IN 96th YEAR—Daniel Burhoe of Dundas is visiting his mother, Mrs. Annie Burhoe, Hillsboro St., who is in her ninety-sixth year. Burhoe as she is always called is bright and active as one twenty years younger.

FIREMEN CALLED OUT — The firemen were called out Saturday morning at 7:30 to extinguish slight blaze in a dwelling on King St. The fire was under control before the firemen arrived.

FUNERAL SATURDAY—Funeral of the late Wallace McLure, Brackley Pt. was held from his late residence Saturday afternoon. Services at the home and grave were conducted by the Rev. T.A. Wilson. The pallbearers were: Ira Carr, George Hughes, O.M. Robinson, Charles McQuarrie, Edward Shaw, Albert Shaw. Interment was in Brackley Pt. Cemetery.

HONORABLE MENTION — Count Paulsen, Senior and Grand Champion Holstein bull at the Charlottetown Exhibition, received Honorable Mention in the three-year-old class of the All-Canadian Contest, just concluded. He is owned by a syndicate of P.E.I. breeders composed of Cecil J. Stewart, W. Buntin and Son, G.S. Buntin and John L. Clark Rustico and New Willshire. The All-Canadian Contest provides for an All-Canadian and a Reserve to be selected in each of the regular show classes by a committee composed of the judges at the leading fairs of the Dominion.

FUNERAL AT TRACADIE — The funeral of the late Mary J. McDonald whose death occurred at Boston, Mass., was held from the residence of her brother, William McDonald, Tracadie, on December 10, to St. Bonaventure's Church, Tracadie, where requiem high mass was sung by the pastor, Rev. K. MacPherson. The pallbearers were: Messrs. A.J. McDonald, John R. McIntyre, Alexander McKenzie, Aeneas McKinnon, William Power and John Maye. Services at the grave were conducted by Rev. Father Simpson.

Y.M.C.A. SATURDAY EVENING PARTY — Another of the series of parties for the troops was held on Saturday night, and new faces were noticed. Men who had only recently arrived in town found their way to the Y. Some one said that there were more people in the building on Saturday than they had ever seen there before. That may be so. At any rate there were a goodly number — and yet there was room for more. When you come to think of it, it is very refreshing and exhilarating to ponder over the thought that there are that roof men from all quarters of the British Empire and the U.S.A. meet and fraternize every Saturday evening when spirits are high and all ailments of enjoyment, casting aside dull care

Many Attend Sacred Concert Here

A packed house greeted the Annual Sacred Concert at the Prince Edward Theatre last night which was sponsored by the Charlottetown Male Chorus assisted by the Band of No. 62 O.A.B.T.C. and other artists.

The proceeds were in aid of the Children's Christmas Fund of the Charlottetown Free Dispensary. The program was a most delightful one, and the sponsors had many requests for its repetition, as hundreds of disappointed patrons of this popular annual entertainment were turned away for lack of accommodation.

The Male Chorus was under the direction of Prof. John Inch, Mus. Bach., and Dr. T.E.E. Robins, President of the Charlottetown Male Chorus presided. The accompanists were Miss Lillian Earle and Mr. Albert Blanchard. The band from the training centre was under the direction of Sgt. Lloyd Ward, and the composition of the medley of Christmas Carols played by the band was specially arranged by Mr. Walter MacNutt, formerly organist of Trinity Church, Toronto and now stationed at Beach Grove Training Centre.

The following is the program: O Canada, Band; Band Selection Overture "Nugget Nel"; Slovak Carols, The Charlottetown Male Chorus; Violin, Intermezzo and Brahms' Lullaby by Mrs. Kathleen Hornby; Chorus Volga Boat Song; Solo, The Holy City by Miss Pearl Burns; Band Selections: Medley of Christmas Carols, March Punjaub Chorus, All Through The Night, Soloist Dr. Robins; Chorus, Golden Slippers — A Negro spiritual; Duet, Watchman, What of the Night by Mr. Percy Williams and Mr. Chas. Earle; Chorus Carols (a) Oh Come All Ye Faithful; (b) Oh Little Town of Bethlehem; (c) God Rest You Merry Gentlemen; (d) Christmas Song; Band Selection, March, "Thin Red Line"; Chorus, Largo by Handel. The National Anthem.

Queen's Canadian Special Christmas Fund For Children

The Queen's Canadian Fund is conducting a special appeal for money to give Christmas cheer to British children whom the war has deprived of the traditional family festival.

Many of them are war orphans, many of them are children still suffering from the effects of bombing raids. Others have not seen their parents for months or years. Officials of the Lord Mayor's Fund are making the plans and will organize the scheme. There will be no administrative expenses deducted, either in Canada or the United Kingdom, from the public subscriptions. The dollar given to the Queen's Fund "Children's Christmas" appeal will be devoted in its entirety to this cause. No attempt will be made to ship goods in kind. Cash only will be transmitted, and subscriptions should be earmarked "CHILDREN'S CHRISTMAS". Every cent will be used to bring something of good cheer to children for whom Christmas Day this year would otherwise be just like any other day.

ed form letters in which one had only to insert "Dear Mary" or "My Beloved Evalina" or "Tom" or "Dick" or "Harry" according to the name and sex of the one to whom you were going to send the massive and, presto, the job was done. There was a letter couched in the most eloquent language, expressing the most beautiful sentiments, varied to suit any occasion, a letter that anyone would be proud to write and pleased to get and no coddling the brain or sucking the pen handle involved. It must have met a long felt want with many a youth and maiden but, also, this valuable help in a time of trouble is out of print now and boys and girls are left to flounder around in the epistolary quagmire as best they can.

WRITTEN THOUGHTS MORE FINAL THAN SPOKEN

To these I would gladly hold out a helping hand but about the best advice I can give them is, first, not to write anything in a letter that you do not feel willing to see published in their home paper, and secondly, not to write letters that are gobs of gloom. So daughter, if you cannot be cheerful in a letter, keep away from the ink pot. Remember that anything that is written seems ten times as fatal and final as when it is spoken. When our friends tell us about their troubles we pat them on the back and say, "there, there, forget it. Let's go and have a nice dinner" and over a good steak or lobster newberg we both put the matter out of mind.

But when the writers say their hearts are breaking and their world is full of woe, we brood over it and its poisons our days and keep us awake at night. We think they mean it, and are not just talking and posing and bidding for our sympathy. It is literally true that what we hear in one ear goes out of the other, as the old adage says, but what we read is seared in our memories.

Hence, girls, when you write to the boy friend at the front, just remember he has plenty of griefs of his own. Don't pass on any bad news to him.

Don't write him that his mother is looking terribly and that she bursts into tears every time she speaks about him.

Don't feel it your sacred duty to tell him that his best girl is going around with a handsome stranger or that Tom Smith has got his place at the bank.

It isn't necessary to tell him about all of the gay parties the bunch are going to.

GIVE SOLDIER ALL HOME-TOWN GOSSIP

Write him all the jolly gossip you can pick up for he is a lot more interested in knowing what is going on at home than he is in what is being done in the Chancelleries of Europe. Tell him about your war work and how many sweaters you are knitting and how you are trying to work with your first aid class so that he will feel that you are trying to serve your country your way, just as he is doing in his. Only impress on him that his is the big way and yours is the little way. And don't forget to keep telling him in every letter how the crowd misses him, how they talk about him and how proud they are of him. Pat him on the back and blow the bugle for him.

Write him little stories about the people he knows. About your kid nephew painting up his dog's mouth with his mother's lipstick because he thought ladies with red mouths looked so cheerful. About the two little cuties who walked out on the Red Cross when they found that they would have to wear caps at their work that would hide their new permanent, about fussy Mrs. Jones who sent a list of all her new favorite dishes to the commissary department and so, on and on, about people whom he is interested in.

Put out your letter by sending your boy friends clippings out of papers and magazines. The boys at the front don't see many of these so cut out the clever little cartoons, and send them in the envelopes and you may be sure that yours will be one of the letters they always look forward to and enjoy.

"The Male Animal" Has Lots of Love And Laughs

There are certainly no prizes on when you go to the Prince Edward Theatre today. "The Male Animal" starts its local tour with everything that makes for grand comedy—gags, comic dialogue, bawdy dialogues and a touch of romance. If there wasn't enough to laugh about, Fondas' sister-in-law, Patricia, played by charming Joan Leslie, is in love with college newspaper editor Anderson's role who has intended reading of a speech is frowned upon by the heads of the University. Jack Carson, top of this, Jack Carson, role of the aforementioned

"I'm Never Without PARADOL"

Many girls and women would never think of being without Paradol in the handbag. Besides the relief of regular pains for which it is especially effective, Paradol is a help in almost any kind of pain or discomfort. It soothes tired, excited nerves and gives you peace when you are feeling lanky and irritable. Few medicines ever come into universal use so quickly as Paradol, because it fills a general need for a quick relief from headache and other pains, as well as upset nerves. If you have not used Paradol, you have a surprise coming to you. A sample of Dr. Chase's Paradol will be sent free if you send your name and address to The Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Limited, Oakville, Ont., Canada, and mention this paper.

HOLLYWOOD SILHOUETTES

BORN in New York City, second of five children. Entered Stuyvesant High, but at fourteen was an office boy at the New York Sun. He then became a bundle-wraper at Wanamakers, a page boy at the Friars Club, an errand boy at the Public Library, and entered Columbia University. At first determined to become an artist, family reverses caused him to take a chorus boy job in the musical comedy, "Pitter Patter". He then turned to vaudeville, appeared in several Broadway plays, and headed for Hollywood where fame and fortune awaited him. He is five feet nine, weighs 155 pounds and has red hair and brown eyes. Soldiers and N. C. O.'s of the Megantic Junior Leaders' School undergo military manoeuvres in such a realistic character that an observer not familiar with the fictive nature of these exercises would believe that an actual invasion was taking place. These manoeuvres consisted in an assault by near-by forest and the out-skirts of Lake Megantic already occupied by two platoons of "B" Company. ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

At the morning service yesterday, the Rector, Reverend A. LeDrew Gardner spoke on the relation of Christmas to the home. Advent, he said, is a season which bids us look two ways: backwards to the first Christmas Day on which the Christ Child was born in lowly circumstances; and forward to the day when He shall come again in majesty and power.

It is a season in which we are given time to prepare for the Christmas season which is essentially a season for the home. As we think of the Holy Family and the Christ Child as the centre of that family, so can we think of our own homes with Christ as the centre of them.

Statistics show that to date 12,000,000 homes have been broken up by the casualties of the war, which would never have been but for the widespread rejection of Jesus Christ from our homes. We who all profess to be Christians ourselves go a long way towards banishing Jesus Christ from our homes.

We have driven Jesus Christ from the lives of our children, and now our own children are being banished from our own lives. Let us dedicate our homes afresh to the "Be of Bethlehem". On Christmas Day let us make two acts of worship: the personal and private act of worship to God; and the corporate and family act of worship and thanksgiving to God for the gift of His Son Jesus Christ.

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

On entering Church yesterday morning we were greeted by the beauty of the decorations made by the Kings' Daughters for the Christmas season. There can be no question that they will add to the joy and pleasure of our worship. In the Book of Ezra we find this verse: "Blessed be the Lord God of our fathers which hath put such a thing as this in the King's heart, to beautify the house of the Lord."

The reception to the Deaconess Miss Marie MacDougal on Tuesday evening was a most successful and enjoyable affair and was a fitting tribute to the fine work which she has accomplished during the past three months she has been with us.

Reverend Dr. Miller conducted both services. In the morning his text was John 1:46 "And Nathaniel said unto him can there any good thing come out of Nazareth? Philip saith unto him Come and see." Kart declared "there are some questions which it is more disgraceful to ask than it is to be unable to answer. This is one of them. They are invited to come and see for themselves and they came to Jesus. What did Jesus owe to Nazareth? Much.
