Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Hicks of Charlottetown, were in the city this week.—Moncton Times.

The Cornwall Methodist Sunday School will hold their annual picnic on the grounds of Mr. Nelson, Cornwall on Wednesday the 10th of July. Just a nice drive from the city to the grounds. An extra table will be provided for visitors. Strawberries and cream a specialty. Proceeds in aid of the new church now under construction, if the weather is unfavorable the picnic will be held on the first fine day following. All are cordially invited.

A WOLFVILLE despatch of July 4th says: Mr. John C. Jones, son of Dr. R. V. Jones, has returned from Harvard, where he has been taking a post-graduate course in English. Mr. Jones has made quite a brilliant record since graduating at Acadia in 1900. After special study he received from his alma mater the degree of M. A. in 1901, and now after one year's course at Cambridge he has received the degree of M. A. from Harvard University, doing the work of two years in one.

The supreme chief ranger, Dr. Oranhyatekka, will be able to attend the high court of the I. O. F. at St. Stephen, on August 5th. A summons has been issued calling the high court together for that date. A morning session and a public meeting in the rink will be held, the latter to be addressed by the supreme chief ranger. The St. Stephen Foresters are arranging for an excursion on the river on Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 6. It is possible that the Doctor may visit Prince Edward Island if the meeting of the high court can be held on a suitable date.

Excursions during the good times of the season took place at Hampton on Thursday last, when the members of Eclipse Division, S. O. T., of New Haven held their annual picnic. About 9.30 a. m. a procession of carriages filled with the members and friends of the order left the Hall, headed by Piper Melojm McDonald of Churohill. The weather was all that heart could wish, and the drive through the hilly, picturesque country of Bonshaw and DeSable was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone. About noon time the happy party halted on the beautiful grounds of Mr. Ferguson, Hampton, and after some of the more frisky youths had refreshed themselves by a dip in the briny Strait, all were prepared to do justice to the noontide repast. It is needless to comment on the dainties provided for the occasion by the lady members, for all are fully aware of the abilities of the young ladies of Eclipse, in this respect. The afternoon was pleasantly spent in the amusements which are usually indulged in on such occasions. Music was by no means a lacking feature. Mr. McDonald by the martial strains of the bag-pipes proved worthy to stir the most sluggish hearts. He was ably seconded by William McPhee on the violin. After partaking of an excellent supper each youth with his fair maiden by his side joined the procession for home via Victoria and Crapaud, everybody sorry that such events happen but once a year.—Com.

 in aid of the funds of their church yet incumbent with debt. This will probably be the last appeal to the generosity of the many friends that have always extended such practical sympathy in the many losses sustained in church matters. A capable committee will provide every delicacy and every sport calculated to make their patrons happy, and glad they had gone to Kelly's Cross on Wednesday the 9th of July.
 Tables well laden, and proficently waited on, ready at 12 o'clock.
 Tea on next day if Wednesday be unfavorable.

RESIDENT SCHURMAN ON EDUCATION.

 "The older colleges here and in Europe used to prescribe the humanities, natural science, mathematics, and philosophy. The science was mathematical physics and astronomy, the mathematics at first only arithmetic and geometry, and the humanities Greek and Latin, the only literature then in existence. The education of the ancient Greeks themselves was effected by the same discipline.

THE INDISPENSIBLE MATERIAL.

"History and reflection bring us to the same conclusion: The indispensable materials of a liberal education are: First of all, and most important of all, the humanities; and, secondly, the science of nature, including mathematics as their key, to which must be added philosophy, the fundamental doctrine of both nature and men.

"I do not think it matters what natural science the student elects. Any one, if properly studied—and laboratory work is of course essential—will familiarize him with the scientist's methods and point of view and open up to his imagination at least one radius to the centre of the physical cosmos. After arithmetic, algebra and geometry, the student needs no more mathematics for mental discipline and he will take just as much more as may be necessary for the study of the physical science or sciences which he elects. At least one course in logic, psychology, and elementary philology is essential, and it should not be forgotten by the shamsions of the old curriculum that at least two were prescribed therein.

As to the humanities I am unwilling to dogmatize, for no one can study all the languages, literature, history, and political science now offered at our universities. I put first, however the English language and literature and the history of our own country. And next to these with due regard both to the rights of ancient civilization and the demands of modern. I would put one ancient language and one modern, and I think there is at once scholarly and practical wisdom in the popular instinct which all over the country in our high schools is selecting Latin and German for the place of pre-eminence.

"Few boys go far enough with Greek to derive as much culture from Greek literature as English literature would yield them with the same efforts, and the Hellenistic discipline yielded by Latin is as good, I take it, as that yielded by Greek. For nine-tenths of the students in our colleges and universities, I believe that Latin and German would be a better combination than Latin and Greek. And I am myself so much impressed with the lesson of old Athenian culture that I think a liberal education quite possible without either, though not without literary culture of some sort, which is, as I have already shown, the first essential of a liberal education."

DESPAIRED OF BEING CURED

Mrs. W. E. Jeffries, 44 Hicks Ave., Kingston Ont., states: I suffered agonizingly with itching piles. I don't believe that any person who has not had the piles can realize what I endured. The first application of Dr. Chase's Ointment brought relief and has since entirely cured me. I hope that the testimonial will be the means of bringing comfort to other sufferers by making known the great power of this ointment.

RIPANS
 A man noticed the small amount of food I was taking and he said: "You need Ripans' Tablets." That proved the best prescription I ever received. I bought two boxes and they benefited me so much that I continued to take them. My dyspepsia has disappeared and I sleep peacefully. I feel like going to work after resting only a few hours' sleep in the warm weather. Ripans' Tablets make my sleep refreshing so that I feel like going to work after resting.
