Turin Target Hardest Hit

LONDON, Nov 22 — (AP) — A fiery raid on Turin, the R.A.F.'s heaviest so far in its growing offensive against Italy, spread such a blanket of fire over the northern arsenal city Friday night that the raiders had difficulty finding clear spaces for targets, the air ministry disclosed Saturday.

Two squadrons of the R.C.A.F. took part in the raid. There were also a number of Canadians in R. A.F. crews attacking the city. A brief R.C.A.F. headquarters communique said that all R.C.A.F. aircraft participating returned safely.

The Canadian airmen reported enthusiastically that they had seen a smoke pall over the target stretching as high as 5,000 feet after the raid had been in progress for some time. Pilot-Officer Muray Hicks of Calgary said he believed an oil depot had been hit; a couple of Canadians commented that they had been amused to find only one earchlight in action at Turin.

After giving Turin, the home of Italy's Fiat, Caproni bomber and other war works, only two nights of respite from the devastating two-ton bombs, the heavy R.A.F.-R.C. A. F. group returned in good weather and indicative of the punishment loosened on the city, one bomber group alone dropped 54 two-ton bombs and 110,000 pounds of incendiaries in just less than an hour. This was an average of one 4,000-pound bomb a minute and one 30-pound incendiary a second.

So thorough was the job, the air ministry said, that the bombers ran out of target space and planes arriving in the later waves had difficulty picking spots to drop their bombs amid the explosions and fires already started.

To Re-Route Section of Western Road

Enlarged Airport at Mt. Pleasant makes work necessary.

The Department of Public Works and Highways is making preparations to re-route a section of the paved road at Mount Pleasant in Prince County to take the highway off the site of the airport there, it was learned over the week-end. Now the road cuts across the station, which is being enlarged from an auxiliary field to a full sized school.

The firm of Tomlinson Co. Ltd., of Toronto has the contract for a number of buildings which are understood to include hangars, barracks and other airport structures. The work in getting underway.

When the airport was built at Summerside an auxiliary field was laid out at Mount Pleasant. Since then additional runways have been built and others lengthened. The firm of Curran and Briggs had that contract which is about completed.

About a mile and a half of the paved road from Summerside to Tignish, where it crosses the airport, will be closed next spring, it was learned. The re-routed road will go to the south-west of the school. Until it is graded and paved a detour will be used.

Mr. L.B. MacMillan, Deputy Minister of Public Works and Highways, said he expected the right-of way would be secured shortly. The only work to be done on it this fall and winter, however, will be surveying and cutting trees.

Nutrition Expert Will Conduct Refresher Course

The Charlottetown Home Economics Association under the leadership of Miss Hazel Sterns, Prov. Sanatorium, is to be congratulated on procuring Miss Francis MacKay to give a refresher course on nutrition Monday and Tuesday of this week. Miss MacKay is a native of Winnipeg Manitoba and is the Supervisor of Women's Institutes for that province. She holds a Swift Foundation Fellowship in Applied Nutrition under the sponsorship fo the Nutrition Services of the Dept. of Pensions and National Health. Her work takes her all across Canada. In a Canadian wide survey it has been found, Miss MacKay states, that 40 per cent of the population are getting adequate nutrition, 40 percent are just border line, while 20 percent are being poorly nourished. The fact that this 20 percent are by no means in the low-wage earning class shows the need of teaching people food values. Improper nutrition leads to inefficiency because a worker suffering from fatigue cannot turn out his best job. In wartime it is more important than ever to keep up the nation's health. Poor eating habits means poor health, absence from work, and illness, this nutrition expert believes. Hence we need to teach people the value of foods, and the necessity of including the protective foods in our diet. This refresher course is meant to bring to the Home Economists of the Province the knowledge of the latest scientific findings on nutrition. Miss MacKay hopes to confer with this group with a view to acquainting them with the methods being used in other provinces to organize the women of the communities in nutrition groups under the leadership of a trained home economist. She will help them map out their nutrition programme so that the home economists in our midst may translate their knowledge of calories, vitamins, etc., into the language of the ordinary housewife in her kitchen. Miss MacKay will be the guest speaker at the Rotary Luncheon to-day.

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

This is "Navy Week" and as a contribution to its due observance, hymn, 452, being a prayer for those at sea was sung. It was preceded by a few appropriate remarks by the Minister Dr. Miller who eulogised the courage and faithfulness of the men of Our Navy and of the Merchant Marine and our obligations to them for their wonderful endurance and achievements.

"O Trinity of love and power
Our brethern shield in danger's hour
From rock and tempest, fire and foe
Protect them whereso'er they go."

Anniversary Sunday has passed leaving behind pleasant memories of its success and the inspiration it gave. We now look forward with hope to the next great event — Christmas—the Anniversary of Jesus birth and whilst the Huns are seeking to destroy our christian festivals, it is important that we "grapple them to our hearts with hoops of steel."

The subject of Dr. Miller's morning sermon was "Misinterpretations of Life" Text 2, Kings 3-22, 23. Our misinterpretations of life are seen in:

1. Our attitudes to life must come to some understanding and acceptance of life. We are aided by writings of the religious leaders and the revelations of God culminating in Christ of whom Emerson said "His name is not so much written as ploughed into the history of the world."
2. Our appalling aimlessness. The highway of life is crowded with people wandering about with no sense of direction or goal.
3. In ignorance and selfishness that choke the channels of God's grace and truth and that leads to self deception.

The evening subject Conditions of Discipleships as set forth in the parables of The Empty House, The Unfinished Tower and The Rash King.

The choir was under the direction of Professor Kendall and in addition to our regular music, rendered the Anthem "O Saviour of the World" in the morning and "I will lift up mine Eyes" in the evening.

The Fifth Freedom

Today, on half a dozen far-flung battlefronts, the armies, navies and air forces of the United Nations are struggling with the Axis hordes whose goal is to conquer the world and subjugate humanity into a state of literal slavery. The war is fierce, cruel, merciless. It is a conflict of annihilation one side or the other must go down. There can be no armistice, no appeasement. The antagonists represent two completely different worlds between which there can be no peaceful bridge. For us of the United Nations, it is actually a question of life and death.

It has been said that the democracies are battling for the four freedoms; freedom from want, freedom from fear, freedom of speech, and freedom of thought. Upon these freedoms will be established the world of tomorrow, the good life, that must and will follow the successful conclusion of the war It will be a world much closer than we had ever imagined was possible to "the parliament of man, the federation of the world." It is a world well worth struggling for, one, that we have high hopes of seeing ourselves and one that we certainly must strive to win if only for our children.

But to attain that lofty goal we must gain a fifth freedom that is not mentioned by name above. It is freedom from disease. For, if mankind cannot free his body from the torment and the crippling of illness, what do the other four freedoms profit him? How can he enjoy them if his body is racked by the ravages of disease? It seems obvious that he must add this fifth freedom to the other four as his objectives for a better world.

In the struggle for the fifth freedom, one of the greatest obstacles to victory is the rising threat of tuberculosis. We are in the midst of a great world-wide war, in which tanks and armoured cars clash, airplanes sweep the skies, and vast fleets of warships patrol the seas. All through the smoke and din of battle there rides a silent, sinister figure which takes toll of warriors and civilians alike. As the battle waxes hotter and more furious, as the foundries and the forges spew out countless thousands of war machines, tuberculosis strikes down its victims, heedless of which side they are on. To us, tuberculosis is an enemy as deadly as the Nazis and their satellites, a foe that must be faced and beaten, or we die.

Tubeculosis delights in a war. Men and women have let down their guard, so to speak, against the inroads of disease. The demands of war are great. War takes prodigious sums of money, it eats up materiral resources it takes the lives and the time of innumerable men and women. It consumes all the things that in peacetime are devoted in part to the creation of good health and the elimination of disease. When this guard is let down tuberculosis strikes It has struck in Canada and struck hard, though many may not know it.

Last year, the death rate from tuberculosis in Canada rose from 50.6 per 100,000 of population to 53.1 The total number of deaths increased from 5,778 in 1940 to 6,057. The effects of the war upon the population was clearly shown in these figures As our war industrial effort approached a peak and our manpower was strained to meet the exactions of the war effort, tuberculosis crashed a blow into our conceit. Perhaps we thought we were immune. Our anti-tuberculosis work has been pretty good, he said to ourselves. "It can't happen here." But it did.

The important point is that Canadians can't afford to let tuberculosis make these gains We have been twenty years getting tuberculosis deaths down to a rate of 50 per 100,000. And we lost it in one year Unless we do something about it quickly and energetically tuberculosis this year and next will gain again It can happen here and we can stop it.

What can we do? We can support to the limit the preventive measures that were so successful in reducing the tuberculosis mortality rate from 97.6 in 1921 to 50.6 in 1940. We can finance clinics, X-ray surveys of war industries and entire communities, public health nursing and educational services, all of which play an important part in preventing tuberculosis — and prevention is a lot cheaper and more efficient than curing. We can finance all this easily, without [illegible] ing anything from [illegible] sa stamps and Victory b[illegible] s. The secret lies in Christmas S[illegible] These stickers, that have been used by Canadians on Yuletide mail since 1927, each furnish one cent for the prevention of tuberculosis The total sum (last year more than $300,000 was raised) is a war fund that will provide the means to keep our workers free from tuberculosis, keep our factories in full operation, and bring nearer the day of the five freedoms.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

The theme of the Rector's sermon yesterday morning was "Service", and this for two reasons: we were bidden in our thoughts and in our prayers to remember the men of the Navy and of the Mercantile fleets, men who serve their nation and suffering humanity amid the perils of the deep; and also we were glad to welcome the members of the Y's Men's Club of Charlottetown who elected to join in worship with the members of St. Paul's Church on the occasion of their Annual Church Parade. The Rector himself is a member of the Y's Men's Club.

Taking as his text part of the 27th verse of the 22nd chapter of St. Luke's Gospel, "I am among you as one that serveth", the Rev. A. LeDrew Gardner reminded his hearers that Jesus Christ came to live as man with men that He might save mankind. He took upon himself the dorm of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men. While He was living on earth, He organized a guild of servants that they might serve their fellow men. And that guild is the Church of God.

After relating the story of Henry Van Dyke about The Other Wise Men, the Rector pointed out that not only was service a divine call, it was also a great call, a sacrificial call and a Godly call. We bow in humility as we contemplate the work of Service performed by Jesus Christ; we sing praises of thanksgiving to God who gave to us His Son; and we kneel in gratitude to those men and women who, having heard His call, have responded to it.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

In his morning sermon the Rev. I. Judson Levy spoke on "The Night Of Sin." In Saint John 13:30, there is a tragic expression "He then having received the sop went immediately out: and it was night." The upper room suggests strange contrasts. There was beauty, quiet, peace, love, fellowship as with a great leader, a great friend, a father and his children, strife shut out, love shut in. There was also meanness, treachery, hate in the enclosure of love. And it was night. There was night in the heart of the betrayer. He had walked with Jesus when all went well but when came adversity it was night in the soul of Judas. Night comes when knowing the best we choose the worst. It was night in the experience of the Master, his own received him not, the last fatal blow came from the group of trusted friends. It was night in the world. No blacker night has ever been. It is always night when we turn our back on Christ. When men and nations dismiss Christ it is night. The hope of the world now and evermore is in the Christ, risen again in the hearts of men.

Professor's "The Shepherd Psalm" was the morning anthem. At the evening worship service Mr. Levy delivered the fourth in an interesting series of sermons on Prayer, considering on this occasion "Prayer as Petition." Nazeli's "Hushed and Still the Evening Hour" was the anthem. Mr. Eric MacGregor sang effectively Ashford's "My Task." Large congregations were in attendance at both services.

SALVATION ARMY

The Salvation Army Citadel was filled to capacity last night with interested listeners. The meeting was conducted by Adjt. and Mrs. Pederson, who have been conducting a ten-day revival campaign. The Adjt. spoke on the subject "The Signs of the Nations" taking for his text 1st. Thess-5: 3. He said in part that the Nations need peace, but this could only be brought about by spiritual people and christian influence that man made peace was not lasting and dependable. The only peace worthwhile was that peace which Christ, the Prince of Peace gave us.

Captain and Mrs. McLean spoke during the meeting. Mrs. Pederson and Mrs. McLean sang a duet, "Just Outside the Door." To-night will be the concluding service of this campaign.

CALLING ALL WOMEN

Does your boy friend want to fly—and can't
Because he already has an important ground job
In the R.C.A.F.?

Then, why don't you enlist
In the R.C.A.F. Women's Division today
And take his place?

Is he a Teleprinter Operator?
You must be proud of him.
It takes such a fine type of lad
To fill that important post.

But you can be trained to take his place
If you are as fine a girl as he is a man,
If you are a touch typist,
Able to type 30 words a minute,
And if you can keep mum.

Think how proud he will be of you in uniform,
Proud and grateful
That you have given him the chance
To train for Aircrew.
