A BUSY SPOT.—Nautrage Harbour is a stirring place these days. There are three large and up-to-date lobster canneries now established at the harbour and busily making ready for the fishing, viz: the Messrs. Cox, Tidmarsh and Coffin. The bride looked charming wearing a suit of navy blue pique with heavily embroidered and hat of contrasting shade with flowing veil and a corsage bouquet of sweet heart roses and maiden hair fern. Attending the bride was Miss Mabel Linsen, sister of the groom, wearing a blue and hat to match and wearing a bouquet similar to that of the bride while the groom was ably supported by Harry Vickerson, brother of the bride. A beautiful lot of presents was received including cut glass, silver and a substantial cheque from the bride's father and mother showing the popularity in which bride and groom are held. "Give the Yankees all the fish and Canadians all the bones, the way they do the other side of Jordan!"

IN MEMORIAM

PATRICK ANDERSON

The many relatives and friends of Patrick Anderson in this province will be grieved to learn of his recent passing away, after a short illness at his home, Fall River, Mass.

Deceased was a son of the late Edward Anderson, and Mary Hagan of Westmoreland, Lot Twenty-nine, where he resided up to the year 1884 when he with his wife, moved to Fall River. He followed the carpenter trade and was an industrious, upright, reliable man and good citizen and a worthy member of Fall River Council Knights of Columbus and also a faithful member of the Holy Name Society of the Church of the Immaculate Conception. Deceased was in the enjoyment of his usual good health to within about three weeks of his death when his health and strength began to fail him. Medical aid was immediately called but notwithstanding the skillful treatment of Dr. John B. Trainor, formerly of Maplewood, and the tender care and nursing of his devoted daughters he gradually grew weaker from day to day till the end came. During his illness, which he bore with exemplary patience and resignation to the Divine Will he was greatly comforted and consoled by the visitations of his good pastor, Rev. Fa-
