LOOKING FOR TROUBLE

If you're looking for trouble then worry and woe. You'll find in abundance wherever you go; But should joy and gladness be your daily quest. I'm sure you will find them north, south, east and west. If you're looking for snubs every day of the week, I fear you will find what you constantly seek; But if you preferred, say, to look for a smile, I know you would meet one within the next mile.

If you're looking for enemies, you will soon see. A sinister menace wherever you go. But if, for a chance, you should look for a friend, An early success would your effort attend.

If you're looking for trouble it's easy to find. For it's seeking the people who have it in mind; But though trouble comes to each life unawares, Its stay is but short if contentment is there. —A.B.C.

THE COST OF THE CIGARETTE TO CANADA IS APPALLING

Two features in regard to motoring stood out prominently in Ontario during the summer months of the present year. One was the inauguration, by the department of highways, of a "Try Courtesy" policy on the road in preference to the reckless driving. The other item was the prevalence of grass fires, causing the loss of thousands of dollars, in what has been one of Canada's greatest sources of natural wealth. Many of these fires were started by a cigarette or cigar stub carelessly thrown from the window of a car, in a reckless disregard of many official appeals to stop the practice altogether.

The "Try Courtesy" policy is all right as far as it goes, but it will never reach the heart of this deadly menace to both life and property. What the word "Courtesy" means to the imbibers of beer and spirits varies with the amount recently imbibed. At times they are merely maudlin, but at other times they are positively bestial. Just so long as intoxicants are legally manufactured and sold, just so long will drunkenness be a menace on our highways and no amount of governmental preaching and preaching will stop the sacrifice of life and limb that is being offered up on the altar of the beer barrel and whiskey bottle to the great depravity of humanity.

A July happening illustrates how, in many cases, this "Try Courtesy" policy has no application. A Toronto man, accompanied by a girl companion, was driving in the country. It was one of these cases of a drinking, but not drunken driver, as he admitted, after an accident, having had two glasses of beer. He drove a distance of 175 feet off the shoulder of the road and then went into the ditch and drove another 43 feet before smashing his car and injuring his companion. The Magistrate before whom he was tried had this to say: "Your driving showed you had no control over the car."

In reference to the grass fires, smokers continue to throw cigarette and cigar butts in reckless abandon on the dry grass seemingly with a stupid lack of appreciation of consequences. During the month of August, in the neighborhood of Kitchener, Ont., fifty farmers were called in one day to fight fires caused by these discarded butts. Before the fires were under control several stooks of oats were destroyed and five fruit trees were damaged.

During the six months ending June 30 of the present year, the consumption of cigarettes in Canada amounted to 2,472,517,030, an increase over the corresponding period of 1935 of 106,877,795. It would be an impressive lesson in economics if "Tidings" readers would personally figure out the retail cost of the cigarettes to Canadians and then figure further, in moderate calculations, what this amount of money would have accomplished if it had been invested in insurance, pensions, homes, education of youth and in the positive luxuries of life.

LIQUOR COSTS

Morrisburg is a village of about 1,400 people, situated on the St. Lawrence River, and because of this fact serves only about half the usual area of the ordinary village of that size in Ontario. Its liquor sales, as given by the Premier, for twelve months were as follows:

From the government store	-41,500
From the brewery warehouses at retail	----- 37,324
From the brewery warehouses to beverage rooms for resale	----- $27,510
Which we double to obtain the cost to consumer of $55,028.
A total not including permit costs of $133,952.

The St. Catharines Standard laments the economic drain of the sale of liquor on the community. It criticized the Liquor Board for its secretive reports and thinks: "If the facts were known more attention would be given to the need of restraining sale. The Standard has learned from a disinterested employee of the St. Catharines liquor store that the receipts for one day in the local liquor store were approximately $9,000 and that returns of $6,000 to $7,000 per day have not been uncommon.

These two cases of local liquor expenditure in two Ontario municipalities, one a city and the other a mere village, may well be kept for reference. The figures are reliable, since they are from the Temperance Advocate.

INTEMPERANCE CARRIES RUIN

"It is no extravagance to say that the sum total of prudence, of wisdom, of com'ort, of exemplary conduct, and of virtue, would have been today sevenfold what they are throughout the world but for the existence of intoxicating beverage among men; and that the sum total of poverty, of wretchedness, of crime and of sorrow, would not be one-tenth part today what they are now because of the same prolific, overflowing fountain of evil. No one can deny that intemperance carries ruin everywhere. It reduces the fertile farm to barrenness. It suspends industry in the shop of the mechanic, it banishes skill from the cunning hand of the artisan and the artist. It dashes to pieces the locomotive of the engineer. It sinks the ship of the mariner. It spreads sudden night over the solar splendors of genius."

—Horace Mann.

APRICOT CONSERVE

30 large apricots.
3 oranges
1 lemon
1 lb. bleached sultana raisins
1 cup blanched almonds
Sugar

Method: Peel the oranges and lemon and put the rind through the food chopper. Cover with cold water and simmer until it is tender. Remove the stones from the apricots and cut them into small pieces.

Put them into a preserving kettle with the raisins, the orange and lemon pulp, cut fine, and the drained peel. Boil for 10 minutes, then measure and add one cup sugar to each cup of the mixed fruit. Return to the stove and cook, stirring frequently, until the conserve is thick and clear.

Just before removing from the fire, add the blanched almonds, which have been shredded lengthwise. Pour into hot, sterile glasses and seal with paraffin.

TO DESTROY LINK WITH OLD LONDON

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Mayfair, one of the most exclusive residential areas in London, is undergoing a far-reaching transformation and in the process most of the city's historic buildings are being wiped out to make room for modern structures.

Latest zone to be consigned to the scrap heap is the famous rectangle in Berkeley Square and Bruton Street, which includes the former London home of the Queen and birthplace of Princess Elizabeth. It was from this house, No. 17 Bruton Street, that the Queen, then Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, set out for her wedding to the present sovereign, then the Duke of York.

Planned in the closing years of the 17th century, the Square is rich in memories of the days when link boys escorted famous political and other public figures to their doors on foggy nights and when cabs and family coaches were the popular modes of conveyance.

One of the first residents on the Square was the Earl of Bute, who was followed by the second Earl of Shelburne, afterwards Marquess of Lansdowne, who as prime minister conceded independence to the United States.

No. 11 was once the home of Horace Walpole and the fact that it descended to his niece, the Countess of Walgrave, would appear to discount the story that Walpole lost the house through a bet in a game of cards.

It was at No. 13 that the fourth Marquess of Hereford formed the nucleus of the famous Wallace collection.

These two political rivals, William Pitt and Fox, once lived in the Square, as did the Duke of Argyll. Sheridan represented the arts, but the biographers say that so often was his house beset by creditors that the family were virtual prisoners.
