A TIME FOR SPORT.—The athletes of Kensington are already contemplating the inauguration of the season's sports. This is most commendable. While it is laudable to devote strict attention to work during working hours, it is just as praiseworthy to direct the mind towards some engaging and invigorating exercise during "recreative" spaces. Thus the whole being is mentally and physically developed, rendering the person the more able to discharge the spiritual duty. This constitutes true development and the community that cares for this concept of human advancement must have no fear for the development of the future. Hence, young ladies and young gentlemen just as soon as the bosom of mother earth has submitted to the mellowing influence of King Sol, see that the necessary media be provided and the programme for the summer series be developed.—Y.

While his duties at Kensington were very acceptably performed by Mr. E. Power, who also is a gentlemanly official. Mr. Matheson's genial company was conspicuously absent. How pleasant it is to transact business with the Christian gentleman. Any man who trains under or assists the agent in Kensington, Mr. W. H. Sackford, cannot fail to be efformated by his eminent personality, his universal efficiency, and his polite sociability. Few easy it is to act the gentleman as well as to function as the official.—Y.

WANT GOVERNMENT BUILDING.—Interest is again reviving in the matter of a Dominion Building for Kensington. No doubt the candidates offering for approval in the next Dominion election will not overlook this matter, and will come to the meeting at Kensington with a pocket full of letters from their respective readers faithfully promising immediate attention to this necessary work just so soon as the election is over. They can rest assured that this necessary acquisition to the town will be demanded, since the postal business of the town has surely outgrown the accommodations that were adequate thirty years ago, and the speed that age can furnish will need to be replaced by something more youthful. You may bluff all the people half the time, or half the people all the time, but you cannot bluff all the people all the time.—Y.

has a sort of roving commission in the old gold mining districts, calling at 21 points spread over a large area. These 21 points have a total membership of 39, giving an average membership to each of less than two. These points are "unanimous for Union." In the North Thompson district the same condition exists, in one case 17 preaching stations having a membership of 27.

In the Province of British Columbia we have 42 self-supporting congregations, says Mr. Thompson. "Twenty-seven congregations have voted against Union, and I do not think more than seven mission fields, so that we have 20—at least, 15—self-supporting congregations.

The Unionists, on the other hand, report 200 congregations in British Columbia, with 27 against Union. That is one of the most misleading statements that has ever been published. It is a paper strength that the Unionists have.

Prince Rupert, the only large city in Northern British Columbia has gone with us. Of the two cities on Vancouver Island, Nanaimo is with us, while in Victoria, where there are six congregations, four are with us and two are for Union. On the mainland, Chilliwick, another of the largest cities, has gone with us. In the City of Vancouver, I think we have at present three congregations, which have gone with us. St. John's and St. Andrew's went Union, but their minorities, which are uniting are so large that they will form one of the largest congregations in the City of Vancouver.

They are already contemplating building a church, and are just now waiting to get a minister. Chalmers' minority is worshipping in a Baptist church, and will be in a position to buy the Baptist church or some other. Collections in these churches have been so large as to warrant their going ahead.

Kamloops Church went Union by 130 to 80 or 89—I am not sure of the exact figures. The minister was Unionist and the minority had no one to help them. "We are going to pull out," they said, and they pulled out, and are now worshipping in the Kamloops Masonic Hall. I met with them there and they promised that if we could get them a minister they would give $1,800 a year at once. We were not able to get anyone for them at the time, and when I went back there two weeks later, on my way to Toronto, they said: "We will increase the stipend to $2,400. It is expected that Mr. Parrie, Kinella, who during the war was overseas, will go there."
