TOMMY'S HEART HARDENS

Gas Changed British Attitude to Foe Hun Officers Blamed

Officers returning from the front state that the feeling of the ordinary British soldier towards his enemies in the trenches opposite underwent a great change after the Germans began to make use of first of poisonous gases and then of explosive machine gun bullets. The British soldier originally entered the fight with the idea that it was to be fought in an honorable manner, according to the accepted military Marquis of Queensberry rules, and he fought accordingly, and when he happened to make German prisoners he was invariably willing to shake hands with them and try to cheer them up if they were downhearted. But when all the hitting below the belt began, his blood rose and "no quarter" would have suited him better. Still, it is asserted that the average German private is really a kindhearted individual who only reluctantly becomes cruel and brutal. It is the officers who are most to blame for the stains on Germany's escutcheon, and the iron discipline of the German army has made the soldiers, who have all been going through a three years' course of sullying, into mere tools in the hands of their officers who do not hesitate in shooting them down on the spot if they do not obey quickly enough. Belgian refugees have confirmed this.

IN MEMORIAM

MISS RUBY MCKINNON.

The death of Miss Ruby McKinnon, occurred at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McKinnon, of Cardigan, on July 9th, after an illness of three months. The deceased was twenty-three years of age, and resided in Boston, for the past seven years, where she received her education and held a position as stenographer, and where she also made many friends and will be greatly missed by all who knew her. The funeral was largely attended. She leaves to mourn a grief-stricken mother and father and four sisters and three brothers, viz. Mary Catherine, Mildred and Russell, all who reside in Boston, and Rebecca, John and Athol, at home, besides a host of friends and relatives. The pallbearers were Malcolm McAulay, Edgar McAulay, John Haley, Wilbert McDonald, Cornelius and Patrick Ryan.

ARCHIBALD McPHEE.

At his home at Selkirk, on Thursday, June 14th, the death took place of Archibald McPhee, the age of 51. Deceased was the eldest son of the late Archd. (Ban) McPhee, who was the first to settle and literally hew out a home from the primeval forest that less than a century ago stood entirely unbroken. Now there stretches mile after mile of prosperous homesteads.

The eldest of a large family, carrying on the struggle for existence under the handicaps incident to such primitive conditions, it is natural affairs of life should in the average individual stifle all aspiration, and eventually,

"Narrow down to some dusty scope The tameless wing and the tireless hope That for the skies were born."

But unwavering perseverance, engendered in such a rugged school, overcame to a large extent the obstacles of material environment: working all summer to extend the paternal acres, and throughout the long cold winter, and at least five miles to "The old log school-house," he acquired the rudiments of an education such as might arouse the envy of many a modern intellectual. This was the leisure of more prosperous days, and he supplemented by extensive reading and a few in any walk of life could lay claim to a candidate for the works and thoughts of classic authors, or more just appraisal and intelligent acquaintance with the various developments in many spheres of mental speculation and activity.

A close observer and unbiased student of political men and measures, his powers of perception in that regard may best be illustrated by mention of the fact that in the early days of "Our rough island story," he was among the first, if not indeed the first, to propose the late Hon. Edward Whelan as a candidate for political preferment. And with what result the history of our country will tell with increasing pride through years to come.

In a proportionate sense it might be said of him as was once remarked of a great British liberator: "To know him was in itself a liberal education," and by his passing a gap is left that may not readily be filled.

While still a young man he was appointed a Justice of the Peace, and was much more exacting than in these later days, still they were discharged with unquestioned fairness and in a spirit of equity and justice that really made for peace.

More recently he filled the offices of Postmaster and Postmaster for the extensive territory served by the Armadale rural routes, all with unflinching devotion to duty and unvarying satisfaction to all concerned.

Over a year ago his health began to fail, but being of such buoyant temperament it was only within the final week that he realized the end was near at hand. The tenderest ministrations of a devoted wife and family, supplementing medical attendance, did all possible to alleviate his bodily ills, and his spiritual necessities were faithfully attended to by his parish priest, Rev. K. C. McPherson. Rev. Grim Reaper, he awaited the final summons in perfect resignation, and in the early hours of Thursday, June 14th, his soul went forth to its reward.

The funeral, with High Mass of Requiem, took place at St. Margaret's on Saturday following, and was very largely attended.

There are left to mourn widow (nee Johanna McDonald), four daughters, Mrs. John Carey, Everett, Mass.; Mrs. Jos. H. McDonald, Jordan, Montana; Mrs. Daniel McInnis, Selkirk, and Annie at home; also three sons, John A. in Worcester, Mass.; Joseph, Jordan, Montana, and James in the home. To those the Guardian joins in respectfully tendering sympathy.

GAME TO THE LAST.

HOW WRECKED SUBMARINE WAS RECOVERED.

One of the big problems that arose in the salvaging of the submarine "H-3" which grounded near Eureka, Calif. last winter, was how to move the heavy craft. The June Popular Mechanics Magazine tells how this was solved. By means of powerful jets of water, channels were bored in the sand under the vessel and cables placed beneath it and fastened to the crossbeams rested on them, were then employed to raise the submarine out of its cradle of sand. When this had been done skids were placed beneath it and it was slowly hauled away.

ITCHING BURNING PIMPLES ON BABY

Head and Face Covered. Came Off in Scales. Would Cry Most All Night. Cuticura Healed.

"When my baby was two weeks old her head and face became covered with little water pimples. They later broke and dried, and came off in scales. They itched and burned terribly and she would cry most all night. She was so cross and fretful I could not leave her to do my work.

Then I got Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In three weeks there was no trace of the trouble left. She was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Alex. Foster, R. R. 2, Proton Sta., Ont., June 9, 1916. Prevent further trouble by using Cuticura Soap for the toilet.

ISLAND BOY IN REST

CAMP BY THE SEA

Mr. and Mrs. Rod Williams of Victoria have received the following letters from their son in France:

France, June 23rd, 1917.
Dear Mother—
I thought I would drop a line to let you know I am well. I am down by the sea-side now for a couple of weeks. They send so many out of each Battalion every two weeks and I was out in the lucky ones as it is away out in the country and a whole day's trip in the train from the line. I can't even hear the guns so that is some change.

I am sitting by the sea now and watching the ships go by and the old French fishermen in their big bare feet. We have a bathing parade every morning and that is all we have to do. They send us down here on purpose to give us a rest and we sure enjoy it. The sea breeze is lovely and it makes me think of home when we used to go to the shore.

Well it is about dinner time and I must go to camp. I will come down this afternoon and finish up.

Well mother here I am down by the shore again but it is starting to blow and the sea is heavy, so I think I will have to go back to camp. I will write after while I am here but I must close for this time. Good by with love to all from your loving son,
EARL.

France, June 18th, 1917.
Dear Father—
As I was writing I thought I would drop you a line to let you know I am well, hoping this will find you the same. Well papa I hear you have conscription over there now! That will catch a few of them and I am glad I did not wait for that. I will close for now with love from your loving son,
EARL.

GREAT WAR VETERANS APPROVED

Toronto City Council Voted Five Thousand Dollars Towards Furnishing and Upkeep of Headquarters in Queen City

The City Council of Toronto has made a grant of five thousand dollars towards the cost of furnishing and equipping the new Club house headquarters of the association at Carlton and Church St.

Splendid premises are assured for the use of the men for two years to come at least. An option of purchase has been secured and the present headquarters of the G.W.V. may become its permanent home in the city of Toronto.

The location is a fine one, and the present building adequate for at least two years to come. There are twenty-six rooms in the building and several of them have been furnished as bedrooms for the use of visiting delegates and those comrades who may wish to take advantage of them.

THE AVERAGE MAN

The man who wins is an average man; Not built on any peculiar plan. Not blest with any peculiar luck. Just steady and earnest and full of pluck.

When asked a question he does not "guess"—
He knows and answers "No" or "Yes"
When set a task that the rest can't do
He buckles down till he's put it through.

Three things he's learned: that the man who tries
Finds favor in his employer's eyes;
That it pays to know more than one thing well
That it doesn't pay all he knows to tell.

For the man who wins is the man who works
Who neither labor nor trouble shirks,
Who uses his heart, his head, his eyes
The man who wins is the man who tries.

—Charles R. Barrett.
