...The Guardian's esteemed Red Point correspondent writes:—His many eastern friends were pleased to see your fellow townsman Charles Riley recently. James G. Megood, Bridgetown, spent a night recently among old acquaintances. James was one of our good citizens for many years. Codfish are not plentiful in our waters at present but the quality is good. John Robertson launched his gasoline dory on the 30th and her launching probably means the beginning of a new era in our fishing methods. The thunder showers of the past few days have cheered the hearts of the farmers and have started the growth of our parched vegetation.

FLY TO CHURCH IN A BALLOON

early hour many of the farmers were attending to their stock, and when the word was passed from house to house that a balloon was in sight the morning chores were immediately dropped and all eyes were riveted on the huge airship.

Many of the farmers' sons chased through the roadways and fields to be on hand when the balloon landed and when the anchor rope was thrown out willing hands were ready to hold it and to draw the car safely to the ground. The landing was 300 feet from the Methodist Church.

It was but a matter of minutes until the balloon was safely packed for shipment back to Lowell, and the aeronauts, with an appetite sharpened by their early morning ride, sought breakfast.

True to his promise made to his friends, Mr. Glidden accompanied by Mr. Van Valkenburg, afterwards attended the services in the Methodist Church.

"The trip was one of the most enjoyable I have ever made," said Mr. Glidden last night on his return to Boston. "We told our friends in Lowell that we would go to church in our balloon, but we had not the slightest idea as to where we would go. We arose to a height of 800 feet above Lowell and gradually drifted to the eastward:

"It was one of the finest mornings I have ever experienced, and the sight of the country lying bright in the morning sunshine was most inspiring.

"A few minutes after four o'clock the sun arose behind a reddish haze. As it flashed out through the cloudlands, myriads of colors, all the colors of the spectrum, unfolded to our view. Far away in the distance we could see the sea where it broke upon the rocky shores of Cape Ann.

"Mr. Van Valkenburg took several photographs and several panorama pictures of the beautiful Essex countryside.

"At 5 o'clock we saw the two church spires of Topsfield, and rather than take any chances of getting too near the sea we descended.

"I believe that this is the first time that a balloon was ever used in New England to go to church with. The balloon we made the trip in was the 'Boston.'"

ELECTION DAY IN PORTUGAL

LISBON, May 28—Perfect order prevailed yesterday at the elections for the Constitutional Assembly, which were held throughout the country. In thirty out of fifty-one constituencies the seats were disputed by candidates of the directory of the Republican party, the Independent Republican, and the Socialists. In the other constituencies the regular Republicans were unopposed.

The Monarchists abstained from putting forward candidates, declaring that the elections presented no guarantees of liberty or sincerity. Instead they circulated all sorts of rumors of a counter revolution, an armed invasion by way of the Galician frontier and similar attempts against the Government. The authorities took extraordinary precautions not only to preserve order but to anticipate any revolutionary movement. Almost the entire fleet was concentrated in the North, but the intervention of armed force has not been necessary up to the present, in any part of the Republic. The polling throughout was very heavy, and the first results indicate that a majority of the 231 deputies will be regular Republicans. A few Independent Republicans and Socialists are likely to win their elections but the general opioion is that while the Government may have to meet certain divergencies of opinion in the Assembly there will be nothing like systematic opposition. In Lisbon, police patrolled the streets all night but there were no disturbances. The regulars carried the day easily in this city.

One woman, Dr. Bearix Angelo, recorded her vote amid thunders of applause.

At Operto all was peaceful, the Republicans keeping close watch on the Socialists.

It is announced that the discussions of the Constitutional Assembly will be confined, first, to a law defining the political powers of the Republic, second to organic laws relating to each of these powers including an electoral law, third, to acts of dictatorship on the part of the Provisional Government, and fourth, to the budget.

Several of the civil governors have made reports to the Government urging the necessity of modification of the Separation Law, and it is understood that a special bill will be introduced dealing with this subject.

WILL DIGEST THE ARBITRATION TREATY

LONDON, May 30—Rowland Hunt, Unionist member of Parliament for Shorpshire, who has made it his special business to bait Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary, on the subject of President Taft's arbitration proposal, returned to the charge in the House of Commons this afternoon. Mr. Hunt suggested that the great expectations which had been raised by President Taft's original offer had been whittled away, as its ratification by the Senate was required, and that the proposal could no longer rbe regarded as the basis for a treaty of unrestricted arbitration.

"May we hope," he asked, "that in the future the Government will not allow itself to be bambozzled by For-

OLIVER WAS VICTIM OF TOO MUCH STUDY

HANOVER, N. H., May 29—Harry W. Oliver, the students "Rattles" of Dartmouth, was the victim of a mental illness that psychologists call "parallelism," according to those who have given his remarkable case close study.

This is a condition in which the body weakened by overwork, either physical or mental, affects the mind, driving the victim to deeds he would abhor under normal conditions.

Caught while attempting to force an entrance into Carter's Police Chief Gauthier says Oliver has confessed to stealing jewelry and money from burglarizing two clotnes stores and Albert Foreman, a fellow student.

Oliver has said that he had a confederate. If that is so, it is believed by his friends that he wandered either to Boston and New York under the peculiar spell that held him and disposed of stolen goods and that his confederate is a "fence."

Oliver's mental condition is attributed to over study. He has always been popular. He is twenty-two years old, but looks older because he is slightly bald.

His closest friends cannot find that Oliver was in any trouble that caused his remarkable conduct. He had no love affair. He didn't drink. During the year, it is declared, Oliver was moody and at times was seized with fits. During his first year in college he attained a good rank in scholarship, but he was not satisfied. He wanted better grades.

So it happened that with a feverish pursuit after knowledge coupled with outside work such as playing in the college band, taking part in athletics and supplying history outlines, his health deterriorated. His struggle for high marks is evidenced by his progress in this year's work in econimics. This course, quite frequently a stumbling block in the path of students, proved to a source of worry to the young man during the first semester. He obtained 75 as a percentage, but he thirsted for a better rank. He applied himself with greater diligence and during the present semester he had the high rank of 97. Similarly in other courses he improved his standing over previous semesters.

That his alleged thefts were the result of necessity is not believed to be true. He comes of a highly respected and well-to-do Natick family, and apparently had everything a college man could desire. In addition to his monthly allowance he made considerable money through his sale of history outlines for the use of other students.

His host of friends feel that he could have obtained financial assistance from fifty or more men in the college if he had needed it. The nature of some of the stolen goods, also strengthens the belief that it was not a case of needing cash. Suits and hats were among the articles taken, and Oliver was known as a man quiet in his tastes for dress. Many of these articles were recovered, it is claimed although a large quantity is still unaccounted for.

the coming Nutwood of P. E. Island. He is a great-grand son of the world's champion brood mare Miss Russel. Many horsemen are proud to boast of even one cross of this great Mare's blood, but in Kinaros we can boast of 4 crosses, what no other Stallion on P. E. I can do. His sire was the fastest trotter of 60. of his sire's get. His grand sire was a world champion.

His dam is one of the very best brood mares on the world known. "Allen stock Farm". Her 3 yr old colt, Ballston (tr, 2) 2.29, is the sire of the largest and best colt dropped this spring at the Allen Farm, wighing 130 pounds at birth.

That Kinaros will sire size is proven, that his colts will have speed, and extreme speed is certain, that they will be racy and game is sure, and that his blood will breed on for generations is an undisputed fact.

Kinaros will leave home Tuesday, May 23, to John. M. Nicholson's Dundas, noon and over night. May 24 to Hugh MacMillan's Head St Peters Bay, noon. John Phelans, Morell, over night. May 25, to James Mooney's Peakes' Station, noon. Home again that night.

by the mighty Brazilian, King of sires, the iron race horse. We never had his equal here before and when shall we see his like again? Goldzilian is undoubtedly his best son on P. E. I.

Pronounced by Judge Roberston of Ontario, last fall at the Summerside Exhibition as being the best colt he had seen in Canada. He is only a colt, and yet he is all horse every inch of him.

Goldzilian is ready to trot any stud colt of his age, size, and gait on P. E. Island. (Brazilian's excepted).

Don't fail to see this colt at owner's stables, before breeding your mares if you want large classy colts.
