

PAYS TRIBUTE TO ISLAND

Mr. Geo. C. Carter, Manchester, New Hampshire manager of Dun & Bradstreet, President of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, and authority on the New England Indians, with Mrs. Carter and two of their four children, Robert E., a student at the Suffolk Law School, Boston, Mass., and James B., a senior in the Manchester High School and a member of the Manchester football squad, also a member of the Medical Corps in the National Guards, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Taylor, New Annan, and Mr. and Mrs. Merton Bagnall, Hunter River.

Mr. Carter pays a special tribute to the Island and its people. He says it has a charm all its own and one which is not comparable to anything else in all the world. The Island has without question a sound basis for a consistent development, which will be greatly enhanced by the progress and completion of the main artery, hard surface roads.

Contrasting the more or less uncertain employment condition in the industrial centres, with life on the Island, Mr. Carter said, here is where one can really live where neighbour helps neighbour, where rugged individualism supplants paged collectivism and there is real joy in constructive work.

"Everywhere we went," said Mr. Carter, "we were treated with the utmost courtesy, kindness and consideration. The Islanders are wonderfully fine people." This is Mr. Carter's second visit to the Island and he says he will certainly come again, and urge others to do so.

Mr. Carter's sons are well known in the sports world, and are keen tennis players. Robert won the Manchester city championship last year, and was runner up this year, yielding only to his older brother Theodore, who won the tournament.

Mr. Carter and his family are real boosters for the Island and it is hoped they will come again. Mr. and Mrs. Carter and their family left this week on return home, S.

Special Session Of United Church of Canada Presby.

The Prince Edward Island Presbytery of the United Church of Canada held a special meeting in Trinity Church, Charlottetown, on September 5th, to consider Christian Social Reconstruction from several angles. There was a large attendance of ministers and laymen, among whom were Rev. Hugh Miller and Rev. J. W. Barbour, the latest additions to the ranks of the Presbytery.

Rev. G. A. Christie presided and, after dispensing with other matters of business, called upon Rev. J. W. A. Nicholson to lead in the discussion of the subject.

He claimed that we are faced with the need of bringing our everyday life more into conformity with our Christian creed and religious profession. The creed we profess makes demands upon us far beyond what we are doing and it is our place to work out of the Slough of Despond into firmer ground. Unless we do there is no hope for the world. He believed there is a demand for three things: (1) An appeal for the fresh rededication of our lives and a similar appeal to our people.

(2) Educate ourselves through becoming familiar with all the facts. With this in view he suggested that Presbytery should divide itself into four study groups to meet weekly and he recommended a list of books to be taken up for study in these groups.

(3) That we work for cooperation. (a) denominationally to bring all people together in a common interest, because Church life should not be competitive. (b) politically because old party politics are as antiquated as the sythe. (c) where people join forces and become masters of their own situation.

Helpful discussion followed in which Messrs. Paterson, McGowan, Pierce, Ritchie, Archibald, Boothroyd, Wilson, Hokin, Nicholson and Woodside took part. All believed there was much social injustice running through our entire system of living but they felt it could only be removed through making the hearts of the people right. If people's hearts are only right then they will sell their apples right. Mr. Nicholson warned the crowd against the danger of looking for results too soon. But God is on the side of the common people so their cause is bound to win.

The following books were recommended for study: Christianity and the Crisis, by Percy Dearmer. The Church and Industrial Reconstruction, by a Committee on the War and the Religious Outlook. The Intellectual Man's Guide through World's Chaos, by G. D. H. Cole.

The Industrial Revolution, by Chas. Beard. Religion and Social Justice, by Sherwood Eddy. Agricultural Cooperation in Denmark.

TOUSLED HAIR LATEST STYLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Fur gloves, chin-straps, veils, high shoes and square gold rings were among the oddities seen in the August Paris openings and described by Miss Marjorie Howard internationally known fashion authority, at a style forum here under the auspices of the fashion group. Miss Howard also reported the "tousled style of hair dressing" was growing in favor, and that women were inclining to a more natural type of make-up. The "oval, fore and aft lines" in hats were something to be watched. Mrs. Howard said, while crowns were higher, although "pill boxes" now looked like "collar boxes" the Tyrolean or fedora influence still was seen in sports or morning wear, with feathers or quilts giving added height.

OXFORD ACCENT FOUND CHIEFLY AMONG ACTORS AND CROONERS, IS CLAIM

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Cinemas depicting life in Boston are the best place to find an Oxford accent, said Sir Anthony Jenkinson, Bart., on his arrival on the liner Aquitania to-day. Sir Anthony has come to the United States to study the new deal. He wants to see, he said, "whether there are any general revolutionary signs among the working class." He said he had written an article "debunking" the Oxford accent recently, and that English crooners and people in movies depicting life in Boston were the only ones who used it.

To Make Survey Of Grasshoppers

(By The Canadian Press) SASKATOON, Sept. 12.—Provincial and Dominion entomologists will conduct a joint survey of the grasshopper situation in Saskatchewan this fall, it is reported here, in preparation for further assaults upon the prairie pest. A general survey of the number of adult hoppers and the number of eggs laid to the square foot will be undertaken, said K. M. King, in charge of the Dominion Entomological Laboratory here. "Grasshopper damage this year was much less than last season," Mr. King said, "but in certain districts the pest has increased."

EXPANSION NOTED

(A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The second week of September, said Iron Age today in its weekly review, has brought out further moderate expansion of iron and steel bookings, "but nothing resembling a definite upward trend in buying is yet apparent."

Consider The Children's Eyes

Please consider the children for a moment from the standpoint of the use and abuse of their eyes. School children are often COMPELLED to strain their eyes. They must study continuously day after day. Parents should be sure their children see as well as nature intended. Helping children's eyes often help them in their progress at school. G. F. HUTCHESON OPTOMETRIST
