THREE KILLED ON NOVA SCOTIA CROSSING

TWO OTHERS ARE INJURED NEAR ENFIELD

Fast Freight Strikes Stalled Automobile Being Towed Across Tracks.

ENFIELD, N. S., June 13—A Canadian National Railways fast freight crashed into an automobile at a level crossing in this Hants County village on the highway between Halifax and Truro, late last night, killed three persons riding in the back seat of the car and injured two others.

Trapped in the auto, which only a second or two before had stalled on the track directly in front of the freight, Mrs. Arthur Foster, Hammonds Plains, N. S., her six-year old son, Barney, and Mrs. John Carnell, Halifax, were killed instantly. Mrs. Carnell's husband and their five-year old daughter, in the front seat, were bruised and cut but escaped serious injury.

DISABLED ON ROAD

A short time previously, the death car had been disabled by a slight mishap and John Carnell telephoned his brother, Kenneth, at Rockingham, a Halifax suburb, for aid. He decided to tow the disabled auto back to the city.

The towing car had just passed over the crossing when the freight bound to Truro, crashed into the second car. The crash aroused sleeping residents of the village.

Coroner's jury adjourned until Thursday after viewing the bodies at the scene of the accident.

Final Tribute To Sir R. L. Borden

State Funeral Accorded War Time Premier Laid To Rest Yesterday.

OTTAWA, June 13—(OP)—On the crest of a sunlit knoll in Beechwood Cemetery, shaded by a spreading maple, whose tinted leaves will strew his grave in the autumn season with the emblems of the country he brought to nationhood, Sir Robert Laird Borden was yesterday brought to his final resting place.

The elements combined to vest the obsequies of Canada's War-Time Prime Minister with a grandeur befitting the occasion. The early sunshine of the afternoon flooded the streets as the body of Sir Robert was borne in solemn procession from his home to All Saints Church. During the service the skies darkened, until, as the cortege moved through lanes of silent citizens, lightning flashed and was succeeded by rolls of thunder.

Some rain-drops spattered the mourners gathered around the grave. But when they left, the thunder-clouds passed on, and once again Sir Robert's sepulchre lay bathed in the russet light of the setting sun.

A Nation In Sorrow

All the solemnity of a nation in sorrow for one of its most distinguished sons accompanied the final rites attending the internment. More than the dignified formalities of a state funeral were contained in the services. The humblest in the land occupied their place as of right with the highest.

It was "an affectionate farewell" which Most Rev. J. C. Roper, Archbishop of Ottawa, pronounced at the service in All Saints Church. He emphasized that "farewell" so that "it might ring out early in the great Christian conviction Sir Robert held so certainly, that it is not the end of all."

His Lordship praised the steadfast faith of Sir Robert in his Christian teachings. "With some sorrow and much thanksgiving for the life of a great Canadian," he said "one who had the power of winning the lasting love and friendship of the people with whom he came in contact, we say farewell. But confident he is living again, let the tone of joy and thankfulness ring in it."

The state honors accorded the deceased Statesman saw representatives of all spheres of national life in attendance. Rt. Hon. Sir Leman P. Duff, Chief Justice of Canada, was present on behalf of King George; A. S. Redfern, Secretary to the Governor General, represented Lord Tweedsmuir, who is in the Maritime Provinces; Brig. General C. H. MacLaren had been delegated by the Duke of Connaught, whose term as governor general synchronized with Sir Robert Borden's regime as prime minister. Members of the Cabinet at present in the capital acted as honorary pall bearers, together with those of Sir Robert's former ministerial colleagues who were able to reach the city in time for the funeral.

EIGHT RUSSIAN ARMY LEADERS ARE EXECUTED

(By Charles P. Nutter) (Associated Press Foreign Staff) MOSCOW, June 13—Eight Russian army leaders, all in high repute until a few days ago, have been shot for treason, the government announced today. They were convicted of aiding the intelligence service of an "unfriendly" foreign power. The power was not named but there were almost sure indications the government believed it was Germany.

A terse communique said only that they had been executed Saturday. As usual, there were no details. One of those who fell before a firing squad's rifles was Marshal Mikhail Nikolavich Tukhachevsky, O.G. The pronouncement of the month ago and long known as one of the Soviet Union's most brilliant military leaders. The others were generals.

The executions raised to at least 123 the death toll within the past year in the government's drive to stamp out all opposition within the country. Besides Tukhachevsky, those shot were: General A. I. Kork, former commander of the Frunze Military Academy. General I. E. Takir, former commander of the Leningrad district garrison. General I. P. Uborevitch, former commander of the army in White Russia.

General Robert P. Edeman, former head of the army organization for training reservists in aviation and gas defence. General V. M. Feldman, former chief of the personnel section of the General Staff. General V. M. Primakoff, of the Kharkoff Military Garrison. General Kazimirovitch V. Putna, former military attache in Rome, Berlin and Tokyo.

Until Friday there was no word the men were on trial, although it had been disclosed Tukhachevsky, Edeman, Uborevitch and Yakir were removed from their posts. Early Saturday the official Soviet News Agency, Tass, announced the

SEES DECLINE IN POWER OF SPEECH MAKING

Radio "Taking Heart Out Of Oratory" Says Governor-General—Maritime Visit Ends.

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) SAINT JOHN, N. B., June 13—Following a busy week-end here Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir ended their first official visit to the Maritimes, leaving for Ottawa today after attending service at the Church of St. John and St. Stephen.

The Governor-General placed a wreath at the Cenotaph Saturday, motored about the city and spoke at a luncheon meeting of the Canadian Club. Their Excellencies inspected harbor facilities, the dry dock and the New Brunswick Museum. They were dinner guests at Government House last night.

In the luncheon address Lord Tweedsmuir indicated his preference of orators, now dead whom he had known. Among public men, as "builders," he selected Cecil Rhodes, Lord Cromer and Theodore Roosevelt. William Gladstone and Herbert Asquith were mentioned as great party leaders. Of philosophic statesmen His Excellency preferred Lord Balfour and Sir Wilfrid Laurier. "Lawrence of Arabia" was "the one soldier of genius I have known."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Rufus Choate, Lord Rosebery and Lord Balfour were Lord Tweedsmuir's preference among orators. Of all the literary men he had known he thought the name of Rudyard Kipling would be remembered the longest. As the "best men," excluding "religious genius," he selected Lord Milner, General Botha and Edward Grey.

Speechmaking On Decline

"I hope I won't be considered a stiff traditionalist if I say that in my own recollection it seems to me that the power of public speaking has declined," said His Excellency. "I hope it will not be considered high treason if I say there is no one in Canada today who speaks as Sir Wilfrid Laurier spoke. There is certainly no one in the United States who can speak as Mr. Choate used to speak. I do not think that in Britain there is anyone who has the golden eloquence which Lord Rosebery used to have, or the capacity for the clear, exact statement of Mr. Asquith or Lord Balfour, or the emotional power of Mr. Lloyd George in his younger days."

"I am inclined to think that radio is taking the heart out of oratory. Yet it will always be a great art, and perhaps the conditions of the wireless will produce a new kind of oratory where the demagogue will be at a discount."

On the subject of literature Lord Tweedsmuir said he had known many men of letters "though not, perhaps, as many as I ought, for as a class they never attracted me. I much prefer journalists, who seem to me to suffer less from spiritual pride."

oftimes Besieged But Never Taken

(A.P. By Guardian's Special Wire) BILBAO, Spain, June 13—Flags flapping along Bilbao's flaming waterfront today tossed up with every puff of wind the besieged Basque capital's single word of defiance—"Invincible!" The word is shouted everywhere. It shines on the brass buttons of Bilbao's soldiers. It embroiders her banners. Street-car bear it with the city seal. It appears on every stamp used in the province of Vizcaya. It's backed by the truth of history. Bilbao has often been besieged but never captured.

CONDITION IMPROVED

TORONTO, June 13—Continued improvement was noted during the weekend in the condition of Sir William Mulock Chancellor of the University of Toronto, ill at his home here since returning from a recent fishing trip. Sir William was ordered to take a complete rest.

Rebels Within Rifle Range Of Basque Capital

Final Offensive Against Strategic Seaport Launched—Government Quits City, Report.

(By Charles S. Foltz, Jr.) (Associated Press Foreign Staff) (A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) WITH SPANISH INSURGENTS OUTSIDE BILBAO, June 13—Bilbao, Basque capital and seaport, tonight lay within range of the rifles of Insurgent troops atop Santa Marina hill which overlooks the city from the east.

While Generalissimo Francisco Franco's soldiers held the eastern rim of hills less than 1 1/2 miles from the centre of the "City of Sieges," Insurgent artillery pounded the hills at the western side of the Nervion River.

The entire territory on Bilbao's eastern side was controlled by the Insurgents while Basque forces operating along the shore of the estuary northwest of their capital appeared in danger of being cut off.

The current drive in the "final" offensive against Bilbao was based tonight on the Basques' "iron ring" defence at two points where it was broken yesterday northeast of Galdacano, east of the capital.

A Colonel commanding one phase of the action from a post on Mount Gatzelendi said three brigades of Insurgents totalling more than 1,000 men were surrounded by the attackers in the Galdacano sector.

Hours before sundown, more than 400 prisoners had been trundled back to the rear in trucks over dusty roads filled with troops and war materials moving up to the front.

PARIS, June 13—(CP)—A Havre News Agency dispatch from Eibar, Spain, Spanish Insurgent headquarters, stated tonight the Basque Government was reported there as fleeing toward Santander, Spain, as General Francisco Franco's Insurgent Army advanced to within 1 1/2 miles of Bilbao, Basque Capital.

Santander, a Government stronghold since the beginning of the civil war, lies on the coast 46 miles west of the Basque capital.

ADMIT REVERSAL

BILBAO, Spain, June 13—Basque leaders admitted tonight the first line of the "iron ring" defending Bilbao had been broken by the insurgent drive, the most vicious offensive loosed by either side in the civil war.

They declared the situation of the capital was dangerous, but not desperate. However, the Cabinet of the autonomous Basque regime was understood to be in almost constant session.

Several British and French destroyers were reported lying in Bilbao's port near the mouth of the Nervion River, ready to evacuate President Jose Antonio Aguirre and other members of the Government if necessary.

The defenders of the city were said to be reeling under the success of the Insurgents' heavy blows but still clinging tenaciously to their essential positions.

It was admitted, however, that the region of Pica and Larrabezua, about four and five miles east of the capital, the first line of the main defense system had been broken in the grim fighting of the last two days.

Held As Witness In Quebec Death

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) QUEBEC, June 13—Raoul Drouin, a taxi-driver, was held by police tonight as a material witness in the death of Leo Boissinot, 48, who was carried dead into his hotel early this morning with wounds about the head. Police said Drouin and another taximan, whose name they did not reveal, brought Boissinot into the hotel, where he had a room. A hotel employee, believing the man dead, called police and a doctor, who confirmed his belief. Drouin was taken into custody soon after, and questioned by Sergeant Guadause Buteau. Then he was ordered held incommunicado until an inquest tomorrow under District Coroner Paul Marcotte.
