

HOW TWO WOMEN ESCAPED OPERATIONS

Doctor Advised Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Happy Results in Both Cases

St. Joseph, Missouri.—"Both of my girls were so badly afflicted with the pain of the stomach and the bowels that I could not get them to eat or sleep. I had heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I bought a box. After taking several boxes I felt it was helping me and now I am able to do my own work. If my girls will help others I shall be glad to read it and hope your doctor will help me as it did them. I am taking the Vegetable Compound and I feel it is doing me good." Mrs. Wm. Perkins, 513 N. 4th St., St. Joseph, Mo.

White Plains, N.Y.—"I had such a pain in my stomach and bowels that I could hardly walk and the doctor said that I needed an operation. I was sick for a year before I started taking your medicine and I could not get any relief. I saw your advertisement in a book and that is how I came to get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking the Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Purifier, I feel like a new woman."

Thrilling Rescue Of Montreal Man From N. B. River

HOPEWELL HILL, Feb. 4.—Oscar Besner, a young Montreal fisher, had a narrow escape from death in the icy waters of the Cocagne River, when his horse plunged through the ice and was drowned. Mr. Besner was in the village yesterday, and gave to those with whom he was conversing a vivid account of his terrible experience on the occasion.

HOPEWELL HILL, Feb. 4.—Oscar Besner, a young Montreal fisher, had a narrow escape from death in the icy waters of the Cocagne River, when his horse plunged through the ice and was drowned. Mr. Besner was in the village yesterday, and gave to those with whom he was conversing a vivid account of his terrible experience on the occasion. He was accompanied by his wife and three children, and they were all rescued by those on shore. That his name was not ascertained at the time and did not appear in any newspaper reference to the accident was explained by Mr. Besner, who explained that he had been so exhausted by the great exposure and exhaustion he had suffered, he was unable to talk for quite a while after his rescue.

Mr. Besner, in telling the story of his adventure, which he can now recall with a little more recollection of his terrible struggle against impending death, said that he had started to drive from Shediac early in the week to Antigonish, but on reaching Antigonish he decided to return without completing the trip. On approaching Cocagne River bridge, ten miles from Shediac, the horse, when the driver had got out of the sleigh to adjust something, made a dash to cross the river on the ice instead of taking the bridge, apparently wishing to take a short cut to the village. The animal, however, made considerable distance out from the shore when Mr. Besner overtook the runaway and grasped the sleigh. Just as he reached the ice, which Mr. Besner could bear cracking, as he proceeded, great cracks were heard and horse and sleigh and driver were plunged into the icy water, which at that point is twenty feet deep.

The struggle that followed was one that the plucky traveler is not likely to forget, and from which he was only saved by the timely assistance from shore and his own sturkly fight against death. Twice he sank beneath the ice-cold waters and on a third occasion he was almost crushed by the horse that the animal struck him in the forehead with its iron-shod hoof, the mark from which he still bears.

After being in the water about ten minutes the horse succumbed and sank to the bottom, leaving his driver to battle for life alone. Fortunately when Mr. Besner's predicament was discovered in the excitement and he had about abandoned hope, being about to resign himself to the fate of his horse, help reached the river side and a rope was thrown him by which he was drawn ashore.

Mr. Besner was by this time from cold and exposure, utterly unable to grasp the end of the line but was saved by the cleverness and thoughtfulness of his rescuers, who, realizing the man's almost helpless condition, stretched a rope into a noose and flung it over his head, one side of the loop going under the drowning man's arm. After being pulled ashore Mr. Besner, who was in a faint, was taken to the Hotel at Cocagne where his sufferings were alleviated as much as possible. The face of the victim of the unfortunate accident was frozen but he has fully recovered from the effects of his unpleasant experience, with no physical reminder of his struggle for life except the mark where he was kicked by the horse.

IN MEMORIAM
JAMES H. PARTRIDGE.
By the death of James H. Partridge, which took place on January 19th, after a protracted illness, we are sorely grieved to have lost one of our most esteemed and respected citizens. The deceased, who was in his sixty-seventh year, resided in the village for nearly fifty years. He was employed for many years as Station Foreman on the railway, and in that capacity was regarded as one of the most capable men on the road. Owing to failing health he was compelled to resign his position about ten years ago. Since then he had not enjoyed robust health. Last fall, thinking a change of climate might prove beneficial, he took a trip to Western Canada where he remained for a few weeks, but the desired effect was not realized and he has been gradually failing until the end came on the above mentioned date.

The late Mr. Partridge was an ideal citizen, having known him intimately for over forty years, the writer can testify to his many excellent qualities of mind and heart. A man of unblemished character, honest and upright in all business transactions, and to every effort of movement, inaugurated for the improvement and welfare of the community, he contributed generously and ungrudgingly of his means and services.

The deceased was twice married, first to Miss Alice McEwen, of West St. Peters, who passed away thirty-one years ago. He leaves to mourn, besides his widow (formerly Miss Christina Scott, of Mt. Stewart) three sons, Cyrus L. driver on the P.E.R.; Watson and Seth in the Canadian West and two daughters, Mrs. Mabel Taylor, Fitchburg, Mass., who arrived home on the day of her father's death, and Flossie at home. Also two brothers, Dan in New Hampshire and William at York, P.E.I. and two sisters, Mrs. Shaw, New Perth and Mrs. Henderson in Ch.

FINAL APPEAL

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF CHARLOTTETOWN
Ladies and Gentlemen:
As you are aware, Wednesday, 8th instant, is the time appointed for you to decide who is to be the Mayor of our city for the next two years. Being the first to issue a Card to the Electors, I set my general policy, and on that policy, together with my eight years record of service, I appealed for your support. I also stated that I would not violate the intention of the Ballot Act, consequently could not make a personal canvass. The campaign is drawing to a close, and you are the best judges as to whether I have kept faith with my published statement. I maintain there is a high principle involved, and I have faith in the citizens of Charlottetown to sustain me in taking the position I do. True, the base to house canvass gives the office seeker an opportunity to resort to questionable means in order to secure a vote, and to obviate that the ballot was given you. If secrecy of voting is the law, why violate it? In my Card I did not claim all credit for improvements made during the last eight years, but my fellow Councillors will bear me out in the statement that I have supported every movement tending to the best interests of the city, and have neither shirked a responsibility, I placed myself fully before you—not in serial numbers to suit an occasion who did not, and, if I have not kept it constantly in the press, it is because I am not a millionaire. You know what it contains.

I have put this final word to say before you cast your Ballot: If it can be proven that I have not been faithful and loyal to the trust reposed in me in the past; if I have claimed credit for that which belonged to others; or, if I have been extravagant in the administration of your public property, as Chairman, then your duty is clear. If on the other hand you believe I have paid close attention to your wants, and have exerted myself to have them remedied; if you think my spirit of progressiveness is tamed by that measure of common sense in keeping with our present, without placing further financial burdens on those who already find the load heavy; in short, if I measure up to the standard of honor, integrity, and in your estimation should characterize your Mayor, I shall appreciate a very great deal the support of every voter so thinking.

A square deal to every one has always been my motto and must continue to be in whatever position I may occupy. Having every confidence in the general integrity of the electorate, I leave the ballot with your conscience, and ask you not to be hasty, but count THREE from the top before making your mark.

Thanking you in anticipation of your support,
I am faithfully yours,
L. B. MILLER

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—Lieut. Col. J. G. Burnham, for nearly twenty-five years connected with the Permanent Force in Canada, died today at his home here in his 83rd year after a long illness. Anaemia

Thin, watery blood is no more refreshing than thin, watery milk-cream milk.

But you can soon enrich thin blood, overcome the anaemic condition and build up the whole system by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. F. G. Simmons, 42 Cur-St., Brantford, Ont., writes: "For about eight years I suffered from anaemia. My circulation was poor, my gums and lips were pale, and my head and feet were always cold. I was nervous and unable to sleep well. I had frequent headaches, seemed restless and was constantly tired. There was a buzzing sound in my ears, a digestion as also one of my complaints, and I was attacked by weak spells. I consulted a doctor, who told me I was anaemic, but as I did not get any better, I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after the first box I felt lighter and my headaches completely disappeared. I continued using the Nerve Food for quite a while. I am now well now, and cheerfully and usefully recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to people suffering as I did before and use this splendid medicine."

MOVEMENT IS SPREADING. CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE CAMPAIGN GAINS ADHERENTS.
BOMBAY, Feb. 4.—Many non-cooperationist leaders in Bombay including Madam Sarojini Naidu, leader of the women's movement in India, enlisted as volunteers for M. K. Gandhi's civil disobedience campaign at a meeting held here yesterday under the auspices of the Bombay provincial congress committee. A number of speeches were made at the meeting urging the enlistment of volunteers of whom it was claimed 10,000 were required for Bombay.

Advices received here today and from the reproductive in from Bombay, in the district of Satara, announced that a conference of representatives of Bardoli and Taluka which Gandhi selected for the inauguration of mass civil disobedience was adopted a resolution declaring that Taluka was not for sure insurrection.

Gandhi explained the conditions necessary for civil disobedience, and the conference decided that unless a round table conference were held or the working committee of the congress decided otherwise, mass civil disobedience and the non-payment of taxes would commence forthwith.
