—CHILDREN ESCAPE INJURY —What might have been a very serious accident occurred at Lower Bedeque this week when a horse belonging to Melburn Craig ran away while harnessed to a wagon. Two children were in the wagon and as the animal gained speed the wagon overturned throwing the little ones out. Fortunately it was on a clay road and the children were not hurt seriously. After running nearly a mile the horse stumbled and fell and broke his leg. Mr. Craig was obliged to have the animal shot. He was a valuable beast, but Mr. Craig was thankful the children escaped so miraculously.—S

—CRUELTY OF ANIMAL CASE HEARD—The first case to come before a Prince County magistrate on a charge of cruelty to animals was heard at the Court House, Summerside, by Magistrate Darby yesterday. The charge was laid against a resident of Albany for keeping a horse in an emaciated condition and with an infected leg. Several witnesses were examined. Mr. MacLean, inspector of the S. P. C. A. gave evidence of having seen the animal on several occasions and that it was about twenty years old and suffering. Other witnesses for the prosecution gave evidence. Witnesses for the defence stated that the horse was not maltreated or abused in any way, and that his condition was the result of an ailment of the leg, which was being cared for on the advice of a local veterinary. Magistrate Darby postponed the case for thirty days to ascertain whether there was any possibility of a cure for the infected leg. There appeared to be no evidence of cruelty, unless it was considered cruelty not to put the animal out of his misery when there was no hope of recovery from a serious wound. The result of the treatment in 30 days would determine the case.—S

Mexican Rebel Band Partially Wiped Out

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)
MEXICO CITY, June 15— Policemen's bullets partially wiped out a rebel band headed by Brigadier General Enrique Espejel Chavarria today.

The General, his brother and a policeman were killed when Puebla authorities raided a hillside shack near Chipilo village when they learned the suspected followers of General Saturnino Cedillo, himself hunted as a rebel, were sleeping there.

A volley of shots greeted the policemen's orders to Espejel to quit the cottage. One policeman, Atilano Amaro, fell dead.

Espejel and his brother fled the house. The General wounded another of the 12 policemen. The remaining agents concentrated their machine-gun on the pair. Three others in the house escaped afoot in the confusion.

John Geddie Pageant At Kensington

On Sunday evening the service in the Kensington United Church was of an unusual and interesting nature. Under the auspices of the W. M. S., a pageant was presented depicting scenes in the life of the first missionary from Canada to be sent to the foreign field, John Geddie.

From the earliest boyhood John Geddie's greatest desire was to become a missionary to a foreign land but not until he reached manhood did he understand why the desire was so much a part of him. Mrs. Thomas Humphrey, under whose direction the pageant was presented introduced each act and as a prelude, while the organist, Mrs. John Walker, played quiet music, nine ladies bearing banners took their places on the platform each one representing a foreign field. These banners told just what progress had been made in the different fields in the years since church union. The ladies taking part were Mrs. Stanley Caseley, Mrs. Jas. MacKinnon, Mrs. Byron Thomson, Mrs. Bryenton, Mrs. Colwell, Miss Edna MacMurdo, Mrs. P. Kennedy, Mrs. Horace Glover and Mrs. T. Humphrey who represented the United Church.

The first act showed the moderator (Mrs. Hammond Toombs) and the secretary (Mrs. B. C. Salter) of the Synod of the Nova Scotia and P. E. I. Presbyteries, which met in Halifax, who were discussing the advisability of sending a missionary overseas. John Geddie, who by this time was pastor of the Cavendish Presbyterian Church, had volunteered to go. After some discussion the vote was put to the Synod and carried unanimously.

The next scene showed John Geddie (Mrs. Russel MacKay) and his wife (Mrs. George Lockhart) breaking the news to his mother (Mrs. Chem MacLeod). She told him it was the proudest day of her life and also told him that when he was an infant he had a severe illness which threatened to terminate fatally. She and his father had prayed for his recovery promising the Lord that if he was spared to them they would dedicate him to become a foreign missionary. Hence the urge which he felt all through boyhood and young manhood to enter this work. After much hardship they reached their destination, the New Hebrides, and are shown saying farewell to a couple who had shown them many kindnesses in their difficult task of adjusting themselves to circumstances and learning the language. These people were Mr. and Mrs. Parnell, acted by Mrs. George Simpson and Mrs. Dr. MacNeill.

The final scene shows Mrs. Geddie back in Cavendish after 17 years of active service. She had been invited to address the Cavendish Auxiliary telling the members some of her experiences in connection with the work. The president of the W. M. S. at Cavendish (Mrs. Dan MacKenzie) introduced her to the ladies present. It was a splendid pageant taken from parts of the study book "A New Church Faces A New World" and was the work of Mrs. Thomas Humphrey. Mr. Arnold Taylor sang the solo "Abide With Us, Thou Son of God Tonight." Mrs. W. L. Cotton presided and prayer was offered by Rev. Thomas Humphrey, who also pronounced the Benediction.

Anglican Church Societies Meet At St. Eleanors

There was an exceptionally large attendance at the Anglican Church Societies meetings of the Island which were held yesterday in the historic parish of St. Eleanors. All of the ten parishes on the Island were represented by clergy and laymen.

The meetings opened with a celebration of the Holy Eucharist in the century old church of St. John's. Rev. Canon Malone was the celebrant, assisted by Rev. G. R. Harrison, Rev. A. H. Hart Davies, Rev. Wm. J. Phillips and Rev. B. Fream. A very large congregation took communion, Rev. Dr. Hunt was the speaker and preached an elcquent sermon on "The Church As The Expression of Christ." The women's auxiliary societies held their meetings in the afternoon in the church, which was filled to capacity. Mrs. E. V. Bell, provincial president, presided.

After the opening hymn, Mrs. Andrew, president of the St. Eleanors branch extended a welcome to the delegates. The roll call showed all auxiliaries represented. Greetings were received from Mrs. H. D. Raymond. The reports of the various branches were received and showed progress, after which the guest speaker, Miss Shaw, missionary from Japan, now visiting her home in St. John, N. B., was introduced. Miss Shaw in a very striking address gave a word picture of conditions in Japan and China at the present time. Meeting closed with prayer by Rev. Mr. Harrison.

The Sunday School Association held an executive meeting and decided to hold a meeting in Summerside on June 29th.

The Diocesan Church Society with Canon Malone in the chair met to discuss various matters in connection with the church. The pension fund for the clergy was one of the matters brought up for discussion. A committee was appointed to arrange for fitting celebration of the centennial of the D. C. S. on July 14, 1940. Regret was expressed at the illness of Rev. H. D. Raymond.

Mr. Robert Cotton, Charlottetown, gave a most instructive address on credit unions and its aims and purposes before a large gathering of members of the social service council.

The ladies of St. Eleanors served luncheon and afternoon tea to the visitors. A vote of thanks was extended to the St. Eleanors branch for their kind hospitality.

CONTROL OF STRAWBERRY LEAF SPOT

(Experimental Farms Note)

This common leaf disease has become a limiting factor in strawberry production in certain areas of New Brunswick. The disease is characterized by the production of small, purple or red bordered spots with grey centres on the strawberry leaves. The spots sometimes merge to form large irregular blotches, often involving the whole leaf. The disease also attacks the fruit stems, causing shrivelling and improper development of the fruit. Badly diseased plants are weakened and usually suffer severely from winter killing.

Certain climatic conditions favour the development of the disease, particularly hot, bright days, interspersed with occasional showers or followed by heavy dews at night.

Experiments conducted by the Division of Botany, states S. F. Clarkson, Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology, Fredericton, N. B., indicate that this disease may be controlled effectively by spraying with Bordeaux mixture composed of 2 pounds of copper sulphate, 4 pounds of hydrated lime and 40 gallons of water. Beginning May 14th, two or three sprays should be applied at weekly intervals before the blossoms open, followed by a further spray application immediately after the fruit has been harvested. Because of the fact that the disease overwinners on the old leaves, badly infected plantation should be mowed and the leaves burned early in the spring before growth begins. This practice when used in conjunction with spraying assists in the control of this disease.
