and respect, the sweetness of neighborliness and good will is predominant. All enjoy the priceless gifts that have been handed into our keeping through generations of sacrifice, on the part of those who laid the foundations of a Christian and liberty loving Empire. We are free from fear of thralldom, the Dictator, and the spectre of the Gestapo. These things we here love and cherish are endangered, and it is our responsibility to render the fullest possible service in order that they may be fully and completely protected and preserved. How is this to be done? Are we assuming full responsibility in the gigantic task that we are called upon to fulfill?

Inspiring Example

A short time ago I saw a father and mother on one of our farms as they bid farewell to their only son as he left to join his regiment. The last faltering words were said, and the gallant young soldier, with tightly drawn face and a final wave of the hand marched away to his duty in the front line of defense. I saw this aged couple with bowed heads and tragedy mixed with pride in their faces, as they watched the loved form, with head erect, march out of their lives, perhaps forever. And then the father straightened his bent shoulders and with undaunted courage in his voice said, "We mustn't let Jim down." Our task now is to work harder to produce more, and to give more to our country, so that our boy and other boys in the front line may not fail." And I stood in silent reverence and admiration as this aged couple, at a period when they expected to lay down many of the difficult trials of life, consecrated themselves to the task of an all out effort, that their boy and our country might not fail.

These people recognized the need. Victory is sure if that example is followed. Many are rendering equal service. Many are not able for various reasons to make their support so complete, but all are able to take an important part in this titanic struggle. The Victory Loan provides the opportunity. Tanks, guns, ships, planes and other equipment are an immediate need. The lives of our men and the successful termination of the struggle is involved in prompt action. Our dollars not given, but loaned now at good interest rates, are vital factors in this war. No one can say,

Short Course Concludes At Souris

A short course, sponsored by the extension department of St. Dunstan's University was concluded at Souris Thursday night. The chief speaker at the public meeting in the evening was the Rev. F. McQuaid, bursar of St. Dunstan's University. In the course of his remarks he urged the farmer to improve pasture lots. It was the quickest way to increase output of dairy products so much needed in the war effort.

The blueprint that should be followed in building up good grazing fields was given. In addition farmers were urged to produce green feed which would take care of a dry period.

An interesting discussion followed in which several took part.

Mr. Peter McLellan, inspector of fisheries for eastern King's County capably presided.

In the afternoon the short course class was addressed by Mr. Kenneth Sollows, superintendent of fisheries for the Maritimes, of Halifax, and Mr. J.J. Larabee, supervisor of fisheries for this province.

Both emphasized the advantage of cooperative marketing and urged a greater effort by fishermen to improve the quality of their product. Better education for the primary producer was needed, they said.

An interesting discussion followed the talks.

On Wednesday the class was addresed by Prof. A. B. MacDonald, Dr. J. A. Murphy and Mrs. J. H. Delaney.

An interesting address and demonstration was given by Mrs Delaney at the evening session. She spoke on the subject "consumers' goods." Another thought-provoking discussion followed, in which Dr. A. A. MacDonald, Mr. Thomas Kickham and others took part.

Dr. Murphy presided.

At the close of the course a hearty vote of thanks was extended by the students to the extension department of St. Dunstan's University, Prof. MacDonald, Mrs. Delaney and to all instructors who took part in the course. Among the supporters of the motion were Messrs. Peter D. Conway, C. Peters, Rev. E. Robin, and Dr. MacDonald.

Brief remarks were made in reply by Dr. Murphy, Prof. MacDonald and Mrs. Delaney after which one of the most successful courses thus far held was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

C. Of E. Parish Changes Proposed

Addressing the 98th annual meeting of the Diocesan Church Society on Thursday night, Judge H. L. Palmer referred to the new constitution for the Diocese which had lately been drawn up.

A new Church Act, he explained, will also be required in Prince Edward Island for the Church of England, and, just as in Nova Scotia, many provisions concerning internal church government will be left out and the act will be short.

In Nova Scotia, each parish is a separate, corporate body, and a joint vestry is elected for it by the various congregations which compose it. In Prince Edward Island, on the contrary, each congregation is incorporated as a separate body and elects its own vestry.

The drafting committee thought it better, as far as possible, to adopt the Nova Scotia practice in this matter, and the proposed parishes are as follows:

(a) The parish of Alberton, to comprise the territories served by St Peter's Church Alberton, Christ Church, Kildare, Holy Trinity Church at Alma, and St. Lukes Church at O'Leary.

(b) The Parish of Port Hill, to comprise the territories served by St. James Church, Port Hill, St. John's Church, Ellerslie and St. Peter's Church, Lot 11.

(c) The Parish of St. Eleanors, to comprise the territory served by St. Johns Church, St. Eleanors.

(d) The parish of Summerside, to comprise the territory served by St. Mary's Church, Summerside.

(e) The parish of New London, to comprise the territories served by St. Marks Church, Kensington, St. Stephen's Church, Burlington and St. Thomas Church, French River.

(f) The parish of Crapaud to comprise the territories served by St. John's Church, Crapaud and St. Thomas Church, Long Creek.

(g) The parish of Springfield, to comprise the territory served by St. Elizabeth's Church, Springfield.

(h) The parish of Milton, to comprise the territory served by St. John the Evangelist's Church at Milton.

(i) The parish of Rustico, to comprise the territory served by St. Mark's Church, Rustico.

(j) The parish of St. Paul's, to comprise the territory served by St. Paul's Church, Charlottetown.

(k) The parish of Georgetown and Cherry Valley to comprise the territories served by Holy Trinity Church at Georgetown and Christ Church at Cherry Valley.

St. Peter's Cathedral, Charlottetown, because of its special status, is left out of the act.

Judge Palmer suggested that the enactment of the act be held over for a year.

Activities Of Royal Edward I.O.D.E. Reviewed

Encouraging reports were submitted at the annual meeting of the Royal Edward Chapter I. O. D. E, held in Charlottetown on March 3rd.

The Regent, Mrs. H. J. Gordon, in the course of her report, first referred to the organization of the chapter in 1901 by a small group of high-minded and public-spirited women.

She then spoke of the progress of the Order and continued:

During the forty years of its existence never has the Chapter faced an outlook as foreboding as that which confronts our Empire in this year of Grace. It is beset in every quarter of the globe. On the Atlantic, on the Pacific, in Europe, in Asia, and in Africa, from the Arctic Ocean to Australia, our Empire and her Allies are risking their very existence for our freedom and for the betterment of the human race.

The story of the British Empire is unique in the annals of history in that it strives for a higher standard of living for the people within its confines. This is a very different ambition from that held by the Empires of earlier days. Rome and Carthage held colonies only to be exploited for the benefit of Rome and Carthage. The successful government of India alone is enough to differentiate our Empire from anything which has preceded it. Those who know its story best know through what travail it has passed to reach its present greatness. Expansion has never figured as an object of ambition, but often has presented itself as an obligation of duty. Devotion to duty has been the dominant note in the lives of sailors, soldiers and airmen. Tales of gallantry, chivalry, bravery and courage are a commonplace to a Britton. Names like that of Fogarty of the "Jarvis Bay" will live forever, and daily there are being performed by our men deeds of equal bravery, the story of which will be known to comparatively few. Our men are acting true to type. They are following the traditional Anglo Saxon urge toward freedom. This freedom can be purchased only at a terrific cost in labour, in danger and in lives. This is the lesson that we are now learning, and we must never forget it. Our Empire can be maintained only by the devoted courage endurance and self-sacrifice of every subject of our King.

The Regent then made reference to the death of three valued members, Mrs. Elizabeth Legate, Mrs. Augusta and Mrs. Eleanor Holman, who will be missed and long remembered. She also made commendatory remarks regarding the reports, the work of the committees and of the various officers.

Secretary's Report

Mrs. J. A. Lawson, assistant secretary, reported on the Chapter's activities for the year ending Feb. 28. These were grouped under the following subjects: Empire Study; Empire work in India; Chapter Educational Secretary; Acting Provincial Educational Secretary; Finance Committee; Card Committee; Press and Publicity; War Work.

In the latter important category were listed the following activities:

Cent-a-Day-Fund— A voluntary contribution from the members of the Chapter. From April 1, 1941, to February 1, 1942, the sum of $108.79 was raised—a total of $309.-20 since its inception in February, 1940.

Camp Libraries— Magazines and books have been supplied to the Legion Home, Charlottetown, and shipments have gone regularly to Halifax, Saint John and Newfoundland.

Navy League Committee — 700 knitted comforts were shipped to the ports of Halifax and Saint John for the men of the merchant marine. Five jerkins to the port of Saint John and 5 jerkins to the corvette "Charlottetown". Magazines and papers were collected and taken to the local R. C. N. V. R. barracks.

Wool Committee— Almost 1,000 articles have been knitted by members during the last year. With the exception of 7 pairs of socks, which were sent as gifts to R. A. F. boys in our Provincial Sanatorium, these have been forwarded to the various services.
