WHO SHOULD GO WEST.

(Ontario Exchange).
The following letter has been sent to an Eastern paper by a resident of the West, who knows whereof he speaks:

"I am a young married man who came West some time ago to take up land, but after travelling the three prairie provinces from end to end and being unable to procure a homestead worth taking up, I accepted the Principalsip of the school in a Saskatchewan town of modest proportions. I may also say that this is my second venture in the West, so that it need not be said that I am a new arrival or a tenderfoot. I have determined to send you a letter describing conditions as I found them, and incidentally to give a word of warning to those who are eager to leave the East for the proverbial far away hills which are eternally green.

In Manitoba the average wheat yield for the past season was 15 bushels to the acre, in Saskatchewan 17, in Alberta about 20. While wheat was selling at 81 cents per bushel in Alberta it was selling at $1.08 in the East—a difference of $7 cents per bushel. Figured out, then, fifteen bushels in the east are as good as 20 bushels in Alberta. There is an equally wide, if not wider, divergence in the prices of barley, oats and hay.

Land in Southern Alberta sells from $16 to $40 per acre, and land at the lower figures in general virgin prairie, with neither houses, wells or improvements of any sort except an occasional wire fence. I am sure saying that there is not a village in Eastern Canada but each week contains a list of farms, many of them well improved, with comfortable homes and good buildings, offered for sale for less money per acre than the Southern Alberta land. It must be remembered that homesteads which are left now are of very doubtful value. In order to verify this, all that is necessary is to visit any one of the larger post offices or land offices in the west and read over the number of cancellations which are posted up for public inspection. The same homestead may be taken up several times before some settler finds it to his advantage to improve upon it. Abandonments are extremely common. The reason evidently is that after taking up the land the settler finds that it will cost him more to improve it and get the patent than the land is worth. I have gone over the figures with those who are homesteading and with those who have paid up, I have also spoken to a large number of others who have declared that a homestead, unless it is right close to some market, say within six or seven miles, is not worth its cost. It is almost the unanimous opinion of those to whom I have spoken that it pays to buy land which is improved, rather than wait three years for a crop from virgin prairie.

As for the cost of living in towns, at the very lowest estimate, it will take $300 per year more to keep an ordinary six-roomed house in the West than in Eastern Canada. From an educational point of view the homesteader has nothing to hope for. I have pupils in my school eleven and twelve years of age, who have never been in school up to now, and only the other day a new girl, fourteen years of age, had to be placed in the class that reads from the first part of the First Reader. It must be remembered that our rooms are not filled with the children of foreigners. We have few of these, not many. The deplorable educational conditions are due to the fact that seventy-five per cent. of our children are living or have lived on farms or homesteads where educational facilities are impossible.

It is said that this matter will right itself soon. Let me say that it will not. The West is being so rapidly settled that all the Normal schools in Canada cannot turn out enough teachers to man the schools. There is not a public school inspector in Saskatchewan or Alberta but what could locate at least twenty teachers if he could procure them. The Easterner who has children at school would certainly be making a great mistake to come West to homestead. Indeed, the average Eastern farmer would improve his own farm along the lines suggested by the Eastern agricultural colleges, his yield of grain would be so satisfactory that any desire he might have to come West would vanish.

What then would come West? I would say that the West is the natural place for the overflow population from Eastern Canada or the Northern States. But everyone should not consider himself certain of work in the West. His children receive meagre educational privileges; his wife may not have neighbors close at hand, and the eternal prairie is extremely lonely. Besides there are dangers from typhoid epidemics and from frosts, from hail, from the terrible prairie fires and from the equally terrible blizzards.

In conclusion I would say that homesteading for the average man does not pay. If he comes West to farm, he had better purchase an improved farm near a good market, but this pre-supposes that he has money, and if so he had better remain in the East where prices are good, homes are comfortable, and where social conditions are favorable. (Sgd.) WESTERN TEACHER.

BOTTLERS' ASSOCIATION TRANSACT BUSINESS.

ST. JOHN, April 6.—The newly formed St. John Bottlers' Protective Association met on Saturday night in the office of William Daley, Brussels street, with President J. D. Connolly in the chair. There were present J. O'Brien, T. Driscoll, J. T. Terry, E. McBriarty, Dolan Bros., J. Realy and W. B. Daley. Each member is required to furnish a bond on joining that he will abide by the constitution, and if it is found that a member is violating the constitution his bond goes into the association's funds. Part of the constitution was drawn up on Saturday night, and will be completed at the next meeting on Friday night. It was decided to put the clause relating to the charge for bottles into effect on the first day of May. A committee of the association called on several of the Jew pedlars who have been in the habit of selling bottles to the beer men for fifteen cents a dozen, and informed them that at ten cents a dozen they would only receive ten cents a dozen. In November next the St. John Association will become affiliated with the Nova Scotia Association.
