Famous Boston Symphony Ensemble At The Prince Edward Tonight

Under the brilliant leadership of Augustus Wynn, the Boston Symphony Ensemble will present a program of symphonic music in Charlottetown so chosen as to attract all types of music-lovers. Who for instance has not heard the masterpiece the "William Tell Overture" by the great Italian Rossini. It is said that a more vivid and descriptive composition has never been written. Maestro Wynn, through the medium of his wonderful orchestra will interpret in his inimitable manner, the different moods of this selection. Part one pictures the peacefulness of nature; one hears the early voices of the Alpine Horn. In the second part of this overture is a most realistic description of the storm; this describes the thunder, lightning and the pouring rain. As the storm quiets down we hear the call of the shepherds who are out looking for their flocks. Next comes a typical Swiss folk song. The Overture closes with a brilliant finale which brings out the full orchestra. This is the most thrilling passages of battle music. Then we will hear light, dainty numbers of the "catchy" variety stringed instruments of the Boston Symphony Ensemble, and "Loves Dream After the Ball" will give us the masterful "cello solo." For operatic selection, we will hear the Fantasia, "Faust". Music lovers contend that the musical melody "to the square inch" than that of any other opera. Tchaikowski, one of the greatest of the Russian composers, will be represented on our program by his "Andante Cantabile" which is one of the finest pieces of string music ever written. And so the representative program which Maestro Wynn has arranged for our education and enjoyment will cover not only the more serious classics but will include many of the popular numbers which have been made familiar to us by the medium of the records, for encores, we are promised many such selections. Seats now on sale. Ticket office opens at 9.30 a. m.

Thrilling Scenes At Maritime Championships Halifax Sept 11

Nineteen years ago last August a tall rangy youth from Charlottetown, then a member of the Aberdeen club, came to Halifax and established a record of 11 feet in the pole vault, which stood until 1920. But defying Frank Time, and making the most spectacular vault ever seen in Halifax, the same athlete, now well over the forty year mark, established another record in the pole vault Saturday afternoon at the Maritime Track and Field championships at the Wanderers grounds before 3,000 spectators.

The athlete to turn in this remarkable performance was William "Billy" Halpenney, Charlottetown. Halpenney's performance was outstanding itself and the fact that he is nearly twice as old as some of the athletes he competed against Saturday, makes his feat all the more remarkable. He vaulted 11 feet 4 1/2 inches in his last trial and the reception he was accorded when Announcer J. D. Vair shouted, "Halpenney clears at 11 feet 4 1/2," was fit for a king.

Saturday saw the greatest meet staged in Halifax since the August afternoon 14 years ago, when the Canadian championships were held here. One of the biggest surprises handed out, was the victory of Barney Francis, popular Charlottetown Indian, over Harold Lapiere, St. John in the mile run. Lapiere's great reputation as a miler, made him a strong favorite, but he received a big setback and but for the stupidity of an admirer of Francis, the little redskin would probably be the holder of the Maritime record over the mile today. He negotiated the distance in 4:34, just three-fifths of a second behind Hans Holmer's record hung up in 1923.

Grant Holmes, Francis and Lapiere started in the mile. To a keen observer of the style of the different men, it looked like Lapiere as the winner with Holmes next and Francis an outside chance, but it was the Indian who furnished the thrills. Lapiere clipped off the first quarter in 55 seconds, running like a frightened deer with a 60 yards lead. Holmes and Francis were hanging on hard. Going into the final quarter Lapiere had a good lead, but with Holmes dropping out and shouting to Francis to "kill it all the way," Francis cut loose. And how that boy did run. Like a sprinter doing his final fifty, Francis went after Lapiere at the 280 yards mark and caught him at the century.

Amid wild applause, Francis shot down the stretch. Fifteen yards from the tape, an over enthusiastic Charlottetown sport dashed onto the track and grabbed Francis around the neck, cutting off his progress and a chance to hang up a new record. When Francis shook off his admirer, he was off his stride. It was an unusual victory and the Islander got the biggest ovation of the day.

Another thrill was furnished in the 440, when the local hero, Grant Holmes, fell by the wayside and took third. W. J. Maynes, from St. Francis Xavier University upset the done when he led from start to finish and outspurted Ted Coster, Dalhousian, running under the colors of the St. John club. Coster and Holmes were set back for false starting, but Maynes didn't want any advantages and went back on the line with his opponents. Holmes was way off color and appeared to be entirely out of condition.

One of the biggest surprises of the day was the poor showing of Ralph McKay, Inverness, in the shot put. A man who is capable of putting the 16 pounds 44 foot oldsmo falls as far short at 11 feet, but that is what happened to McKay. He was able to get only 33 feet, the shot slipping most of his tries. Hennessey, last year's champion, also fell behind. Beaton and Fripps tied for first place the latter having the throw of 117 feet. Stephen Kennedy, the athletic policeman, who broke the hammer throw record two weeks ago, settled all his dispute as to his claims to greatness, when he heaved the lead 136.5 feet, a record that should stand for many years.

When the half millers were called and Francis walked out to take his place along side Billy Moon eye, the greatest middle distance runner developed in Eastern Canada since the days of Billy Rose, the crowd expected the record to go and their expectations came accordingly being realized. Showing excellent legs and arm movement with his usual splendid judgment, Mooney outraced the entire field, and with the exception of Francis, had little or no competition.

The Indian youth chased him down the stretch in two minutes, one second behind the record. Mooney delayed his sprint to the century and had he cut loose after the 220, he would probably have beaten Ross' mark of 1:59. Lapiere was third in this event. Mooney is popular in Halifax and his victory sent the big crowd into a wild frenzy.

Ernie Smith, the big Crescent sprinter was the class of the field in his events and he won the 100 and 220 with plenty to spare. Oulton, a Moncton speedster, gave Smith his hardest battle, but as the local boy had entirely too much speed for the visitors, both of his victories were clean-cut. He was not pushed hard enough to hang up fast time. Smith's victories piled up ten points for his club.

George Francis was the shining star of the bike races and won both with comparative ease. He romped home a winner in the mile and quarter mile with three lengths over Hutt. Wanderers lone entry in the wheel races.

As fleet and game as ever, Victor McAlulay lapped all of his opponents in the five mile run and came close to Freddie Cameron's record. Had Vic been pushed, there might have been a different tale. He had little trouble in losing Angus MacDonald, Antigonish Jones, St. John; Hanson, Wanderers; Walsh and Power Crescents and Frier, Sussex. MacDonald and Jones found the going too hard and quit after the second mile.

Chick Seelye, Fredericton football and hockey player, scored six points for the capital city, while Archie Beaton was one of the big point getters for Crescents and showed up prominently in all of the events he competed in. One of the big men of the day was Phil MacDonald, Abby Jumper, MacDonald hung up a new record for the running broad two months ago at 22 feet 5 inches, but on Saturday he won at

Veteran Vault At Big Game

J. A. McEachern, who won the pole vault at the Maritime Championships at Picou in 1887, was in Halifax Saturday with the Charlottetown Abbies as one of their admirers. The veteran sportsman, who has not missed a championship meet since 1887, is the father of Wackey McEachern, the brilliant Abbie hockey forward. He was naturally pleased with Halpenney's performance. Halifax Herald.

A cut appears in the Monday issue of the Halifax Herald, in which the following Island athlete appears: Halpenney making his record vault.

Barney Francis, winner of the one mile run.

Bill Halpenney, alongside of J. A. McEachern, winner of the Maritime pole vault in 1887.

British Yachtsmen Win Second Race

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 11.—The British flotilla of six-metre racing yachts, sent across the Atlantic by the British-American cup today rolled up a total of twenty points to the United States in the second of a series of six races. The point total now stands: Great Britain, 20; United States, 40.

Francis cut loose. And how that boy did run. Like a sprinter doing his final fifty, Francis went after Lapiere at the 280 yards mark and caught him at the century.

Amid wild applause, Francis shot down the stretch.
