SPENDING STRENGTH - Expenditure of energy, which you may not have to spare, is even more foolhardy than letting money burn a hole in your pocket, say the doctors.

Extravagance is never more dangerous than when it wears out reserves of physical strength. The medical authorities say that, with health as with money, you can't pay out all the time; you must put something to your account, if both ends are to meet.

Canadians are urged to live wisely and moderately, in order to build health they can bank upon.

"WHISTLE STOP", SEETHING DRAMA OF SMALL TOWN

A small town, a country fair, a shady nightclub are the settings for "Whistle Stop." A girl who is too beautiful and too knowing; a neer-do-well with a pocket full of pride; the ruthless and wealthy owner of the local nightclub; and a bartender with a disreputable past are the chief characters in this tale of love and violence.

George Raft stars as Kenny Veech, the town loafer with a chip on his shoulder. He is in love with Mary played by Ava Gardner. Runner-up in the triangle is Lew Lentz, sophisticated and wealthy owner of the nightclub, the Flamingo.

Mary in love with Kenny but resentful of his "the world owes me a living" attitude, does all her waiting with Lew. Kenny, however, is not stung into giving up a pool table for an office desk. He merely gets sullen. And Lew, furious at being thwarted by a lazy do-nothing, good-for-nothing, gets dangerous.

The dynamite is fired by Lew's bartender, Gito, played by Victor McLaglen. Gito is not an ordinary bartender. He is in debt to Lew for having pulled him out of a jam with the police. Never allowed to forget his "obligation," Gito's hatred boils higher and higher.

A crony of Kenny's, Gito figures that to "liquidate" and rob Lew would solve everything for both himself and Kenny. He inveigles Ken into the plan, and the stage is set.

The yearly carnival, which always forks over a sizeable rental to the nightclub owner, is due in town. Each year, the night the carnival pulls out, Lew takes his money to the station and catches the train to Detroit, where he deposits his profits. That, Gito figures, is the best time for their plan.

The bartender takes care of the details. But although going along with him, Kenny's mind isn't made up. On the night of their plan his indecision disrupts the situation completely. Everything backfires in their faces. The story plunges from violence to violence and Kenny, who is innocent, finds himself fleeing the law.

Mr. Leo Coyle offered to put up a trophy for the best Maritime team that was composed only of resident hockey players. The Big Four and Cape Breton League composed largely of tourists would not be eligible for such competition.

CANCER TOLL - The equivalent of a sizeable Canadian city, or nearly 200,000 persons, died of cancer in the United States and Canada in 1946, it is estimated in health circles.

One medical authority is on record with the statement that the real tragedy in these figures lies in the fact that a least one-third of these deaths could have been prevented. He declares that this large percentage died because the sufferers failed to suspect cancer symptoms in the first place, and did not seek the early medical advice, diagnosis and treatment essential to successful conquest of cancer.

KING OF HERRING SAID SEA SERPENT HALIFAX, April 20 - (CP) - If anyone would like to cast an eye on a sea serpent they wouldn't have much luck off the coast of Nova Scotia.

Of course there are occasional reports from fishermen that the mysterious creatures were sighted - but there has been no proof of their actual appearance since 1984.

In that year seafarers who believed in sea serpents were jubilant. An eminent scientist and fishery authority had supported their claim to a "real" serpent.

The professor cited an old sailor from Nova Scotia who related how a great serpent with a head like a horse and a five-foot neck came over the side of his schooner. It was, he said, shot by more spirited crew members.

The professor said: "That description tallies in many ways with descriptions of all known fish, the scientific name of which is Raja leasqueles Glesne."

"This astonishing beast has been captured at widely separated points, from New Zealand to the most northerly Scandinavian waters."

"They are normally denizens of the ocean depths, but occasionally they are cast to the surface by some disturbance."

TEACHERS' SALARIES

explained that under the new set-up a contribution was not required. He maintained that a mistake had been made when the Government started the fund, by paying annuities out of it to some who had paid nothing in.

Hon. Dr. MacMillan demanded the minutes. Mr. Hughes said his reference was to some who had not paid for some time afterwards. He did not mention any names.

Dr. MacMillan said it was explained to the teachers that the fund was not actuarially sound. According to the Provincial Treasurer, it will take $900,000 to make the fund sound, but the actuary asked the Government to contribute $200,000 and pay $15,000 a year, and raise the teachers' percentage of contributions. He maintained that the drain on the fund did not originate in the early years of its establishment.

Mr. Hughes argued to the contrary, and there was some debate on this subject.

"Although you are advised by the actuary to pay $15,000 yearly into this fund you are not doing it," said Dr. MacMillan. Mr. Hughes said that was the case.

Mr. R. R. Bell said there was another actuarial scheme which was presented by leading representatives of the teachers, which the Government apparently turned down. The House should have both plans before it in order to vote intelligently on the subject. In this connection he quoted from a resolution passed by the P.E.I. Teachers' Federation, which reads as follows:

Teachers' Resolution Whereas, in an Actuarial Survey of the Teachers' Superannuation Fund conducted last year, it was found that our Pension Fund is not actuarially sound;

And, whereas certain proposals of the Board of Governors of the Prince Edward Island Teachers' Federation were incorporated into a Bill which was to have been presented to the Provincial Legislature last year;

And, whereas, it has been learned on good authority that the Provincial Treasury Board have rejected the Bill referred to above, in favour of an alternative plan of their own;

And, whereas, this alternative plan does not meet with the approval of the teachers;

Therefore, be it resolved that we urge the Minister of Education and the members of his Government:

(1) To table in the Provincial Legislature the report of the actuarial survey made by Mr. Sheppard;

(2) To present to the Provincial Legislature the Pension Bill as prepared last year by the following committee: Mr. L. W. Shaw, Mr. Randolph Carruthers, Mr. W. E. Massey, Dr. G. D. Steel, Mr. H. W. Yeo, and Mr. P. S. Bradley.

And, be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Minister of Education, and all the members of the Provincial Legislature.

PUBLIC UTILITIES BILL Hon. Mr. Hughes moved the House into committee, with Mr. E. Cullen in the chair, on an Act to amend the Public Utilities Act.

The bill amends the Board to include and take action where service rendered or the supply of any commodity provided by any public utility is interrupted or is likely to be interrupted. The Board is empowered to certify its findings to the Lieutenant Governor in Council, who may declare a condition of emergency respecting the public utility.

Section 2 provides that "if in any case the supply of electric energy from any public utility to its customers is interrupted for any continuous period exceeding fifteen minutes (except in cases approved by the Board) and the Board, upon investigation, finds that such interruption of service was due to the exercise of the public utility, it shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five hundred dollars for each interruption, and if such penalty is not paid within fifteen days after the imposition thereof the Board may proceed to collect such penalty in the manner prescribed by the recovery of amounts assessed under this Act; provided always that the imposition of such penalty by the Board shall not be construed as affecting any right of action which any person may have for any loss or damage sustained by reason of the stoppage of electric energy."

Rural Beautification On motion of Mr. MacDonald the House went into committee with Mr. Morley Bell in the chair on an Act to incorporate the Prince Edward Island Beautification Contest Society. The incorporators named in the bill are Ernest W. Johnstone, Walter E. Darby, James A. McGregor and their successors.

The objects of the society are: (a) The fostering and encouragement of Rural Beautification; (b) Encouragement of farmers to improve farm homes and premises so as to make the same more attractive to the young people growing up in rural communities; (c) To improve the values of farm properties by encouraging well-kept, well-fenced and well-painted home premises; (d) To provide incentives for improvement of Rural Schools and Community Halls; (e) To promote community interest in such a project as to raise the general level of social, cultural and intellectual development of the members of the community; (f) To promote tourist travel by making Prince Edward Island a province of rural beauty and attractiveness.

In the promotion of such rural beautification, the Society is authorized to provide individual, community, district, county and provincial prizes for progressive improvement of rural properties; To provide assistance for home improvement by arranging to secure trees and ornamental shrubbery at a reasonable cost to contestants; to expend moneys for fostering clean-up campaigns on farms and in rural communities generally; to provide assistance for progressive improvements to farm properties so as to raise the general tone of the community; to promote contests and other means of inducement to farmers to embark on individual schemes for the beautification and improvement of premises; to expend moneys advertising the benefits from rural beautification; and the development of the Society's program or endeavours in that behalf; to expend moneys providing literature and plans showing how improvement can be made; to expend moneys in photographic and other visual means showing to dual homes and communities; to accept donations in cash or services for the promotion of any or all of the purposes above stated.

The bill was reported agreed to. Evening Session

On motion of Premier Jones the House went into committee with Mr. MacKenzie in the chair on an Act to amend the Legislative Assembly and the president of the Executive Council. For many years the Premier acted as president of the Executive Council without salary, as did also the chairman of the Treasury Board.

The bill was reported agreed to. Premier Jones moved the House into committee with Mr. Morrissey in the chair on an Act to amend the Public Departments Act. It provides for the establishment of a Department of Industry and Natural Resources, which it was explained is intended to take the place of the present Department of Reconstruction. Reported agreed to.

On motion of Premier Jones, the House went into committee with Mr. McGowan in the chair on an Act to amend the Interpretation Act. This Act also makes provision for a Minister of Industry and Natural Resources. Reported agreed to.

The House then proceeded on the adjourned debate on motion for Supply.

delivered from a small room adjoining the Queen's study in government house.

In measured tones, she said she was "thinking especially today of all young men and women who were born about the time of myself and have grown up like me in the terrible and glorious years of the Second World War."

"Now that we are coming into manhood and womanhood it is surely a great joy to us all to think we shall be able to take some of the burden off the shoulders of our elders who have fought, worked and suffered to protect our childhood."

"I am sure you will see our difficulties in the light that I see them - as a great opportunity for you and me."

"If we all go forward together with unswerving faith, a high courage and quiet heart, we shall be able to make this ancient commonwealth... even a grander thing - more free, more prosperous, more happy and a more powerful influence for good in the world - than it has been in the greatest days of our forefathers. "I declare before you all that my whole life, whether it be long or short, shall be devoted to your service and the service of our great imperial family to which we all belong. "But I shall not have the strength to carry out this resolution alone, unless you join in it with me as I now invite you to do. "I know that your support will be unfailingly given." Only Unfavorable Comment (The only unfavorable comment published in Britain on Elizabeth's birthday was contained in the Communist Daily Worker, which said it meant no personal disrespect but that she was not qualified to lead the empire in the present-day world. "What a reflection on the institution of hereditary monarchy it is that the titular headship of the British state should descend to a person whose political and intellectual qualifications for a great public office are no more than those of any wealthy country squire's daughter brought up in the most limited Victorian way," the Daily Worker said. (Other London newspapers published special articles and pictures praising the Princess.) The speech was broadcast in every service of the BBC and relayed throughout the commonwealth, the United States, Latin America, Hawaii, the Philippine Islands and the Far East. Princess Elizabeth quoted William Pitt as saying that England had saved herself by her exertions and would save Europe by her example. "But in our time," she declared, "we may say that the British Empire has saved the world first and has now to save itself after the battle is won." During the tour of South Africa the Royal Family had everywhere "been taken to the heart of the people and made to feel that we are just as much at home here as if we had lived among them all our lives." "That is the great privilege belonging to our place in the world-wide commonwealth - that there are homes ready to welcome us in every continent of the earth." Earlier Princess Elizabeth took the biggest parade of her life when she reviewed more than 7,000 troops and veterans. She wore a soft stone-colored dress and hat and was received with tremendous cheers from the vast crowd. As each detachment came past she acknowledged its salute with a smile and a nod. After her broadcast she watched a fireworks display and attended a private ball for young people. MAYOR SEEKS MATE FOR HUSKY MARINE BURY, England, April 20 - (CP) - The Mayor of Bury (turning his mayoral parlor into a temporary matrimonial agency - all because a 200-pound marine told him he wanted a wife.
