JAMES CONNOLLY

To do justice to James Connolly, who won last year's Guardian Bicycle Road Race in 1 hour 6 min and 14.5 seconds and who came in last this year. The Guardian wishes its readers to know that Mr. Connolly rode contrary to the orders of his doctor, who forbid him using a wheel this year at all and he entered the race in a very poor condition as will be noted when his time this year was about 17 minutes behind last year's. The Guardian trusts that Mr. Connolly will be in better health for next year's race.

Such was the recent experience of a young man in Portland, Maine. He had a strange young woman had been going through this performance for several seconds, when his unwilling vis-a-vis staggered him by saying: "Well, hurry up! Which is it to be a waltz or a two-step."
