646 Pelts Entered In 7th Annual Show

Classification of a total of 646 pelts—largest in the history of the show—was completed last night at the Summerside High School auditorium and the stage was set for the start of judging at the seventh annual P E I. fox pelt show. As soon as the light becomes good enough this morning Mr. Douglas Bell of Carleton, the judge, will begin his work.

It had been announced Tuesday night that judging would begin yesterday but it was not until late in the day that the classification committee completed its work.

Judging will start with platinums, platinum silvers, pearl platinums and white faces, instead of standard silvers which originally were slated for first placing. The change was made in order to permit more time for the preparing for shipment of the platinums to the Montreal Fur Auction Sales Co., for inclusion in the January sales later this month.

Show officials said that the entries included 237 standard silvers; 160 white marked silvers; 122 platinum silvers; 116 platinums; 18 pearl platinums and three in a novelty class.

"DESTINATION TOKYO" OPENS AT CAPITOL THEATRE

—Warner Bros., showed the American people the heroic life of the U. S. Merchant Marine in "Action in the North Atlantic." It presented "Air Force," outdoing the courage of our air heroes Now, at the Capitol Theatre, the same company offers "Destination Tokyo", combining the drama of the first picture with the action of the second. The United States submarine, "Copperfin" joins the distinguished company of its predecessors, the Liberty ship, "S S. Sea Witch," and the Flying Fortress, "Mary Ann."

"Destination Tokyo" is a glorious tale retold, another of the stories coming out of this war that are more amazing than fiction. Starring Cary Grant and John Garfield the cast constitutesa superb, utterly convincing portrayal of the kind of crew that it takes to set out in a submarine and wreak havoc on enemy shipping. With Alan Hale, John Ridgely and Dane Clark among the better known members of the cast, the acting throughout is straightforward and sincere.

NEWSMEN PROTEST

After the BBC reported a United States 1st Army advance on the northern flank of the German salient in Belgium, A. S. H. censorship ruled that correspondents might quote the BBC to this effect, but would neither permit them to quote Supreme Headquarters nor to confirm nor deny it on their own account.

A heated discussion followed, during which several correspondents, both British and American, joined in protesting against apparent favoritism of the BBC by censorship.

Marshal Yarrow, Reuters News Agency correspondent, said: "If BBC runs this place let us know and we can pack up and go to London and listen to BBC."

An hour after these protests, and almost 11 hours after the original BBC announcement, A.S.H. issued official information that the 1st Army had opened an attack.

The A.S.H. chief censor said he was unable to say how BBC had been permitted to broadcast the 1st Army's attack while correspondents at Headquarters were prevented from writing about it, but he promised to investigate.

New Jersey Police Seek Grave Robbers

SOUTH AMBOY, N.J., Jan. 3—(AP)—Police sought today grave robbers who battered down the bronze doors of a mausoleum in St. Mary's cemetery here during a pouring rain Monday night and ripped open a casket containing the body of Mgr. James J. Coan, Roman Catholic priest who died in 1926.

The lid of the casket was pried open and the body thrust aside while the grave robbers tore the lining in the upper left hand corner apparently searching for some specific object. Silver shoe buckles and a silver crucifix in the coffin were untouched as were silver memorial plates on the priest's coffin and on two other caskets in the vault.

Rev. Francis Gunner curate of St. Mary's Church said so far as he could discover from questioning members of the late Monsignor's family nothing of great value had been interred with the body.

Aluminum Co. Head Says Report Entirely Untrue

NEW YORK, Jan. 3— (CP) —E. K. Davis, president of Aluminium Limited Montreal today described as "entirely untrue—entirely a misstatement" a charge by Lawrence Apsey, special assistant to the United States Attorney General who said yesterday that a Canadian subsidiary of the Aluminum company of America had aided Germany's re-armament program.

Mr. Davis listened in his New York office while the statement was read to him over the phone and then made his brief comment. He declined to discuss the matter.

Mr. Apsey, chief of the anti-trust division's New York field office, who was seeking reversal of a district court decision clearing the Aluminum company of America of anti-trust charges said that Aluminum limited, a Canadian "business enterprise owned by Alcoa's stockholders, played an important part in rearming the third reich and hampering its opponents" by membership in the Swiss incorporated "Alliance Aluminum Company."

LONDON, — (CP) — Maj.-Gen. Rt. Hon. Sir Lovick Bransby Friend, 80, whose military career extended over 40 years has died in hospital here.

Meeting Of Poultry Industry Committee Discusses Program

A meeting of the executive of the P.E.I. Poultry Industry Committee was held recently at the offices of the Department of Agriculture. After the reading of the minutes of the annual meeting held on Oct. 11, the chairman, President D. A. MacDonald, Glenfinnan, outlined the purpose of the meeting and also expressed his regret that due to illness he was unable to represent the Province at the meeting of the Producers Consultative Committee in November.

The following were present: Messrs. Walter R. Shaw, L. McDonald, Fred G. Ward, Heber MacPhail, Donald A. McDonald, B. F. Tinney, Mrs. E. S. Rose, Guy Kennedy, Walter G. Blennerhassett.

The chairman asked Mr. Walter G. Blennerhassett to report on the meetings of the Producers Consultative Committee held at Ottawa and prospects regarding 1946 egg contract. Mr. Blennerhassett gave a full and complete report on these meetings. Considerable discussion centred around the plans to supply the British Ministry of Food with shell eggs in quantity in the fall months of 1945, and the majority expressed the opinion that a real effort should be made to supply England with eggs during the fall months.

Maritime Meeting

The executive then discussed the proposed initial meeting of the Maritime Poultry Council which will be held at Moncton on January 30 and 31 and the delegates to the meeting were elected. It was felt that much good would come out of the meeting of the Maritime Provinces in discussing the problems that will confront the poultry industry during 1945, 1946 and the post-war period and that by anticipating these problems and taking steps to meet them, the future prosperity of the industry could be protected.

The executive, who are also the finance committee, discussed ways and means of securing funds to finance the committee's activities during 1946. All were optimistic that with promises already received and the drive for funds that would be made, the budget would soon be achieved.

It was suggested that all those interested in the poultry industry receive notices of general meetings and minutes of all meetings held.

The poultry meat situation was fully discussed and warm appreciation was expressed to the poultry services for the work done in arranging exports to United States.

Mr. Blennerhassett gave a review of the prospects for the 1946 poultry meat crop and pointed out that the United States will take all the surplus poultry Canada will have, and that every effort should be made to finish poultry on the farm so that in 1946 there will be a minimum of low grade poultry.

The chairman in his closing remarks stated that he felt the dustry had many problems to face and that it would take leadership and close co-operation between the poultry industry groups in each province to steer the industry in the next few years, and that all should co-operate by lending their full support to the Poultry Industry Committee.

Cripps Has Plan For Post-War Germany

LONDON, Jan. 3 — (CP) — A broad policy for dealing with the Germans after the war—one under which war criminals would be punished but others would get a chance to be "treated as brothers" —was offered today by Sir Stafford Cripps, Minister of Aircraft Production.

In one of the most outspoken views of the treatment of post-war Germany and the Germans ever to come from a member of the Cabinet, Sir Stafford advocated a policy of "practical Christian idealism" for the post-war world whereby Germany would be disarmed and stripped of her war-making power but revenge would be ruled out.

In his address to the Baptist Union, he also called for a recasting of the boundaries of Europe "on a safer pattern", on one "more likely to bring peace and happiness to the people." He did not mention any specific boundary proposal, however.

May Review Call-Up Rules For Students

OTTAWA, Jan. 3 — (CP) —Regulations covering the calling up of university students for compulsory military service may be reviewed at an early date, Arthur MacNamara, director of National Selective Service, said today.

Mr. MacNamara said, as chairman of the Selective Service university advisory board, he was considering calling a meeting of the board, composed of representatives of Canadian universities, to consider present regulations "in the light of the existing situation in Europe."

Under existing regulations, university courses are divided into non-essential and essential categories for purposes of the call-up.

Among the essential courses are medicine, dentistry, engineering, applied sciences, architecture, agriculture, forestry, pharmacy, education, and specialized courses. If a student fails to make his grade in any year while following an essential course he is called for military training.

Students in the non-essential courses are not called up if they are in the upper half of their class standing.

Other regulations cover students outside university. Each province has supplied data showing what grades students should reach by the time they are 18 ½ years old. If a student has made his specified grades and intends to continue on to university he is not called up. Once he reaches university he comes under the regulations covering such institutions.

Turks To Break With Japanese

LONDON, Jan. 3 — (CP) —The Turkish Government, saying it was responding to the wishes of Britain and the United States, declared today its intention of breaking off diplomatic and economic relations with Japan next Saturday, the Ankara radio announced.

The broadcast from the Turkish capital said the decision had been approved unanimously by the Grand National Assembly after it heard an address by the Foreign Minister, Hasan Saka, who said "the Governments of the United States of America and Great Britain had expressed their desire" that the break be made.

Turkey broke off relations with Germany last August after months of Allied pressure. The rupture with Japan had been expected to follow at that time.

British Labor Group To Visit Russia

LONDON, Jan. 3 — (CP Reuters)—An official delegation from the British Labor Party will leave London at the end of February to visit the Soviet Union. This journey, now to take place after repeated postponements over nearly two years, represents the latest move by the British Labor movement to lay firm foundations on which to build a post-war international labor organization.

During the latter part of 1944 the Labor movement in Britain gave much attention to questions of international co-operation. The Dominions Labor Conference, which met in London in September, brought together leading representatives of the Socialist movements of Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Britain and agreement was reached that "international labor and socialist unity" was essential to the achievement of a new democratic world order.

Sees Maritimes Over-Governed, Under-Organized

TRURO, N.S. Jan. 3 — (CP) — Claiming that the Maritime Provinces were over-governed and unde-rorganized, Roderick Kenneay, editor-in-chief of the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal, told the Nova Scotia branch of the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists tonight that Canada had not yet found the practical solution for a happy and permanent agricultural industry.

Mr. Kennedy ,as the result of a recent three-months study of British agriculture used the war time organization of Britain's agriculture as an example for his conclusions, Britain, he said, had been able to increase its food production by more than 100 per cent in bulk of products by a combination of strict regimentation under the direction of democratic local authorities.

It would have been absolutely impossible, he said to have got the cooperation of the ultra-independent British farmers if the innumerable restrictions had been imposed on them direct from London. Every acre of land had to be used to its utmost and if a farmer did not use it, he would in the end be elected from his farm. Only his fellow farmers ,well acquainted with him and the potentialities of his land, could carry out such drastic measures without something like revolt.

Before the war, British agriculture had been largely a matter of grazing livestock on permanent pasture and buying cheap concentrates from abroad. The whole secret of Britain's increased production lay in the plowing up of much of the permanent pasture. Over 7,000,000 acres of it have been brought into tillage, a huge increase considering that only 11,800,000 acres were under tillage in 1939.

Because of their comparatively Mr. Kennedy believed that the Maritime Provinces, if they could organize themselves more logically, had enormous possibilities for advancement. They had had serious disadvantages as compared with Central Canada in the way the industrialization of the country had developed, but they also had special advantages of their own and he believed that if vigorous thought was given to make the utmost of those advantages the Maritime Provinces could not only get their disadvantages removed and overcome their sense of neglect but could give an example which the rest of Canada would be proud to follow.

Jewish Engineers In Suicide Raid

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 — (CP) — A group of 35 Jewish engineers lost their lives in a suicide action by destroying with dynamite a vast German rubber factory in Polish Silesia which was turning out tires for army vehicles being used against the Allies, the Polish Telegraph Agency reported today in a London dispatch.

A survivor, whose story has reached London through underground channels, said the action took place just before the start of the recent German offensive on the Western Front. In addition to the Jewish engineers, all the German supervisors and large nmmbers of Nazi workers were killed.

3,000 Small Farms Will Be Available For Veterans In '45

OTTAWA, Jan. 3 — (CP) — About 3,000 small land holdings across Canada are to be made available this year for veterans already discharged, Veterans' Minister Mackenzie said in a statement today.

It is planned if possible to construct new homes on these holdings during the year and a limited number of full-time farming units will be released in 1945 to meet the need of exceptional cases.

Large scale settlement under the Veterans' Land Act nas not been previously attempted because farm machinery and seasoned lumber have been in short supply. In addition there was a desire to protect the interests of the men who will be eligible for the benefits of the act but who are still overseas.

Mr. Mackenzie said that although the settlement program will be speeded up this year a large part of the acreage acquired for soldier settlement will be held in reserve for the men still overseas.

The act provides grants to full-time farmers who are qualified for such an undertaking and to city and other workers who wish a home on a small acreage of land outside the high taxation area. Assistance also is available to commercial fishermen who want to operate small land holdings in conjunction with their fishing business.

Handkerchief Crisis

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 — (AP) — There's a handkerchief crisis in Washington.

There are plenty for show but none for blow.

A quick survey of six drugstores (naturally you don't expect drugs but you ought to find handkerchiefs) two "five and tens," three men's haberdasheries and a department store disclosed that medium hankies have gone the way of alarm clocks and nylons.

The cheapest was 50 cents and from there the price went up ... way up to $2.50 for a slinky looking imported lace job.

Those $2.50 things, they're "just to look at," said the lady clerk.

Says F.D.R. Invents New Tricks in Poker

LONDON, Jan. 3 — (AP) — President Roosevelt is an expert poker player who has "invented several refinements of the game that are too much for some of his friends," a London Evening News columnist said today, quoting an unnamed United States Government employee just returned from Washington.

The columnist added that most American Generals in the European theatre are poker addicts and too good for their British opposite numbers. Lt.-Gen. Ira C. Baker, commander of the Mediterranean Allied Air Forces, "is unbeatable."
