The Lovable Fragrance

In what more perfect way can the vivacity of youthful beauty find expression than in the winsome breath of the Yardley Lavender? In all the hundred and sixty years since the good Mr. Yardley first rejoined Society with it, there has not come another perfume of such gay young charm—a fragrance of such soothing solace to the weary and the sorry and the sick.

Don't you love this little rig? It's so practical and smart for early fall wear! And into the bargain it will easily slip under a fall or winter coat, later on.

There's a cunning little blouse, with pleated frilling, which you can buy ready, send to be pleated or pleat or gaufer yourself—for there's very little of it! And the jacket doesn't hide it either, for it's scalloped out at the neck on purpose.

This little rig is stunning in a woolen material, say blue or green, with organdie for the blouse. It can also be carried out in tweed with a

Folly of Parents Who Drive Their Daughters Into Early Marriage by Their Tyranny— Shall Childless Couple Adopt Baby?— Loyal Sweethearts

Dear Miss Dix—I am 17, but I never have the privileges that other 17-year-olds have. All the girls of my age in my town go around with boys and have wonderful times, but I am never allowed to go out anywhere. My mother and father won't even let a boy bring me home from the show, and every time I go to see a girl they put me through a questionnaire as if they were a judge and jury and I were a criminal. Of course, I slip off and go riding with boys, but they would have a fit if they found it out. There is a boy whom I think I love, whom I meet on the sly. He wants me to run off and marry him. Would you do it to get away from home and have some liberty? MAYBELLE.

Answer: No, Maybelle. Don't run off with a boy you don't know well enough even to be certain of your feelings about him, in order to get away from a tyrannical home, because the chances are that that would be just jumping out of the frying pan into the fire. There isn't much freedom in marriage. A wife has to stay put, and you would find that a husband could ask you more questions about where you had been and what you had done and whom you had seen than even your mother and father can.

Furthermore, a wife has very little liberty to go around and enjoy her good-looking boys. She has to stay at home and cook and wash and sew and do all the household work, and if she so much as looks at a sheik husband is green-eyed over it and raises ructions. So don't imagine that you will better your condition by getting married.

But one could weep over the stupidity of parents such as yours, who, in trying to protect their daughters, are pushing them into the very arms of danger, and in trying to save their girls are taking the surest way to ruin them. For to be too strict with girls is a more fatal policy than to be too lenient. To try to keep them prisoners is worse than to turn them loose without let or hindrance.

There are many parents like yours, Maybelle, good, conscientious fathers and mothers who love their children and are anxious for their welfare. They see many young persons running wild and doing things they should not do, and they are determined to save their own girls from committing the follies that these other girls do. So they swing to the opposite extreme of the lax parents and make their daughters virtual prisoners in their homes.

And the pity of it is that they are not progressive enough to see that there has been a revolution of youth and that the whole status of the young girl has been changed, and that you cannot deal with a self-supporting modern girl as her parents did with the dependent, helpless little girl who had no life. Nor do they see that the modern girl who works in the outside world is as sophisticated at 17 and better able to take care of herself as her mother was at 25.

Nor are they wise enough to realize that forbidden pleasures are ever the sweetest, and that no girl is so boy-crazy as the one who is never permitted to speak to a boy nor that if you lock a girl up in a room she is sure to crawl out at the window. Nor do they realize that youth must have the pleasures that belong to it, and if it cannot get them honestly it will steal them.

Certainly any girl of 17 in these days is old enough to have dates, and go about with boys to all decent places of amusement, and her parents have no right to deny her this privilege. That they should know with whom she goes and where she goes and that they should put a reasonable limit upon the time she should be home at night, is perfectly obvious. No girl will resent being bound with these restrictions if father and mother enter into her pleasures and show her that they want her to have a good time, but the sort of good time a nice girl should have.

It is a criminal thing for parents not to make their girls' boy friends welcome in their homes because it is the only chance they have of getting acquainted with the boys, and finding out what sort of company their girls are keeping. And no parents can do their daughter a deadlier wrong than to deprive her of the background of a home. It is a girl's greatest protection for no man treats the girl whom he visits in her home with the lack of respect he shows to the little flapper that he picks up on the street, who has no one to look after her, no one to whom he must account for the way he treats her and the places to which he takes her.

Girls will be girls. They will have boy friends and dates. They will go to dances and places of amusement, with their parents' knowledge and consent if the parents are reasonable, without it if the parents are unreasonable. So it is up to the fathers and mothers to decide whether their Sadies and Mamies shall go around with nice, clean boys they know, or sneak off with some blind date who may take them God knows where.

So wake up parents. This is 1930, not 1876. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Here is a question which my husband and I can't decide, and that is whether we should adopt a baby or not as we will never have any children of our own. I am by myself so much and am very lonesome and I feel that I shall go mad if I cannot have a little child to care for. I believe I could rear a child and love it as if it were my own. What is your advice? MRS. C. E. H.

Answer: If you have that longing for a child, by all means adopt one and I feel very sure that it will bring a great happiness to you and make your home bright and cheerful. Don't be afraid you won't love it. My observation is that persons are crazier over adopted children than they are over their own, perhaps because no one adopts a child except those in whom the maternal and paternal passion is developed to the highest degree.

Certainly no human being can do a nobler act, or one that is more far-reaching in its consequences for good, than to take a poor little nameless, homeless, loveless child and give it a place in the world, and the love and tenderness of a father and mother that fate has denied it. It means the changing of a whole life. It means the giving of a child a background it could not otherwise have, the blessing of being raised in a home instead of an institution, the sweetness of having personal affection instead of the loneliness of having no human ties and it means the opening of the doors of opportunity to one to whom they were shut.

Don't let people scare you off from adopting a child by warning you that it may turn out badly, or it may not be grateful to you. That is a chance that you would have to take even with your own children. There are black sheep even in the best families, as well as white lambs. And, anyway, it is a fifty-fifty proposition because there is just as much a chance that your adopted child may turn to be a joy and a credit to you and the comfort of your old age.

So get your baby, Mrs. C. E. H., and be happy. It is a great and unselfish work to which you set your hand when you adopt a child. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young man and have my own business, but things

Happenings of the Week

Good things many, bad things few. With little sad things sifted through. Plenty of sunshine to dry away. The tears that come from day to day. Cool, crisp winds, balmy air. Strength and vim to do and dare; Wealth if we earn it, health if we try; Courage to live, courage to die; Faith to keep us from going wrong; Hope that sings an eternal song; Charity toward our fellow-men. Power to help them up again; Hours of pleasure, home of rest. Love, of life's rare gifts the best; Smiles and handclaps that inspire New purpose every day. Divine desire; Opportunities every day. Every step along life's way. Oh, life is full and life is free— God's own gift to you and me.

Mrs. D. J. Riley has returned from a most enjoyable visit to New Mexico, Oregon, California and Texas.

Regretful farewells were said this week to Mrs. (Dr.) S. R. Jenkins who left yesterday morning for Montreal to spend the winter with her daughters who are now pleasantly located there. She was accompanied by Miss Stephanie who will be sincerely missed in the younger social circles.

Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Smallwood are being welcomed home from a three weeks visit to Montreal.

The woman who likes to be a bit different will—if she has an ebony or very dark mahogany hair, up-holster it in green and white striped sateen—the stripes at least an inch wide.

Mrs. C. C. Thompson of this city is at present in Montreal where her mother, Mrs. W. W. Stanley is quite ill. Many old friends here will hope for her early return to good health.

The closing tea for the season of 1930 at the Golf Club takes place this afternoon when the tea hostesses will be Mrs. Harold Palmer, Miss Ruth Hertz, Miss Doris Gill, Miss Jean Miller, Miss Ruth Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Campbell, of Summerside, visited Montreal last week en route to California, where they will spend the winter. They spent a day in Ottawa, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Linnell, and will stop over at several places en route.

Two former well known and prominent citizens of Charlottetown were laid in their last resting place here this week, Mrs. Milton Davison of Belleville, Ont., and Mr. R. K. Jost, of Jamaica Plains, Mass., for many years a leading merchant of this city. They are both pleasantly remembered by numerous friends for their acts of kindness and charity.

Mrs. F. S. Wilkins and her mother, Mrs. Stewart, have gone down to Florida where the latter purposes spending the winter months.

Over four hundred callers paid their respects to Mrs. W. R. Aitken, Wednesday afternoon at her lovely home 35 Longworth Avenue, on the occasion of her post-nuptial reception. In the drawing room, where exquisite roses lent a charm of color and perfume the bride was assisted in receiving by her mother, Mrs. Ira Shaw, and the groom's sister, Mrs. Ernest Champion. The ushers to the dining-room, where Mrs. George Richards and Mrs. L. D. Murray poured, and Miss Anna Mair cut the ices, were Mrs. Hal Bourke, Miss Kathleen McLean. The door was prettily attended by Misses Rhea McMillan and Daulphie McLean. Those dispensing hospitality were Miss Katherine McKenzie, Miss Ruth Rogerson, Miss Florence McKenzie, Miss Mary Reid, Miss Jennie Hardy, Miss Marjorie Cox, Miss Annie McPhee, Miss Lena Whitehead, Miss Ella Saint, Miss Miriam Shaw, Miss Mary Florence McKenzie. The color scheme in the dining-room was exquisitely carried out with yellow carysanthemums and in other rooms mauve mums were effectively arranged.

The continued indisposition of Supt. J. D. McNutt of the Island Division of the C. N. R., has made it necessary for him to seek a milder climate for the winter months, and with Mrs. McNutt and family, he leaves early next month for Florida where it is hoped he will find renewed health.

Mrs. (Dr.) J. S. Jenkins was hostess at a delightful masquerade dance on Tuesday at Upton Farm in honor of her sister-in-law Miss Stephanie Jenkins and other friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Monaghan Montreal, who have been visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Monaghan, 193 Weymouth Street, left on return this morning. This is Mrs. Monaghan's first visit to Charlottetown and during her short stay she made many warm friends.

Miss Donald Macaulay, daughter of Mrs. Olive Macaulay, was hostess at a party and entertained a number of her little friends at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Edward Wing, Clinton Corners, New York, with whom she is spending the winter, it being Donald's tenth birthday. The color scheme was orange and black in keeping with the Halloween spirit. The dining room was beautifully decorated and a feature of the evening was a large birthday cake. The evening was greatly enjoyed with games and music, after which delicious refreshments were served. Many lovely gifts were received. Donald's mother who has been visiting in New York was present. Mrs. J. A. Rowe, Charlottetown is the grandmother of Miss Donald.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Andrew of Gladstone, Michigan, are among the visitors coming to attend the fox show, and they are being cordially welcomed by their friends. While here they are the guests of Mrs. Andrew's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith.

Mrs. F. P. Taylor left yesterday morning on a visit to her son Mr. R. N. Taylor, and Mrs. Taylor, Metcalf Avenue, Westmount, P. Q.

Mrs. H. T. Begg and daughter Miss Jean, of Summerside, P. E. I., were the guests of her mother, Mrs. Robert Keith of New Glasgow, N. S., over the week end. Miss Helen Begg, of the teaching staff of Edgemoor School Windsor, was also with her mother during her visit.

Mrs. M. W. Wood and daughter Helen have returned home from Cumberland County, N. S., where they spent the week end with the former's sister, Mrs. C. T. Shipley. While there they attended a piano recital given by Miss Velma Leona Wood which proved to be a decided success.

Mr. H. T. Begg, entertained very delightfully at bridge for a number of her friends on Wednesday afternoon and evening at her home on Central Street, Summerside.

Mrs. (Dr.) J. Claude Simpson gave a charming bridge party of five tables on Thursday evening at her home in Summerside for a number of her friends.

Mrs. Lloyd Lewis was hostess last Saturday evening at a select bridge party at her home on Notre Dame Street, Summerside. Dainty refreshments were served at the conclusion of play.

Gleaming hair

The way modern hair dressers accentuate your hair by lovely lines and contours makes it important to keep the hair in perfect condition.

Now, millions know the quickest way to give the hair new life and lustre; to bring out its natural color, is with Danderine. It is so easy to use; you simply moisten your brush with it each time you arrange your hair.

Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; stops falling hair; puts the scalp in the pink of condition. It helps the hair grow long, silky, abundant; gives it more lustre than brilliantine; it makes the hair easy-to-arrange; holds it in place. Waves look nicer; stay in longer when "set" with Danderine.

Mrs. Florrie Lefurgy of Victoria, B. C., who has been visiting in Summerside the guest of Miss Hannah Small, is now in the city visiting her mother, Mrs. Bealstro.

Her many friends in Charlottetown will regret to learn of the illness of Miss Georgina Pope in Halifax. Her cousin Dr. Jenkins left by the Hochelaga yesterday afternoon to visit her.

Crying Babies Are Sickly Babies

The well child does not cry. He is laughing and happy all the time. Baby's cry of distress is the only means he has of telling the mother or nurse he is ill. Mother, you can keep your little ones well and happy by giving them Baby's Own Tablets—the safe and efficient remedy for all childhood ailments.

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative. They sweeten the stomach; regulate the bowels and thus banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and allay the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth. They are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. Should one ever address a wedding invitation to "Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Family"?

A. No; the words "and family" are no longer used. A separate invitation should be sent to each member of the family.

Q. Should a woman wait for her escort while he pays the taxi fare, or should she walk on?

A. She should wait.

Q. Is there any ceremonious social functions that can be held at about four o'clock in the afternoon?

A. Yes; women sometimes have formal luncheons at four o'clock.

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know about Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour-belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

A teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting "Book of Useful Information." It will be sent you FREE. Write The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., Windsor, Ontario.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.
