

Early Canadian Art Fostered By Church

MONTREAL, Feb. 4.—(By The Canadian Press)—In an illustrated lecture entitled "Sault aux Recollets" Professor E. R. Adair of Montreal recently afforded the McGill Alumnae society a glimpse of the wealth of artistic craftsmanship to be found in the old churches of the Province of Quebec. The professor dealt with the early history of Montreal, the circumstances that affected the life of the settlers, and the things that made up the civilization of New France. Leading up to the beginning of artistic creation in the colony. In the English settlements to the south, Prof. Adair pointed out, similar circumstances were found, but whereas frontier conditions killed the arts in New England, it was not so in New France. The key to the situation was the Roman Catholic Church, which utilized whatever was possible to make its services impressive to the habitants. Objects d'art were brought over from France, and architects, and wood carvers and teachers to give instructions in the rudiments of church decoration. The result was the founding by Laval in New France of a school of art established on the solid traditions of the 17th century, to which the ecclesiastical art of the country belonged down to 1840. This was essentially a wood carving age, the lecturer said, because wood was the die material available. He showed how two schools developed, one in Quebec and the other in Montreal, with the same fundamental ideas but with distinctive characteristics. A feature of the Quebec school was the use of life-size statues in the churches and Prof. Adair mentioned the interesting fact that the last representative of the school of statue-carvers, Louis Jobin, died in Quebec only last year, more than 90 years of age. Coming to Sault aux Recollets, which is located on the northern part of the Island of Montreal, the lecturer traced the establishment of the mission there by the Sulpicians and the building of the church, which after the migration of the Indians to Oka, about 35 miles from Montreal, became the parish church for settlers from Montreal. The people of the parish held a meeting when everyone contributed something—stone, wood, labor or money—so that in 1751 the edifice was ready for service to be held. The new church, still standing, was built a century later. Prof. Adair described the manner of decorating churches of the time with wood carvings which were nailed onto the surface to be decorated, an effective device of the craftsmen. In describing the Sault aux Recollets church he showed views of the west front of the edifice, the work of an English architect in 1850; the beautiful domed roof, some of the altars, a tabernacle and other features dating from different periods, noting typical details of the Montreal school such as the cornucopia motif. Attention was particularly called to the doors on each side of the high altar leading to the sacristy, these being carved in beautiful forms out of a solid block of hard wood, and tinted. These were obviously the work of French-Canadians, supposedly dating back from the middle of the 18th century, and probably the finest pieces of local wood carving in Canada. Cuba's efforts to restrict its sugar production has decreased the island's crop from 5,126,000 tons in 1924-25 to 4,000,000 in 1927-28. ROUND HOUSE BURNED—On Sunday afternoon a fire which broke out at a quarter to six completely destroyed the two stall round house at Elmira station. Engine number 1049 which runs between Charlottetown, Elmira and Souris was badly damaged, everything about her that would burn being burnt. The origin of the fire is unknown. The cleaner left the building at 3.30, and the fireman at a quarter past five, everything then being apparently all right, but half an hour later flames burst through the building, coming apparently from around the engine, the building afterwards falling in on top of her. The round house was valued at $4,000 and the repairs to the engine are estimated to cost about $2,000. She was a standard gauge of what is known as the ten hundred class type, one of the "used" engines sent here from the mainland when the gauge was widened.

THE HOLINESS REVIVAL CAMPAIGN—This useful campaign which has been conducted by Adjutant and Mrs. Martin at the Salvation Army Citadel, during the last ten days has been very successful. The meetings continued over the week end and reached a happy climax last evening. During Sunday a good interest was maintained all through the day's services and the Citadel was full for the evening meeting. Last night Mrs. Adj. Martin delivered the final address of the campaign:—"Paul takes stock in life", and proved very fitting on a link between the past campaign and the responsibilities and opportunities for the future. The local corps has derived a great deal of benefit from the campaign and a number have been registered at the altar for a deeper spiritual life. The trend of the meeting last night took the direction of strengthening the spirit and principles of the Army in its local following, and at the close a consecration service was held pledging loyalty to God and continued allegiance to the Army. Adj. and Mrs. Martin have declared themselves by teaching and spirit, to be out-and-out salvationists, and their united lives sacrificially set apart to push the cause of the Army with all their might and power. Reference was also made to the "Seige of Canada East" plans being launched to commemorate the William Booth Centenary.

THE LONLINESS OF THE BIG CITY BROCKVILLE, Ont., Feb. 4.—(By The Canadian Press)—The stress of living in the cities is today a more potent factor in causing insanity than the loneliness of the isolated farm and settlement on which emphasis has been so frequently laid in the past, says Dr. M. W. English, medical superintendent of the Ontario Hospital here, with over 800 patients. Telephones, motorcars and radios, he adds, have broken down the isolation of the farmer and settler and insanity through loneliness is no longer found in the degree formerly known. A change in this respect has been observed particularly in the west.

St. Pauls Church Annual Meeting

The annual congregational meeting of St. Paul's Church was held last night in the Parish Hall, with the rector, Rev. H. D. Raymond presiding.

The attendance was one of the most representative that has been seen for some years, and the report of the various departments of the Church's activities showed splendid growth. The report of the people's warden, Mr. Harry Winchester, was an exceptionally fine one, and it was unanimously agreed that a more encouraging report, covering the financial activities of the congregation, had not been presented in years. His report showed that, in addition to the usual contributions, of slightly over $15,000.00 a special sum, approximately $4,000.00 had been raised, and was used to pay off the last indebtedness on the church property. At the present time, St. Paul's Church is entirely free of debt, and the buildings and equipment were never in better condition.

The following is the slate of officers for the year 1929:

Natives Bulk Larger In Coming Election

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Feb. 4.—(By The Canadian Press)—The growth of the natives of South Africa in number and influence has created one of the gravest political problems in the stormy history of the Union and promises to be a dominating factor in the general election which is to be held early this coming summer. The natives now outnumber the whites four to one, and have some things they never had before, a flourishing labor organization, the Industrial and Colored Workers' Union. The attitude of a cabinet minister towards this union is said to have caused the recent resignation of Premier Hertzog's cabinet, and its reconstruction without the minister in question.

Organized some six years ago, the Industrial and Colored Workers' Union grew rapidly, stimulated by the genuine grievances of the blacks. It is now recognized among the natives as their official medium of negotiation. When a native has a grievance against a European, instead of taking it to his master or to a magistrate he takes it to the nearest office of the I.C.U.

At the head of the union is an astute and aggressive young native, named Clements Kadalle. While he is first built up the movement by violent anti-white speeches, and sallies into the field of politics, his avowed policy is now one of co-operation with Europeans. In this he has received little encouragement as yet. The white labor unions refuse to recognize the I.C.U. and General Kemp, minister of agriculture, recently refused to allow the union to interfere in a wage dispute between his department and natives engaged on an agricultural experimental station. Farmers in certain parts of the country have banded together in refusing to employ natives who belong to the union.

Kadalle recently made a number of friends among the Europeans by the expulsion of a number of union officials on the ground that they were Communists. He failed in an attempt to secure appointment as representative at the International Labor Conference at Geneva, but went to Europe unofficially and did much to discredit the official representatives, and gained some sympathy for himself among international labor leaders.

It is generally believed Premier J. B. Hertzog intends to make the native question the leading election issue. At the recent opening of the last session of Parliament the government announced the house of assembly would resume consideration of parliamentary representation of natives and that a joint sitting of both houses would be arranged to pass on the colored persons' rights bill and the native land amendment bill. It was taken to mean that the historic franchise for natives of the Cape Province would be withdrawn and in turn the government would propose giving natives throughout the Union representation in the Union parliament. At present only Cape natives have the franchise.

General Jan Smuts, leader of the opposition, violently opposes bringing up the native question at all, claiming the fighting of a general election on the native issue would disrupt South Africa.

The Markets

MONTREAL—The situation on this egg market is unchanged. Dealers are quoting country shippers extras 40; firsts 35; seconds 28 and the demand is good at current prices.

EDMONTON—This egg market is strong but receipts are expected to increase with the return of milder weather. Dealers are quoting country shippers extras 28-30; firsts 26-28; seconds 20-22. Prices to retailers are extras 37-38; firsts 34-36; seconds 30.

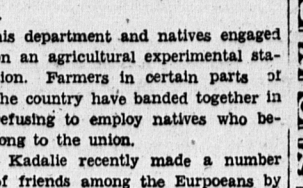

ST. JOHN—This egg market is holding quite steady. Paying prices to country shippers for ungraded eggs are extras 35-37; firsts 30-32; seconds 24-26 delivered, cases returned. Consumptive demand is good and is keeping stocks well cleared up.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 4.—There was no improvement in the foreign demand for grain here today and the volume of business was small.

The undertone to the domestic cash grain market was firm with an improved inquiry from country buyers for car lots for immediate shipment. The trade in spring and winter wheat flour was quiet but the tone of the market was firm. The demand for all lines of milled continued active and owing to the limited supply available the undertone was strong. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was active and firm. An active business was done in all grades of eggs. Jobbing prices were firmly maintained. Receipts were 807 cases. Potatoes sold well at unchanged prices. P. E. I. green mountains were quoted at 90c and whites at 85c per 90 lbs. in bags. New Brunswick green mountains at 60c and whites at 53c per 90 lbs. in bulk. While Quebec potatoes were offered at 55c per 90 lbs. in bulk and ten cents higher in bags. Owing to the high prices prevailing for beans the demand was of a limited character. Canadian handpicked grades sold at $5.75 per bushel while yellow eye and brown beans sold at $5.00 per bushel. A feature of the local butter situation was the stronger feeling that developed and prices scored a further advance of 1-4c to 1-2 per lb. This was attributed to the small arrivals from New Zealand and the limited supplies on spot. Receipts were 14 packages. The cheese trade was again dull but prices were well maintained. Receipts were 127 boxes.

Sir Gilbert Parker's Famous Story at The Capitol

A picture comparing favorably with the very best of the year, "THE LODGE IN THE WILDERNESS," a Tiffany Production, was seen for the first time at the Capitol Theatre yesterday. It is a gripping story of the great forests of the Northwest country, and the battle for the hand of a beautiful girl by two well-bred men.

A forest fire, the likes of which have seldom been seen on a screen is one of the dramatic highlights of this absorbing picture drama. The escape of the hero by airplane from a prison where he is wrongfully confined, to save the girl he loves from a terrible fate is another exciting incident of the story.

Anita Stewart as the girl is as sweet and charming as ever, while Edmund Burns as the stalwart young engineer in charge of constructing fumes for the logging camp, plays his role without criticism. Others in the cast are Victor Potel, as the half-wit, Lawrence Steers, Duane Thompson, Eddie Lyons and James Farley.

"THE LODGE IN THE WILDERNESS" is suggested from a story of the same name by Sir Gilbert Parker.

TO IMPROVE PUBLIC CLINICS

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—(By The Canadian Press)—Efforts are being made by the Academy of Medicine to remedy alleged defects in the administration of free clinics, particularly child welfare clinics, as a result of a number of complaints received. A blank form has been prepared by the academy to be used by child welfare centres in connection with children brought to them for examination and it is believed this will remove any cause for future complaint. The child will be given a routine physical examination after which a report will be sent to the family physician, who will be asked to either recommend continuance of health centre supervision or take the case in his own charge. The matter will be dealt with at a full meeting of the academy to be held shortly.

BECOMES BISHOP OF ONE OF LARGEST DIOCESES IN WORLD

WINNIPEG, Feb. 4.—The traditional and colorful ceremonies of the church of England were witnessed this morning in St. John's Cathedral when Ven. Archbishop William A. Geddes, D.D., was consecrated Bishop of the Missionary diocese of MacKenzie River—one of the largest dioceses in the world, comprising more than 63,000 miles in the picturesque far northwestern section of Canada with a population of only 6,000. The ceremonies of consecration were held under the direction of His Grace Archbishop Matheson of Ruperts Land, Metropolitan and Primate of All Canada, assisted by five bishops and other dignitaries of the church.

FIND SAP IN TREES IS RUNNING FREELY

FREDERICTON, Feb. 4.—An indication of the spring-like conditions was observed recently on the Nash-waskias stream a few miles from Fredericton where a woodsman by actual test found the sap running in the trees as freely as it does usually two months later. The lumbermen would welcome a period of severe winter weather. The winter in this and southern parts of New Brunswick has been a great handicap to these logging and hauling.
