THE MARKETS

OTTAWA, Ont., June 2.—A general canvass is now apparent on most Canadian egg markets and prices are showing a tendency to slightly lower levels. Toronto. This city market showed a little more steadiness at the close of the week with receipts falling off and consumptive demand keeping up excellently. Dealers are quoting country shippers for ungraded eggs extras, 28 to 29 cents; firsts, 26 to 27 cents; seconds, 23 to 24 cents, delivered, cases returned. Western shippers' quotations are above buyers' ideas here. Ontario. Eggs are more attractive and are ample to meet the present demand. A car of Ontario storage packed eggs is offered at extras 31, firsts 31, firsts 29 f. o. b. in new cases. Montreal. Egg receipts here on Saturday were 1718 cases as compared to 4519 cases for the corresponding day last year. The market is dull and with some accumulations of stocks the tone is weak. Western carlot shippers are asking extras 31½, firsts 29½, seconds 26½, but are not making sales at these prices. Local buyers' ideas on the western carlots are extras 31, firsts 28, seconds 25. Winnipeg. Reductions in egg prices have been common throughout the west recently. Prices on this market are unchanged, but reductions are reported at Brandon, Moose Jaw, Edmonton and Calgary. Receipts all through the West are falling off. Vancouver. This egg market continues unchanged although with the demand for eggs for storage, satisfied dealers have ample supplies to take care of the immediate requirements. Dealers are quoting producers' extras 25 to 26 cents, firsts 23 to 24 cents, pullet extras 21 to 22 cents. Chicago spot 21½ to 22 cents. November refrigerators 27½.

MACKEREL SEASON OPENS
PORTLAND, Me., June, 3.—The fresh mackerel season opens here on May 29 with the landing of a catch made outside of Portland Harbor.

Up until the present time the local markets have been supplied with fresh mackerel by the big seining fleet working in the vicinity of Cape May, N. J. Local seiners have contributed a small supply of herring caught in the harbor but the mackerel catch, although small, signals the arrival of the speckled fish in these waters and the opening of a new seasonal branch of the local fishing industry.

"FIVE ACES" ARE BEATEN BY "SOCIALS"

The Five Aces, that crack bowling team that recently were crowned the Junior champions of the League of the Cross alleys, were forced to forfeit their crown last night, when a smart and flashy aggregation, calling themselves the Socials, snatched a deciding game, the last of a three game series, from them by a comfortable margin of 225 pins. The game last night was closely contested all the way through, the Socials having a slight margin over their determined opponents in the first and second games, and pulling away from them in the last game to come out on the big end of the score. In last night's game, L. Duffy, of the newly crowned champions, took all honors, when he rolled a nice single game of 296 pins, and had 744 for three games.

STATE EXECUTION IS CONDEMNED AS A SECOND MURDER

SYDNEY, N. S., June 2.—"When I came away from the scaffold I could not feel that I had been a party to a murder just as indefensible as that on February 8 at the Norfolk Hotel, and carried out with evident grim satisfaction by a hireling whose only motive was the pay he was receiving, but protected by law," Rev. Dr. A. H. Campbell told his congregation in the First United Church here in a sermon against the continuation of capital punishment in the Dominion. Dr. Campbell was one of the two clergymen attending Ingevald "Bing" Anderson at the county jail here and was with him when he went to the gallows, closing the final chapter in the murder of DeLois Pellberg, local hotel porter.

"The day will come," declared Dr. Campbell, "when our descendants will view with wonder and disgust the fact that their ancestors of 1920 practised the old Lex Talionis, an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth."

"Jesus did away with this old law and rendered it forever obsolete. Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed," is another form of this same law condemned by Jesus.

"The taking of a man's life by the State is a rather cowardly way of dealing with murder, when as in most cases, the murderer is irresponsible for his conduct. The day will certainly come when the murderer will be placed in confinement where he will be no longer a menace to society, but when it comes to taking human life, that is God's prerogative, not man's. Human life is a sacred thing given by God, who alone has the right to take it away."

"Some day the State will see it in this way and capital punishment will be a thing of the past."

"There is nothing in the teaching or character of Jesus to suggest this way of dealing with murder, but much to condemn it. Let us hope that the time will soon come when a better way is adopted in the treatment of those unfortunate criminals."

"This statement does not in any way cast any reflection on the Court which handled this affair according to the laws of the land. The judge and jury simply did their duty conscientiously and no doubt regretfully."

Francis Grayson and her three companions for more than two years has been partially solved by the recent recovery of two fishermen of a heavy eighty-five foot strand of copper wire, similar to the trailing antenna with which the plane was equipped.

On the evening of December 21, 1927, Mrs. Grayson with pilot, navigator and another companion, took off from Roosevelt Field, New York Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, on what was to have been the first of a trans-Atlantic flight. After passing Cape Cod the plane was never sighted, although a schooner bucking heavy weather across the mouth of the Bay of Fundy that night, reported seeing a moving light suddenly extinguished, and hearing the crash of a body plunging into the sea. Distress calls were picked up by the Government radio station on Sable Island, and a search was kept up for days by sea and air. But no trace of the Dawn was found.

The copper wire believed to have been part of the Dawn's equipment was taken up by two fishermen, William Cabral and Louis Cordeiro, while trawling off the Highland Light. The wire was pulled up with difficulty until something to which it was attached gave way, the metal. On their return to Provincetown, the strand was found to weigh twenty pounds, and was formed of about twenty fine wires twisted together. Fishermen here said they had never seen copper cables of this kind used on boats of any sort, and Commander H. Wilcox of the Coast Guard suggested the wire was part of the Dawn.

People who had seen the plane while it was waiting for take-off opportunities described a trailing copper wire, about one hundred feet long, which was used as a radio antenna, and which dangled beneath the plane while in flight.

MORE LIGHT ON DAWN MYSTERY

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., May 31

Mystery which has cloaked the fate of the amphibian plane "Dawn,"

WHE NWE ARE OLD

When we are old and life's short span of years
Are ashes, strewn with glints of embers here and there
Symbolic of the end when the fires of youth are vanishing
Leaving us grey, like autumn trees so bare

The years we've lived in fancy, we live over,
Memories like jewels shining for all time

Sparkle in our hearts unknown to those about us
Untarnished by the years of toil and grime.

Friends long have sought their rest beneath the sod,
Gladly they've wrapped their cloaks for their long sleep
And laid them down to await "the Judgment Morning,"
"For that which they have sown, they too shall reap."

Can we look back at eventide, my brother,
Believing that we've fulfilled our Saviour's plan,
Beautiful the world by our living in it,
Got right down and helped some fallen fellow-man?

Or are we roving, restless, hopeless, longing
Living in fear of judgment for the wrong
We did our brother? we who are his keeper
Are our hearts blackened on our lips no song?

For those who've fought the battle fairly
Death holds no terror, rather 'tis a door
Which opens, admitting them to His bright presence
Where no tears are shed forevermore.
