Hundreds of citizens assisted the city fire brigade in a hard battle against the bad fire yesterday which at one time promised to wipe out the Charlottetown Hospital, on the Esplanade. The conflagation, which started just above one of the two boilers in the basement of the building, crept along the walls to the elevator shaft and chapel and swept fiercely to the top of the building before the fire fighters had got well to work. By splendid work inside the burning building the firemen were able after four hours struggle to get the fire under control. In the meantime the patients were being removed to the vacant Convalescent home. Motor trucks, ambulances, runabouts and every type of car was utilized to carry bedding and equipment from the building and thanks to the efficient work of the hundreds who assisted in the evacuation operations every patient was removed safely and practically all moveable equipment salvaged.

The first efforts of the firemen were directed to checking the spread of the flames in the basement but this proving almost an impossible task the workers climbed to the top where the flames from the central position of the elevator shaft menaced the entire building. Tons of water, augumented by the chemical extinguishers, seemed to have little effect and the hundreds of spectators watched more and more anxiously as the flames and smoke could be seen bursting out through the roof and top windows. The heart of the fire was in the vicinity of the building towards the front and south side (occupied by the elevator shaft) and it was by the successful efforts of the firemen to confine the spread of the flames to this section that the building was finally saved. There was a strong westerly wind at the time and the firemen had no easy battle. A large part of this section of the building is badly gutted and the whole interior drenched with water. About noon, when it was seen that the fire was under control, the removal of furniture and equipment was discontinued.

The fire was first noticed by Sister St. Bertha. It had then worked its way up from the basement in the air space on both sides of the chimney and the second floor, as well as the maternity ward, were menaced. There were thirty-three nurses, including fifteen Sisters of Charity, in the hospital and these heroically stuck to their posts and assisted in the work of evacuation. The patients were first taken to the Connolly House and St. Anthony's Villa which adjoin the hospital. They were later removed to the Convalescent Home, where many of the voluntary workers were busy preparing for their reception. This hospital was placed at the disposal of the Charlottetown Hospital trustees by the Provincial Government.

The hospital at the time of the fire yesterday was filled to capacity with patients, including eight maternity patients cases. There were two births on the previous night. One of the babies was still born but the other survived and was safely removed from the burning building.

The damages of the fire have not yet been fully estimated but there is no doubt the loss will run into thousands of dollars as the upper two floors are badly gutted, and a portion of the roof destroyed. The building is partly insured to the extent of some $25,000. It was splendidly equipped as a hospital and underwent repairs this summer.

The splendid work of the firemen, in getting right after the flames from the inside and keeping the water playing constantly was commented upon by many spectators and visitors from larger cities. The firemen on their parts are grateful to the many helpers whose assistance made their work easier.

The fire started shortly before 10 a. m. and by 12 was under control. It was after 2 o'clock, however, before Chief Ronaghan and his weary workers knocked off satisfied that the fire was out. Last evening the building was thoroughly inspected by the fire chief.

Lois was an unusual bright, pleasant and cheerful girl and made many friends far and near, who tenderly remembered her through her short period of sickness, only three months. She was working as clerk with Mr. John MacGuigan, Kensington, up to the day of her sickness, when it came sudden and unexpected. Almost her last words was "Yea though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil for Thou art with me", and other verses of the 14th chapter, St. John.

Her funeral was very largely attended on Saturday 12th, and many sad hearts looked on her beautiful face for the last time. A very sincere service was rendered at the home by Rev. Geo. Miller, New London Parish, and her remains were laid beside that of her father, who predeceased her sixteen years ago.

She had been in failing health for some time previous to her death. Throughout her illness she was bright and cheerful.

All of her sufferings were borne in the spirit of christian fortitude. She was attended in her illness by her pastor, Rev. A. J. McIntyre, who administered to her the last rites of the Holy Catholic Church.

The deceased was was a most esteemed and respected lady, always ready to lend a helping hand where loving sympathy and kindly deeds were needed. A large number of friends followed her mortal remains and to attend and to attend the Requiem High Mass sung in St. Peters Church Seven Mile Bay by her pastor, Rev. A. J. McIntyre, after all that was mortal of a loving wife and affectionate mother was laid to rest. She leaves to mourn besides a sister Mrs. J. E. Murphy, a sorrowing husband and one son, John at home. WELL KNOWN HERE. — The death occurred in England a few days ago of Mr. D. Arnold Fox, formerly of St. John, who will be remembered here as the talented accompanist for the Lauder concert company which performed here some years ago.

There was a very pleasant social gathering in St. Peter's School room Wed. evening. A large number of the congregation attending the St. Peter's Cathedral services were present; and there were friendly members of other congregations including the pastors of St. Pauls and Zion churches the Rev. Mr. Raymond and the Rev. Mr. Taylor.

On the part of St. Peter's congregation a warm welcome was given the Rev. Mr. Malone, Priest in charge, recently arrived from Barbadoes; and hope was expressed that there may be under his influence and direction co-operation in good works not only on the part of members of St. Peter's congregations but with the members of other city Churches.

Mr. Malone responded eloquently and expressed the hope that mutual trust and confidence would increase and prevail throughout the congregation and those with whom it is connected.

The Rev. Mr. Raymond and the Rev. Mr. Taylor voiced their good wishes briefly and eloquently; and Mr. Gallagher, to the piano, accompaniment of Professor Tanton, sang several songs in excellent voice and gave great pleasure to those who were present. The ladies of St. Peters, for their part, provided sandwiches, cake and coffee, and a particularly pleasant meeting was ended by the singing of God Save the King.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—The morning newspapers editorially express utmost satisfaction at the bethrothal of the Princess Mary to an Englishman, and equally approve her choice of a husband in Viscount Lascelles. It is emphasized that there would have been general disappointment if she had married a member of foreign royalty and thus have left England where she is universally popular. Her choice says one newspaper will suit the democratic and romantic instincts of the British people and the modern views of monarchy.

No official information has been given regarding the date of the wedding of Princess Mary, but it is believed the engagement will not be a prolonged one and that the ceremony may occur before Lent in which case the Prince of Wales in India would not be able to attend.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—The negotiations for an Irish settlement are feared to be nearing an unfavorable end according to a high authority today and there is apprehension that next week may witness their collapse unless more favorable circumstances not now foreseen shall develop. It is stated that Ulster is no longer presenting the sole obstacle but that Sinn Fein has refused to accept allegiance to the King although willing to take the oath to an Irish constitution. Furthermore and equally important it is added the Sinn Fein will not agree to a vote of Irish legislation by the British Crown. The Sinn Fein idea is said to be a completely independent Irish state although loosely connected with the other states in the Empire. Acts of parliament creating British Dominions give the King the power of vetting all legislation but by constitutional usage this vote is now never exercised. The Sinn Fein however, is declared to have made known its belief that a similar vote power regarding Ireland would constantly be used at the will of the British Cabinet. The Government regards this difficulty as fundamental, it is asserted and should the Sinn Fein attitude remain unchanged the negotiations, it is declared in high quarters must come to an end.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Acting upon a suggestion from the Canadian government, efforts are being made here to send a band from one of the guards regiments of Canada to participate in patriotic concerts for the benefit of the Great War Veteran's Association.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Lord Beatty has let the cat out of the bag. He has told why he wears his hat at the jaunty angle so well known the world over. "Swank?" perish the thought. Its a bump on his head. If I wear it straight I get a headache, explained the hero of Jutland to inquisitive newspapers.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 24.—Cables today to a Vancouver mercantile House from Peking declare that John Abbott, representing a Chicago and New York syndicate has this week signed an agreement to provide a loan of $30,000,000 to China. The loan is to be secured by the Wine and Tobacco Revenue. The period of the new loan is stated to be for twenty years. Mr. Abbott is expected in Vancouver in about three weeks.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—There isn't a stadium an amphitheatre or any kind of arena in the world large enough to accommodate the multitude clamoring for admission to the army and navy game which will be played Saturday on the New York Polo grounds. The report is that more than 200,000 want tickets and the seating capacity of the Polo grounds is 44,000. What to do with the other 150,000 or more, nobody else knows either.
