LAKEVILLE MATTERS—Sir,—In a recent issue of the "Veritas" writer, over the name of "Veritas" indicated acute apprehension, regarding the money spent in Lakeville District this year, afraid of the same extravagance as practiced in the road work under the past government. Let me say that as much honest work was given for every dollar expended in this district this year, as anywhere in the province under this or the preceding government; also that every man in the district had a chance to earn a share, not as in the summer of 1923 when they were picked for their politics. Deal in with the matter of the new concrete culvert at Mill Creek the "Veritas" says this work could have been completed in at the most, two weeks. Taking into consideration, the fact that the concrete had to be left twelve days before the forms could be removed, and upwards of four thousand loads of clay carted, also that reinforcing iron used in this work was sidetracked along the line for two weeks before it reached Elmira, the writer evidently considered that super-human agencies should have been employed in the completion of this work. The detour during the time this bridge was open only increased the distance about one quarter of a mile, and if this road is almost impassible it is strange that no move was made to repair it in the last few years. "Veritas" says that this condition of affairs has been repeatedly brought to the attention of both the Commissioner of Public Works and local representatives, but to no avail. These gentlemen have evidently matters of greater importance to deal with than listening to the envious whinnings of a few party critics. I am, Sir, etc. ONE INTERESTED.

Dairy Farmers Should Keep Records
C. E. MacKenzie
If the dairy farmer is going to make a success of his work he must keep records of his individual cows as testing is absolutely necessary if we are going to build up high producing grade herds and increase the yearly production of the grade cow in Prince Edward Island. And, after all, we should be interested and anxious to improve our grade herds, because we are dependent on the grades in this province for the greater part of our milk, cheese and butter supply. Let me say that the average grade herd can be improved if the owner would get the habit and the small amount of time necessary to keep individual dairy records. Too many low-producing cows are to be found in the average herd in Prince Edward Island and yet a great many farmers are content to be the slave of these poor cows and do not use the means at hand to improve their conditions, even when this help is supplied free by the Dominion Live Stock branch.

I do not think anyone will disagree with the statement that individual record keeping has helped many of our progressive farmers and is still helping them to make good even in these times of low prices and high transportation charges. I am not in a position to state accurately how many of our farmers are keeping records but the percentage is very small. Yet the great majority of dairy farmers, the owners of grade herds, are not keeping any accurate records of their cows and are not getting the quick substantial improvement that is the reward of conscientious work with the scales and the Babcock test.

There are many illustrations that might be given to prove the truth of the above statements. One will be sufficient. During the time the writer was doing individual cow testing work records from month to month were compared and in one herd where records had been kept for over five years the average yield from the herd was over 900 pounds milk and 31.6 pounds fat while from another herd where record keeping had only been kept for a short time the yield was about 700 pounds of milk and about 34 pounds fat, a difference of about 200 pounds milk and over 6 pounds fat. Thus we easily see that at present prices the former herd was making easy money for their owners as 6 pounds fat at 38 cents per pound would be $2.28 or in a herd of eight cows an additional monthly income of $18.24. Something worth going after.

If we could have in Prince Edward Island thirty percent of our milk cows under systematic test in place of about four percent, as at present I do not doubt one moment, but that the production of our Prince Edward Island cows could be increased at least one third in five years. It would mean much to our dairy industry if such a thing were to happen. The revenue from our co-operative dairy industry in Prince Edward Island in 1923 amounted to almost one million dollars then if in five years we can clean up an extra three hundred thousand dollars and still increase yearly and all this would be accomplished with very little extra expense or outlay because there would not necessarily be any increase in the number of dairy cattle in the country. I do not think that there should be a doubt in the mind of any progressive farmer about the benefits from systematic record keeping and believe that each co-operative and private concern manufacturing milk produce should put forth every effort possible to have all their patrons keep records. Why not start a campaign along better production lines. The live stock branch through Mr. C. J. Cooke will give every assistance to any company that will get together to help themselves in this work.

The Milky Way
The Milky way is an irregular luminous belt that encircles the celestial sphere and has the general shape of a great circle, inclined at an angle of 65 degrees to the equinoctial. Its luminosity is due to the myriads of stars or suns composing it, many of which have been revealed to us by means of the telescope. It varies in width from 4 to 20 degrees and at one point of its course splits up into two nearly parallel branches of unequal brightness, which do not reunite for a distance of 150 degrees.

ED STEERS
A striking substantiation of the wisdom of de-horning steers is furnished by the Superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Station at Charlottetown, P. E. I. In his report for 1923 he says: "Comparing horned steers tied with de-horned steers when fed in stalls made greater gains than the corresponding pens of horned steers that were tied in stalls. The average gain of the de-horned steers was 10 pounds per pen in the 111 days of experiment when steers are dehorned they can be fed in a more cheaply constructed shed. They can be fed in less time. If given sufficient bedding they will tramp down large quantities of waste material into the manure, making it more valuable; also a greater quantity is secured than when steers are tied in stalls. De-horned steers are more contented, feed better, and usually command a higher price."
