ASTER DAYS

September is the month for asters. Everywhere in the outdoors these golden days we are sure to find abundance of these the choicest of late summer flowers. To many people asters are called "Michaemas Daisies" and this name at once places them in their true place in the world of plants. Asters belong to largest of all botanical orders—the Compositae, or composite flowers, of which the well known daisy, the thistle, the sunflower, and the back-eyed susan are types.

The asters themselves are a very large group. In Eastern North America alone there are some 50 to 60 species. It requires expert botanical knowledge to distinguish some of these apart, for they look much alike. But fortunately for most of us who simply love wild flowers, many are easily recognized.

Some asters are large and showy, others small and inconspicuous. Among them there is a fair range of color. Several are plain white, a few are of a pale lavender tint, many are a delicate blue, others are rich violet and one or two are deep purple. Strange enough there are no wild red asters and although one solitary species is yellow, so unusual as this tint it has been placed in a group by itself and called the Golden aster.

Every one knows that wild plants have decided preference for the type of country where they grow. We have plants of the fields and of the woods; others which must have the driest of soil. This is called by scientists "habitat". The asters though closely related, each different species has its preferred locality. If we visit the low-lying swampy ground we will find the tall Purple-stemmed Aster or Swamp Aster abundantly. In the cool shady woods there are two species of Wood Aster, pale purple in color leaving the large rough heart-shaped leaves and green zig-zag stems. Along the neglected corners of the snake or stump fences where nature has her own way, there are two dainty slender little asters which might be confused, for their flowers are both pale blue but their leaves are quite different. These are the Heart-leaved, and the Arrow-leaved asters. Many grow on the open dry fields. Some pure white, as the Many-flowered Aster, so called because of all the species in this has the most flowers on its stems. And another, perhaps the most glorious of all this splendid family, is the New England Aster. This lovely plant grows tall and upright, its whole top becoming a mass of rich violet flowers, and so abundantly does it cover the fields that whole acres are covered with its exquisite purple glow. To many peo-

Finances of United Church Checked-up

WINNIPEG, Sept. 20.—Total amount of money contributed by members of the United Church of Canada in the past year was $2,324,532.23 while the disbursements were $2,326,609.78.

This fact was reported at the Ninth General Council of the United Church of Canada in a report made by the Finance Committee of which John J. Gibson of Toronto is Chairman and Rev. Dr. Rolaf Laird of Toronto is Secretary.

Contributions to the Missionary and Maintenance Fund totalled $1,476,800.64 which was added $848,255.64 from other sources, including interest, government grants, etc.

Disbursements for home and foreign missions, pensions, education, social service and war services accounted for the major part of the expenditure.

The report showed that contributions from pastoral charges and individuals in 63 of the 115 Presbyteries were increased.

A sum of $403,773 was received in bequests during the year and approximately 75 per cent of this amount has been credited to the various missionary reserves. These reserve funds, built up primarily by legacies, now stand at a total of $721,012.54. An increase of $33,294 in annuity gifts was also reported. The total of annuity gifts now stands at $365,717.

On the recommendation of the Finance Committee the Executive Council fixed the maximum expenditures for 1940 at $1,476,000, approximately the same as last year's estimate.

While it was admitted that more than $2,000,000 would be needed to carry on the work adequately, it has become a rule not to authorize expenditures from the Missionary and Maintenance Fund for any year in excess of the contribution of the previous year. However, it was decided to raise by $50,000 the budget for contributions from pastoral charges for 1940. A further advance of $50,000 will be set for 1941 and the additional amounts, if realized, will be applied on the accumulated deficit.

SPIRITUAL INFLUENCE SHOWS HEALTHY PROGRESS

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 20.—Spiritual movements in Canada revealed a heavy blow when the war broke out, but steadily there has come a regaining of the spiritual offensive, states a report given at the Ninth General Council of the United Church of Canada meeting in Augustine Church, Winnipeg. The report was one on evangelism and was prepared by the Board of Evangelism and Social Service.

The first eight months of 1939 showed healthy progress in the cause of evangelism in the United Church, but war shook interest in evangelism and disrupted the "Call to Advance" programme of the Church, instituted in 1936.

Reports of successful preaching missions were heard by Commissioners to General Council. Announcement was made that other preaching missions will be arranged in many large centres of Canada this autumn and winter.

Should Cultivate Voice Inflection

Men hate argumentative voices. The woman who speaks with that "and don't dare to contradict me" inflection is sure to scare off a prospective admirer.

So says a voice teacher who believes that seldom does one find a girl with sex appeal who does not have a pleasant speaking voice.

"Men hate the voice that runs on and on," she says. "You know, it starts—and Mary told me—'I know Mary Marsh—she's the girl who used to play tennis with Jack Mann he has a new job now—' So say a voice teacher mentioned. By the time the speaker is mentioned, the man is wondering how he can get out of the room or wishing he could interrupt with 'What DID Mary tell you?'

TOO POSSESSIVE

The vocal teacher thinks also that men hate the possessive voice. "The self assurance that by tone, manner and word gives out the impression of 'we,' implies a connection that most men resent and resist."

"They are equally annoyed by the too-eager-to-please voice. The girl who is trying too hard to please invariably gushes. Obviously, this is a mistake," the attractive voice teacher of effective speaking continued.

BABY TALK

Overworking the moment's fashionable cliché is a great mistake. "Don't say something like 'but definitely' every five minutes. Or call everybody within sight dearie, darling or honey. Furthermore, don't swear (not at all) or use so-called rough slang. No matter how much a man swears he doesn't really think that any woman should. "Most men shy away from baby talk," our informant concluded. "There may be some who still fall for the oh-you're-so-strong-and lam-so-helpless tone of voice, but generally speaking in these challenging days of 1940, the average man is suspicious of a clinging vine act."
