The friends of Allan J. McDonald, formerly of Orwell, will be pleased to hear of his marriage to Miss Katherine McMahon of Fulton Illinois, which took place at Portland, Oregon, June 6 h 1907, in St. Mary's Church, by Rev. N. A. Daly, whose home was also formerly in Charlottetown. Mr. McDonald is the oldest son of Mrs. Flora A. McDonald of Orwell, but has made his home in California for the past 10 years. His bride is a native of P. E. I. claiming Charlottetown as her birth place.

On the 10th day of June the funeral of the late Mrs. Wm. A. Chandler took place from her late residence Mr. Albion and was attended by a very large number of people. Not only in the vicinity in which she resided but for miles around the people assembled to testify to the respect in which she was held by all classes and creeds. Although from the nature of the disease, she had been a great sufferer, her pains were borne with that patience and resignation which characterize the true believer in Jesus Christ. As the end drew near she said 'Lord Jesus receive my spirit' and quietly and peacefully her spirit passed into the eternal world to join the innumerable company of the redeemed. She has left behind to mourn her loss a husband, three children in the United States and two at home; six brothers and two sisters. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. D. Chown and Rev. D. McLean and the casket was gently and mournfully borne by her six brothers. The funeral director was G. D. Wright. The remains were laid in the Birch Hill cemetery to await the grand resurrection morn.—Com.

A deep gloom has been cast over Rose Valley and vicinity on account of the recent death of Mrs. Frederick W. McKenzie. The event is rendered doubly sad by reason of the fact, that she was married only about a year ago. Deceased was in the 28th year of her age, and was a young woman of exemplary character, of pleasant manners, and cheerful disposition. She will be greatly missed in the home, in society, and in the community. The funeral services at the home and grave were conducted by the Rev. Geo. E. Ross of Zion Church. The funeral was largely attended. Altho' the day was unfavourable, a great number of carriages followed the remains to Springing Cemetery, to pay the last respects. The pallbearers were, Alex. Matheson, D. nald McKinnon, Angus M. McDonald, Adam McKenzie, Roderick McKay, and Robert McKenzie. She leaves a sorrowing husband, infant daughter and aged father; three sisters and four brothers, a large circle of relatives and friends and an aged father and mother-in-law, who have the deep sympathy of the entire community in their sore bereavement. The three sisters are: Mrs. J. J. Graham Bradshaw; Mrs. Lemuel Dawson, Albany; and Miss Sarah at home; the brothers are Donald at home, Charles in Sackville, N. B., John in N. S., and Murdoch of the P. E. I. Railway, Charlottetown.

Charlottetown is advancing at a rapid rate. Everybody admits the signs of improvement on every hand. An enormously large number of new residences of late design are being erected from time to time and lawns are being kept in perfect condition. Shade trees are to be found almost everywhere and permanent sidewalks are the order of the day.

Novellists are just beginning to awaken to the possibilities in the last days of monarchical Mexico, before Emperor Maximilian, deserted by France and left to die alone, when taken out and shot, dying like a hero. Lew Wallace wrote much of the romance of the time into 'The Fair God.' Clarence Bennett founded his play 'A Royal Slave' which will be seen at the Opera House Thursday and Friday, June twenty-seventh and twenty-eighth, upon General Wallace's famous novel, but was not contented to let matters stop there. He has not attempted to paint the life, but he has made romance more romantic. His play fairly tingles with exciting heart interest.
