HOMESIEKERS' EXCURSIONS.

The Grand Trunk Railway has issued a circular authorizing all Agents in Canada to sell Homesiekers' Excursion tickets to points in Western Canada. This is interesting information for those desiring to take advantage of these excursions on certain dates from April to September 1911. The Grand Trunk Route is the most interesting, taking a passenger through the populated centres of Canada, through Chicago and thence via Duluth or thru Omaha and the twin cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul. Ask Grand Trunk Agents for further particulars. W. K. Rogers, City Ticket Agent. 3-234thstreet1911

THE INTER-IMPERIAL NAVAL AGREEMENT.

Before the dissolution of the agreement between the Governments of Great Britain, Canada and Australia as to the status and control of their respective navies were submitted to Parliament by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. It is a highly important document, the salient features of which we quote:

(1) The naval services and forces of the Dominions of Canada and Australia will be exclusively under the control of their Executive Governments.

(2) The training and discipline of the naval forces of the Dominions will be generally uniform with the training and discipline of the fleet of the United Kingdom, and by arrangement officers and men of the said forces will be interchangeable with those under the control of the British Admiralty.

(3) The ships of each Dominion naval force will hoist at the stern the white ensign as the symbol of the authority of the Crown, and at the jackstaff the distinctive flag of the Dominion.

(4) The Canadian and Australian Governments will have their own naval stations, as agreed upon, and from time to time the limits of the stations are as described in schedule A, Canada, and schedule B, Australia.

The wording of the war clause is as follows:

"In time of war, when the naval service of a Dominion or any part thereof has been put at the disposal of the Imperial Government by the Dominion authorities, the ships will form an integral part of the British fleet, and will remain under the control of the Admiralty during the continuance of the war."

The reservation in the first clause of the agreement, that the naval services and forces of the Dominions shall be exclusively under the control of their Executive Governments has been the subject of much discussion. On the one side it is contended that this reservation implies the belief that a Dominion may or may not take part in a war in which the Mother Country is engaged. This is obviously a strained interpretation. The essence of the agreement is the principle of co-operation in the most effective way between the navies of the United Kingdom and the two Dominions.

That Canada and Australia shall own and entirely control the navies that they build and pay for seems a reasonable proposition, at least in time of peace. For a time of war the agreement contemplates unity of control for all the naval forces of the Empire. True, neither Canada nor Australia are bound by the agreement to place their warships at the disposal of the Mother Country in time of war, but the way is prepared for so doing and there can be little doubt as to what would be done in such an emergency. It would then be clearly in the interest of both Canada and Australia to do what is contemplated by the agreement.

The utter impossibility of either Canada or Australia remaining neutral when Britain is engaged in war with another great power, especially a naval power, is apparent. So long as we are under the British flag we shall be open to attack by Britain's enemies, however much we may desire to hold to a convenient neutrality. The enemy would be his own judge as to what part of the British possessions he would strike at, and the unfortified coasts and harbors of Canada and Australia would invite attack.

Any war vessels of a British Dominion that refused to fight would become proper and easy prizes to the enemy's ships, with very scant regard to the desire for neutrality. The agreement gives no hint of a possible or attempted neutrality, but it seems an entirely sane and practicable plan for securing co-operation in naval defence, while preserving to the Dominion Executives as much control of their own fleets in peace and war as is commensurate with the efficient defence of the Empire as a whole. We regard it as a judicious step in advance toward the goal of imperial security.

THE PARTY NOMINATIONS.

Two large party conventions met in this city yesterday afternoon and each made choice of two candidates for the coming election. The choice of the Liberals was Messrs. A. B. Warburton and E. E. Prowse, the representatives in the late House, and who had also carried the party standard, though unsuccessfully in 1904.

The Conservative convention made choice of A. A. McLean, K. C., and Donald Nicholson of this city as its candidates. Mr. McLean sat in the House of Commons from 1904 to 1908, along with Mr. Martin, both being unsuccessful in the election of 1908. Mr. Nicholson is new to Parliamentary life, but in common with the other candidates of both parties is well-known in this city and in the surrounding country. Each ticket has one lawyer and one business man upon it, so that thus far honors are easy.

It seems likely that reciprocity will occupy more attention than any other question during the campaign, but the great majority of the electors seem disposed to vote on party lines more than upon a question of trade or economics. And past elections have shown that the electors of Queen's County are pretty evenly divided between the two parties.

To some extent the election is a referendum on the question of reciprocity, but it is more than that. Reciprocity will be disposed of one way or the other very shortly after the new Parliament shall meet, and the electors cannot be insensible to the fact that the same Parliament will probably continue to transact the country's business for four or five years to come. Again, if reciprocity is endorsed by the people the Government is also endorsed and given a new lease of power, while if reciprocity should by any chance be rejected the present Government would be defeated and the Conservatives brought into power.

Moreover there are important questions affecting our own Province to be considered. Whether we shall get reciprocity or not we want better transportation facilities, we want our just claims against the Dominion settled and more money for Provincial housekeeping. We cannot afford to wait five years longer for these things, and it would be well for both the candidates and the electors to make clear their wishes and intentions of polling.

A misplaced line made nonsense of what we intended to say in this column yesterday about the quantities and values of potatoes imported and exported. The quantity imported from the States was 357,234 bushels valued at $210,089. Besides there were imported 41,709 bushels of sweet potatoes, valued at $40,600. The quantity of potatoes exported from Canada to the States was 22,271 bushels valued at $13,835. Canada exported to various countries last year over a million bushels of potatoes, but very few of them comparatively were sent to the States.

be tried. The distance is about 21 miles and therefore the service should be easily practicable. Should it prove successful it may lead to great results in regard to the mail carrying of the future. It would be easy to test this plan in winter at the Capes across the Northumberland Strait. The board ice would afford excellent starting and landing surface, and the distance from edge to edge would be only about five miles.

There is still a hitch in the Morocco negotiations owing to the "excessive demands" of Germany, but the danger of war arising is thought to be past.

Both the British and Canadian Parliaments are to have autumn sessions. And both will have very important matters to deal with.

DAILY AIR-SHIP FLIGHTS
AT HALIFAX EXHIBITION.

The Annual Nova Scotia Fair, which opens on August 30th. Will be a Happy Blending of Amusements and Educational Features.

The dates of the great Exhibition at Halifax are rapidly approaching. On the 30th of this month the Industrial Fair, of which the Province is so justly proud, will open its gates at Halifax. For the past couple of years the Commission having the Exhibition in charge have devoted themselves exclusively to what might be called the legitimate features or the educational aspect of the Fair. This side of the Exhibition will not be neglected in the coming Exhibition. The education exhibits in manufactures and our natural resources will be magnified and made the most of, but the Commission will seek to make the amusements connected with the Fair a source of real attraction. Education and amusement will be combined in a happy way without the sacrifice in any respect of the one for the other.

A salient feature of the amusement program will be the air-ship flights by Frank B. Goodale, an aerial aviator twenty-three years of age. The newspapers of the United States have devoted a great deal of space to the splendid work of Mr. Goodale, who will make daily flights from the Exhibition Grounds at Halifax, and who will be seen as an aviator whenever the wind is not blowing more than twenty miles an hour. Besides Mr. Goodale the Commission have secured seven good vaudeville acts.

There will be horse racing on every one of the seven days of the Exhibition.

More Money for the Small Dealer

The big man isn't big in spite of the telephone—it's because of it, to a certain extent.

If you're satisfied with the profits your great-grandfather made, if you just want to eke out a bare existence from your business, if more business don't look good to you—well, a phone will be just in the way—a bothersome ornament.

But, mark it down plain, if you want more business, a larger and better class of customers, straight tips on all the markets, the most profitable of inside information and the respect of your customers and envy of your competitors—in short if you want success—you'll see what we can do for you, and you won't waste time over it either.

The phone will bring you business—it will prove it's worth in better returns, in actual additional cash in your till.
