

EMIL NERLICH, TORONTO MERCHANT ARRESTED

ST. JOHN, Jan. 30.—Emil Nerlich, a well known Toronto importer of fancy goods, well known in St. John, is under arrest on the charge of high treason, and is held without bail. When he appeared before Magistrate Deane on Monday in charge of two plainclothes men the Magistrate asked:— "What's that man doing there outside the dock?" asked the Magistrate. "The dock's the place for him," continued the Magistrate. "He can't get bail. We have got to treat treason as treason." The accused was represented by G. W. Mason and G. F. Shepley. "You are charged that you did assist a public enemy at war with his Majesty in such war by any means whatsoever," read the Magistrate. "Not guilty," was the reply of the counsel. The defence was unable to go on and the adjournment was made. Mr. Nerlich and counsel took exception to the statements that he arrived in the city Saturday morning. They claim that he had been in the city since Wednesday. He went to Montreal, they say, Saturday, staying until Tuesday night. He has not been trying to keep away from the police. Nerlich is a naturalized Canadian. During the next few days Mr. Nerlich will be treated just as the other prisoners are. At the police station he was not out in the cells. He will be allowed to have meals sent to him. An application for bail was made for Mr. Justice Middleton, who was taking a case in the Non-Jury Court. Mr. Edward Bayly, representing the Attorney General, opposed the application, which was adjourned until today. (Charlottetown firms doing business with Nerlich recently received a confidential circular claiming that the firm was British and loyal, but the arrest of the proprietor has put a different complexion on the story.)

TO TALK TO EUROPE BY WIRELESS 'PHONE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The remarkable feat of telephonic communication between New York and San Francisco, demonstrated on Monday undoubtedly will be followed before the end of the year by a similar achievement with the wireless telephone according to Peter Cooper Hewitt, the inventor who says it soon will be possible to talk across the Atlantic by wireless telephone.

In the laboratory in the tower of Madison Square Garden, Mr. Hewitt gave the first demonstration of his invention to a reporter for The Times. It is an oscillator comprising a gas and vapor device and electrical connections suited for wireless telephony and telegraphy, by means of which he said it was possible to transmit messages to greater distances.

The vacuum tube and its electrical connections representing the receiving station in Mr. Hewitt's laboratory occupied the centre of the room. In the corner was a booth where were set up a transmitter and phonograph. "We have to use a phonograph," explained Mr. Hewitt, "because we're too busy to think up something to say when we're actually experimenting with the oscillator."

The sending station is equipped with an aerial swinging outside the window of the tower. The sounds are produced in the booth inside the laboratory and go out over the exterior aerials an adre received again over the exterior aerials. When the current was turned into the oscillator last night the vacuum tubes emitted violent rays usually seen in wireless stations the phonograph was started and through the receivers one could distinctly hear a phonographic declamation of Lincoln's Gettysburg speech. Musical selections were transmitted with equal success.

Mr. Hewitt said his experimentation had proved that articulation obtained through this instrument was even more perfect than that obtained over ordinary telephone wires. Its perfection will now overcome the necessity of having a telephone circuit. Circuits may be formed in part of air and wire.

"From my experience it will now be possible not only to operate over long distances wireless by telephone," said Mr. Hewitt, "but wireless operation over short distances may serve to feed the regular telephone system, thereby doing away with the necessity in districts where there are no wires at present."

Mr. Hewitt said he was gratified at the success with which transatlantic telephonic communication was established on Monday.

PAID TO SNIPER BRITISH OFFICERS

LONDON, Jan. 30.—The Manchester Guardian reports a remarkable speech delivered by Lieut. Gen. Sir Henry MacKinnon at a dinner in Manchester on Monday. Gen. MacKinnon related whose company in the trenches was much moved by a sniper who was located with great difficulty. He was shot finally, and when his body was removed an order was found on him deputing him to snipe British officers.

He had on his body particulars showing he had killed no fewer than 50 officers, and it was apparently a rule of the German War Office that a reward was given for each officer killed when the claim had been scrutinized and allowed. The sniper was required to state the exact position where the officer was killed and give particulars about his regiment and so on, and no byelaw was allowed until it had been tested by reference to casualty lists in the British newspapers.

In the case of this particular sniper 25 claims were allowed, for each of which he had received a reward of 50 marks (£12.50).

BACON AND EGGS NEW BRITISH ALLY.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—"Our other ally" is the name given to bacon and eggs by the soldiers of Kitchener's army. There is such an enormous consumption of this variety of provender that the food purveyors say it is one of the principal reasons for the increased price of these two food staples.

In some London boarding houses where two eggs and plenty of bacon have been served heretofore now only one egg and almost an unnoticeable amount of bacon are served.

RICH GERMAN MERCHANT ACCUSED FOR TREASON.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 30.—(Dispatch to The London Morning Post)—A sensation has been caused in commercial circles here by the news that Senator Poshel, the head of the great firm of L. Poshel and Co., has been arrested in Germany on a charge of high treason, being accused of trading with the enemy. He is being tried by court martial at Leipzig.

Herr Poshel is one of Germany's richest magnates. He is a member of the Herrenhaus and a personal friend of the Emperor.

FIFTY-TWO BELOW ZERO AT WAR CAMP.

OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—Reports from the internment camp at Kahuskasing, Ont., on the G.T.P., tell of weather 52 degrees below zero, but the Austrians and Germans are well clothed and well fed and the work has gone on without interruption. There have been no serious disorders at any of the camps. It is intended eventually to have at least a thousand men at both the Kahuskasing and Spirit Lake camps.

FRENCH MINISTER CONFERS IN LONDON.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Victor Augagneur, French Minister of Marine, who arrived in London last Thursday, has returned to Paris. He had conferences with Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty and Admiral Lord Fisher, First sea Lord, regarding employment of the naval forces of France and Britain.

The French Minister saw also King George, Premier Asquith, Viscount Haldane, Lord High Chancellor; Secretary Grey, War Secretary Kitchener, and former Premier Balfour.

THE KOLBERG'S SISTER SHIPS ALL GONE.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The Kolberg, which is announced officially as having been reported sunk in the naval battle on Sunday in the North Sea, was a light cruiser, the first of four vessels of her class which were built during 1908 and 1909. Her sister ships the Mainz, Koeln and Augsburg, all have previously been reported to have met with disaster during the present war.

The Mainz was sunk by the British fleet in the battle off Heliogoland late in August, and a boat of the Koeln type was reported to have gone to the bottom in the same fight. Early in August a Russian torpedo boat was said to have sunk the Augsburg, after that cruiser had bombarded the port of Libau. If the reported destruction of the Kolberg should prove correct, all the vessels of her class would seem to have been accounted for by enemy warships.

The Kolberg was a vessel of 4,350 tons displacement, and carried a crew of 362 officers and men. She was 402 feet long, and had a speed of about 24 knots. The cruiser was armed with twelve 4.1-inch guns, four 5.5-inch guns, four machine guns, and two torpedo tubes. Her cost was $7,507,500.

ST. DUNSTAN'S MOCK PARLIAMENT

The second session of St. Dunstan's mock parliament was held on Saturday evening. The debate on the draft address was resumed by Hon. Alex McIntyre, (Regina) who had the floor at the last adjournment. He demonstrated very philosophically the advantages to be derived from the adoption of a policy of Free Trade. He was followed by Mr. Robert McCarthy (Three Rivers) who vigorously attacked the bills proposed by the Government. The other speakers on the side of the Government were: Hon. A. Daly, Hon. W. Curley, Hon. T. Melland and Hon. J. A. McDougall, whilst Mr. E. Kelly, M. S. McQuaid and Mr. R. J. Brown spoke on the opposition side. That great benefit is derived from a mock Parliament such as this is evident by the fact that members who came into the house last year for the first time, and had never addressed an audience of any kind are able this year to express their sentiments in a clear and concise manner without the least sign of embarrassment or stage fright.

KING PAID DEFICIT.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—King George personally made up a deficit of about £2,000 ($40,000) to cover the cost of gifts sent by Princess Mary to the British army and navy. They consisted of pipes, tobacco and cigarettes contained in handsome glass boxes.

The idea originated with Princess Mary, in whose name the public fund for collecting money for the purpose was opened in October last. Contracts were entered into with nine different firms for supplying the articles in question and the prices under the contracts amounted to £154,000. The total sum collected by the Princess, when the fund closed, amounted to £148,000, and about £2,000 went to office expenses, printing and advertising.

Sir Ernest Cassel offered to make up the deficiency, but the King decided not to accept the offer and made good out of his own pocket.

COURT MARTIAL FOR WAR CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Lucien A. Jones, son of Henry Arthur Jones, a playwright, now in New York, was arrested in Dunkirk. He is the Daily Chronicle's war correspondent. He was once expelled from Dunkirk, but slipped back. The French authorities thereupon jailed him. It is the first instance where a correspondent faces serious charges.

Jones was endeavoring to make the Belgian lines, despite French prohibition. If the charges which are lodged against him are proved, he may get a few months in prison, although official efforts are being made to procure his immediate release.

WEST INDIA PASSENGER BUSINESS.

HALIFAX, Jan. 28.—The last sailing of the Royal Mail steamer from Halifax to the West Indies, had about twenty first-class passengers. In normal times, no doubt, there would probably be double this number at this season of the year, but still twenty is enough to keep things lively, if they are the right sort. It is said that the February and March sailings will be better patronized as a great many people are now making inquiries about cabins and their reservations may follow later.
