The committee on extension work requested that the work done be along the lines of visiting the breeders, and of consultation along the lines of breeding and feeding.

It was moved by Mr. Major MacRae and seconded by Mr. Keith Boswell that the executive of the club be empowered to grant the financial assistance it saw fit to the club work.

The matter of a picnic was left with the executive.

Mr. W. R. Shaw addressed the Club briefly on matters of interest to the first and foremost, the desirability of raising the level of the standards by registering sires when they were mature rather than when they were calves.

With respect to the question of disease, particularly tuberculosis and congenital abortion. With respect to the first and foremost, the desirability of raising the level of the standards by registering sires when they were mature rather than when they were calves.

thing that makes men busy is the cost of production. At a time when everybody is broke cost is very important. I want to know how much it costs to fish trout, to play golf, the cost of transportation from New York or Boston.

"Not a nation of seamen, and not a boat in sight," commented Mr. Davis in discussing the fishing industry. "Very few countries everywhere. Very few countries have sea trout, as you have. The sheltered waters are ideal for fishing, but you have made it entirely too difficult to get at them."

"Have you found the material for which you came in search?" inquired the reporter.

"A great deal more than I expected," was the reply.

REPORTING BOARD OF THE DEPARTMENT

(2) Oats, barley and rye will all be short crops, for all show a heavy loss of acreage and exceptionally low condition figures for this season.

The production of oats straw, an important substitute for hay when the price of hay is high, will be equally below average. Barley appears to have been damaged as much as oats.

"Hay production depends largely on the extent to which alfalfa and meadows in the Central States are revived by favorable weather during the remainder of the season, on the success in raising emergency hay crops such as millet, sudan and annual legumes, and on how long irrigation water can be made to last in the West.

With pastures bare over a wide area with the necessity of turning out hay and grain feeds, an acute shortage of hay in many States seems unavoidable. Unless the weather is exceptionally favorable, the total crop of tame and wild hay does not seem likely to exceed the 1900 tons compared with the 1929 crop of 74,000,000 tons last year and 5-year (1927-31) average of 84,000,000.

The records for June in past years show nothing comparable with the situation this year. The June average of oats for export is 47.2 percent this year, whereas the lowest in past years was the 78.3 per cent recorded in 1928.

The condition of tame hay is 53.9 and the lowest previously was 76.0 per cent in 1926. Wild hay compared with the previous low of 68.7. Reports on the condition of pastures, which have been fairly comparable for perhaps 40 years, show 53.2 per cent of normal this year compared with the previous low of 75.7 in 1925.

Even winter wheat, in a condition of 55.9 per cent below all previous records, the nearest being 62.0 in 1925.

This would indicate that in addition to the reduction under the NRA which was compulsory, natural conditions have so adjusted crops this season for our neighbours to the South that they are going to be very short of food, including pasture for their livestock, and so far as we can see there should be quite an uptrend in prices of all farm products, including dairy products, which will no doubt react on conditions in Canada and improve prices for farmers.

This bulletin refers to milk production as follows:

"With pastures very poor over a large area, supplies of grain increasing and prices of feeds reported milk production per cow being milked in June last was lower than that date in any of the previous nine years in more than one-half of the States. The entire Corn Belt, most of the Southern and Mountain States, and New Mexico are included in the area reporting record low production of milk.

An unusually low proportion of milk cows on farm was being milked and averages for all the larger groups of States, except the West, show the lowest production per cow in herds compared with 16.57 pounds on that date in 1924 and a June 1st average of 17.67 pounds during the previous 5 years.

There has been some liquidation of cows in the more severe drought areas, this has not yet reached large proportions and reports indicate there is more milk cows on farms than on June 1st last year.

Following is the President's address:

Gentlemen: We meet tonight in our first mid-summer annual meeting. Last night it was decided that we might expect a better attendance in July and that we could have more time at an evening meeting to discuss our problems than at a noon session, with many members who had to catch the afternoon trains.

The result: tonight's annual meeting, and I trust that a may be better than you hoped for.

The period of our work has been asked to review is only about six months and your executive has not been very active as "the sneeze of war" was not available until about two weeks ago when we received a grant for promotion work in this regard.

In this regard, the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association, we immediately spoke to the chairman of our Promotion Committee and asked him, Major McKay, to call his committee together and prepare a program to be submitted to this meeting.

You have no doubt noted Mr. Boulter's remarks on the prospects and prospects for farm crops in P. E. Island, in this morning's Guardian, and that prospects which light in some localities, will be generally a fair one, slightly under an average crop. Pastures which perhaps are even more important for our live stock work, are better than last year. Our grain crops, on which we depend for most of our concentrates for stock, at present are of a wonderful color and should yield above average. The average of our potato crop is about 3000 acres over last year and may be a very valuable asset this season.

Roots and corn are quite promising. The just received a bulletin from the United States Department on "Crops and Markets," on June 1st, 1934, they state, "A sharp decline in crop prospects, heavy loss of early crop and, for this time of the year, a record low condition of pastures and low levels of milk production per cow and egg production per hen, are shown by the June estimates of the Crop Reof cows which have completed their records in the R. O. P. may in future aim declaration which will be accepted without being sworn to. I am sure that we greatly appreciate this ruling and trust that it will add greatly to the number of final reports sent in and it should also greatly obviate delay.

I would also commend to you the article in regard to tattooing and hope that this method of identification may be in general practice by our breeders, because on and after January 1, 1935, no application for registration of an animal under twenty-four months of age will be accepted, unless such animal has been tattooed, or photographed in duplicate showing both sides of the animal.

It has been suggested that instead of holding one annual Ayrshire picnic and field day this year, that it might be better to hold district field days in conjunction with some of our Ayrshire boys and girls clubs. The Ayrshire breeders at their last annual meeting asked for another test under the Restricted Area Policy for this province. They have always been in the forefront in undertaking progressive work, and at present are greatly interested in the control and destruction of weeds throughout the province. These and other matters will come before you at this session for discussion, and I trust that the Ayrshire breeders here present and those throughout the province may be encouraged by what may be the most successful year on which they are now entering.

Summerside Child Escapes Death By Drowning

MONCTON, July 16.—What came near to being a double drowning tragedy occurred at Rayworth Beach near Upper Cape Saturday noon when an eight year old child got out beyond his depth and a young lady who attempted to rescue him became nearly exhausted in the effort. A young man, Gordon Raworth, son of Herbert Raworth, Upper Cape, fortunately saw them both and managed to get them to shore. The young lad was unconscious for nearly twenty minutes before artificial respiration methods brought him to.

Wendell Calbeck, eight year old son of George Calbeck of Summerside, P. E. I., had been playing with the inner tube of a tire near shore. The waves carried the tube out farther than he expected and he found himself in water over his head. Apparently the slippery rubber escape from his fingers and he was left floating in the water.

Miss Peggy Milton, daughter of Charles Milton, of Humphreys, heard the little chaps cries and at once plunged into the water to save him, but became nearly exhausted in the attempt. It was then that Gordon Raworth rescued the pair. Young Calbeck was unconscious and was dragged ashore by the spectators who had gathered there during the intervening time. Mrs. Norman Coates applied artificial respiration methods to the victim and he was brought around. A doctor was called and the near victim was put to bed. He is reported quite recovered today.

DISCUSSES

mistake in reducing these charges. Another obstacle in the development of high class tourist trade is the fact that visitors have to double back over the same way as they came to Charlottetown or take the "Hochelaga" Mr. Simon, the owner, is doing the best he can but with a curtailed subsidy and open opposition for freight traffic he is, and the rest of us, having hard sledding. We found the Charlottetown Board of Trade quite unconcerned as to whether the Pictou-Charlottetown service as it now is, is maintained or not. They point to the necessity in the best interest of the C. N. R. itself of going after the tourist trade as if they were left floating in the water.

"The C. N. R. have a big stake in their hotel at Charlottetown and another at Pictou Lodge," said a prominent Islander to the writer. "They should give an up-to-date service on the Ocean Limited and Maritime Expresses which is certainly not the case at the present time."

"They should have a good service between Borden and Charlottetown which they have not," he continued. "They should reduce their charges on automobiles entering and leaving the Island," was his next point. He drew breath and went a step further. "Well-to-do tourists want to go from Charlottetown to Pictou Lodge and from Pictou Lodge to Cape Breton and to that end the C. N. R. should operate its own service between Pictou and Charlottetown and set a much higher standard than is possible with the Hochelaga. Just as surely as these handicaps are eliminated will tourist travel flow much more freely than is now the case."

"We did not argue the case with the Islander but endorsed the ideas so clearly set forth. The C. N. R. management have got to spruce up their Maritime services to the level of the standard in Ontario and

In Memoriam

MRS. CHARLES MACNUTT

Many friends throughout the Province will learn with a deep sense of regret of the death in the Prince County Hospital, Sunday morning July 15th of Emma Amanda MacNutt, widow of the late Charles A. MacNutt.

About seven weeks ago Mrs. MacNutt was stricken with paralysis in Charlottetown, where she had been residing for the past several years. She had been a patient in the P.E.I. Hospital for some time after being ill but, in order to be near her daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) J. C. Simpson, in Summerside, she was brought here and has since been under treatment in the Prince County Hospital.

Mrs. MacNutt was born at Margate 54 years ago, a daughter of the late William R. and Mrs. Dennis. She spent her early life in Margate until her marriage. After the death of her husband, who belonged to Kensington, she started the MacNutt House in Summerside where she conducted for a number of years a high-class boarding establishment.

But six or seven years ago she accepted a position as dietitian in the Prince Edward Island Hospital and later became matron of the Charlotte Home for Aged Ladies in Charlottetown, in all of which capacities she proved highly capable and won golden opinions of everyone with whom her duties brought her into contact. It was while in the last-named capacity that she was attacked by the illness which brought her life of loving service to a close.

Three children are left to cherish her memory: Charles, in Western Canada and Mrs. (Dr.) J. C. Simpson, Summerside and Mrs. Clifton Matheson, of Freetown; also the following brothers and sisters: Brothers—George Bennett, in Clinton; Wilbur, in Margate; Charles, in Warren, Ohio. Sisters—Mrs. Edith Heaney and Mrs. Russell Heaney, Clinton; Mrs. Bert Warren, Burlington and Mrs. Ewan Carr, Calgary.

The deceased lady was a valued member of the United Church and the funeral took place Tuesday, July 13, p. m. from the residence of Dr. J. C. Simpson, Beaver street to that church, after which the body was conveyed to Malpeque for interment.

MRS. PETER McAVIN

There passed away at Pisquid on the morning of Wednesday, June 27th, 1934, Theresa McKenna, relict of the late Peter McAvin, who predeceased her thirteen years ago. She was born at Kelly's Cross, October 27th, 1858, and was in her seventy-sixth year. Although the deceased had been confined to her bed for two months, no one suspected that her condition was so serious, another in her many friends and a severe shock to her many friends.

She leaves to mourn seven children, Margaret, Malden, Mass.; Priscilla, (Mrs. John Anderson), Alliston, Mass.; Jerome, Nelson, B. C.; Florence, (Mrs. John Walsh), Charlottetown; Rose, Edwin and Howard at home. Also four grandchildren. One daughter, Mrs. Edith Heaney, having passed away six years ago.

The funeral held on Friday at St. Andrews Church, was largely attended and her body laid to rest beside her husband and daughter.

Many flowers, Mass Cards and messages of sympathy bore eloquent tribute to the popularity of the deceased. She will be sadly missed in the community, where she was always ready to extend a helping hand in the hour of need, and will be deeply mourned by her many friends with whom her geniality joins in extending heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family.
