L. O. C. Boy Scouts In Camp

The L. O. C. Boy Scouts Camp is nicely situated on the South Side of East River between Fort Augustus Wharf and Cranberry Wharf.

The boys have an ideal spot, with bathing, baseball, pole vaulting and various other sports pass away the day and concerts and singing songs pass away the evenings, the boys have just got their radio set up and expect to tune in on some high class stuff before they break camp.

In the field in which they have their tents pitched, two beautiful streams of running water is within a stones throw of the tents.

Their Spiritual Director, Rev. Patrick McMahon, D. D. of the Cathedral Staff is in charge of the boys, which is sufficient to warrant the boys being well cared for and given a good time.

With Father McMahon are Messrs. William Halpeny, James Coyle and Leo Doinon, giving every attention to the boys by way of seeing that their appetites are well satisfied they are making wonderful strides in teaching the boys athletic games and if there is the making of a pole vaulter or football player in camp he will soon begin to show signs of their constant coaching.

Mr. Joseph O'Brien to whom all the camp look at meal times is by far the most important person on the ration and stores and from all accounts is keeping his end of the camp up to date.

There is about fifty boys in camp this season and more are expected for the next week, they attend Mass every morning and the balance of the day is taken up in the various sports and the boys are engaging every minute of the time, in fact having the time of their lives and look it.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Brown and family have also pitched their tent in the adjoining field and intend enjoying the breeze of East River for the next couple of weeks.

NOTES
Some of the fellows say Art can eat Mor-an anyone else.

Who has the two horse power watch in camp?
Camp must be a great life when "Bill" would not have to go to an ice-cream festival.

The radio has a new resistance (Coyle) coil, but still they listen in.

Some day there is going to be an enlarged photograph of this camp this year, at least "Joe" expects one, we will see.

Billie done it up Brown yesterday, but could not get in for the game.

Why does A. R. run all the way for the milk?

See them smiling! Who? The fellows that met the boat yesterday.

Bobbie says he who smiles last smiles best, his supply arrived by car.

F. H. has a new song, "That Little Store of Mine."

Important Judgment In Customs Seizure Case

BY HON. J. E. WYATT, K. C., STIPENDIARY MAGISTRATE FOR SUMMERSIDE

After referring to amendments in the formation on the application of the counsel for the prosecution the judgment proceeds that the charges as amended stands that the accused did harbour, keep and conceal liquor unlawfully imported into Canada or upon which the duty had not been paid.

The evidence shows that certain liquor was found concealed in a manure pile back of a barn west of the Agricultural Hall, Summerside which is used by the accused and a truckman called Clark. The place where the liquor was found is open to the public and accessible on three sides in his car by a drive way along the south side of the barn, no gates or anything to prevent anyone entering. While driving in he saw the accused going in their direction by the south of the Agricultural Hall. This is as near as the prosecution gets the accused to the manure pile in question. They found a man John Gallant in the barn where they found the liquor. On this evidence the prosecution contends that by striking out the word "knowingly" in the original act and merely finding liquor on premises is prima facie evidence of the guilt of the owner without any knowledge on his part that the liquor was there. I do not see my way clear to accept that proposition and I do not think the statute bears such construction. The Customs act as amended in 1927 has a proviso that where the goods found is liquor the burden of proof that duties paid rests on the claimant or persons in whose possession the goods are found what is the possession contemplated. Instead of taking the definition of the prosecution I prefer to accept that of the Supreme Court of New York in Sultan vs. Sullivan, where it says "possession implies a present right to deal with the property at pleasure and to exclude other persons meddling with it." The words constituting the offence, harbour, keep and conceal, all imply positive action on the part of the accused with the exercises will power, judgment and a guilty mind to do the act forbidden.

What is the evidence in this case. Liquor is found in a pile of manure thrown out of a stable in which the accused and one clerk keep their horses. The manure is in an open space open to the public at large and from this I am asked to inform that the accused concealed the liquor in the manure pile. In a late case decided last year in Redemoney 591 it was decided that a court cannot convict on circumstantial evidence unless there is no other possible explanation consistent with the evidence except the guilt of the accused. Where is the evidence here to show the accused more guilty than Clark or the man Gallant. It is not as applicable to the one as the other or does it apply to them or any of them with public have unobstructed access to this pile of manure from at least three different sides and the liquor could have been concealed there by any person or persons unknown. Where is the evidence which makes it impossible for explanation except the guilt of the accused? I fall to find it and therefore dismiss the case.

PRESBYTERIAN SUMMER SCHOOL
The students attending the Summer School in Zion Church Hall are finding the lectures and addresses very helpful.

The lectures on The Apostles Creed by Dr. Kinnawin cannot be too highly spoken of. The addresses of young people's work have done much to inspire the students to put forth greater efforts to help in this wide sphere of labor.

The lectures given by Miss Edith Sinclair, Miss M. L. Winchester, Mrs. L. A. Moore and Mrs. W. M. Kinnawin on their respective subjects have led our young people to take a deeper interest in the various departments of our church's work.

The evening addresses have all been very inspiring. On Tuesday evening Rev. Quincy E. McDowell gave a splendid address on "The Need of the Bible in Life." All were delighted with this address. The influence of such work on our young lives is beyond all reckoning.

The address of Wednesday evening given by Rev. W. Bruce Muir on "The Principles of Young People's Work" was full of helpful suggestions.

Last evening Rev. J. G. Tukster of Truro gave a very thoughtful and inspiring address on "The Holy Spirit". It was evident to all that Dr. Tukster was thoroughly at home on his subject and his splendid message will be remembered long by all who had the pleasure of hearing it.

The regular lectures will be held on Saturday at 9 a. m.—12.30 a. m. There will not be any evening session on Saturday.

On Monday morning the lectures will be held from 9—12.30 and on Monday evening at 8 o'clock the closing exercises of the school will be held.

A very hearty invitation is extended to all to attend these lectures, and especially the closing exercises.
