WEDDING BELLS.— The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Martin, Kinross was the scene of an interesting event on Wednesday, October 27, when their daughter Florrie Ann became the bride of William Gordon MacLeod of Vernon River, Dr. MacEwen officiating in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. The groom was ably supported by his brother Malcolm. While Mary Isabel Murchison, cousin of the bride, gracefully did the duties of best maid. The wedding march was beautifully rendered by Mrs. Samuel Martin. The bride was given away by her father, and was beautifully dressed in a gown of white silk, trimmed with white lace, and bridal veil daintily arranged with orange blossoms. The bridesmaid was also beautifully dressed in a gown of Belgian blue silk trimmed with cream lace. The ceremony took place under an arch of evergreens and flowers, the dining room also being decorated with flowers and hand made roses. The evening passed quickly with music games and singing. Many and valuable were the gifts to the bride and groom testing the popularity in which they were held.

WEDDING BELLS.— On Tuesday the 9th inst., a pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Patrick's Church, Fort Augustus. The interesting parties were Patrick J. Callaghan of Auburn, and Margaret Boylan lately of Boston. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. J. McDonald P.P. Mr. McDonald, M. L. A., presided at the organ. The party entered the church to the sweet strains of an Asia by Haydn. The bride looked handsome gowned in a suit of blue velvet trimmed with lace and a hat to match with white plumes. Her sister Miss Della Boylan was bridesmaid and Ambrose Callaghan supported the groom. At the Offertory of the Mass Schubert's Ave Marie was sung by Mr. McDonald. A plant of a bridal wreath was placed in front of the bride by a friend. As the bridal party left the church, the sun veiled for three days in clouds and mist, and the young couple a bright and happy future. Smiles and hearty good wishes greeted their return to the home of the bride where the festivities of the evening were fully entered into and enjoyed. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful presents. The Guardian joins in many good wishes.

PRINCE EDWARD THEATRE

A high grade programme of all-round excellence drew large and appreciative audiences to the Prince Edward last evening.

A two-part Vitagraph special "His Golden Grain" was the first feature. John Hart takes into his home a homeless young girl. A railway train plunges over a bridge and Hart is reported dead. He hides his identity and slowly discovers the dastardly plotting of his ward, Julia, and his private secretary, who have contrived to cast the blame of a theft on the innocent girl.

A Selig Broadway star feature, "The Isle of Content," was a vivid and original drama in three parts. Sick of the empty shams and deceptions of life, Captain Spiragot turns his back on civilisation and goes to live on a desert island with his little daughter. Years pass and the old man dies. The girl grows into a savage womanhood, loving "The Isle of Content." Ralph, a society man turned common sailor, is washed ashore from a wreck and the tragedy of love and jealousy which ensues is graphically told. The call of the wild brings the masterful heroine and her husband back to their island hut in the end.

The inimitable "Charlie" the funniest man on earth, was the compelling attraction last night. His marvellous mirth-provoking capers in his latest comedy hit "Work" ran through a riotous two acts of screen delight. Not since his side-splitting escapades in the bakehouse, put on some months ago, have the audience roared in such a unison of laughter. As the boss paperhanger's assistant, Charlie struggles with more or less success—mostly less—in turn with wheelbarrows, coal chutes, ladders, gas stoves, paste pots and wall paper, as well as the husband and wife and maid. Don't miss this unless you fear rupture.
