Not To Be "Beaten"

A farmer went into a grocery store and exhibited to the eyes of an admiring crowd an enormous egg about six inches long, which he vowed to have been laid by one of his own hens. He had it packed in cotton and would not allow anyone to handle it, for fear of breaking the phenomenon.
The grocer examined it with the rest, and, intending to chaff the countryman said:
"Pshaw! I've got something in the egg line that will beat that."
"I'll bet you a dollar you haven't," said the countryman, getting excited.
"Right!" replied the grocer; and going behind the counter, he brought out a wire eggbeater.
"There's something in the egg line that will beat it, I think," said he, reaching out for the money.
"Hold on, there," said the farmer; "let's see you beat it."
And he handed the egg to the grocer. The latter held out his hand for it, but dropped it in surprise on the counter, where it broke two soup plates and a platter. It was of solid iron painted white.
"Some folks think they're mighty clever," muttered the farmer, as he pocketed the money and walked out. "But 'tain't no use backing against the solid fact."
"Taint no use backing against the fact that neither the quality nor prices of our groceries are to be beaten. This accounts for our increasing trade."
