HARVARD REPORTS A NEW COMET

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—The discovery of a new comet, visible through a small telescope, is reported by Edward C. Pickering, director of the Harvard Observatory. The comet was first seen on Sept. 19 by John E. Mellish, of the Yerkes observatory, Williams Bay, Wis., in right ascension, ten hours, twenty nine minutes, declination plus twenty six degrees, thirty nine minutes.

A telegram received at the Harvard observatory today says that on September 20, the comet was observed independently of Mellish's discovery by Prof. Aitken of the Lick observatory, Mt. Hamilton, Cal.

THE LETTERS OF A CANADIAN M. P

(Special Correspondence of The Toronto News.)

Conservatives who thought that liberal politicians and newspapers opposing a war election last year, or this, were actuated by patriotic motives must have had their views changed by recent events. Rev. Dr. Gordon thought a federal election in war-times would be "a crime," BUT when a proposal was made to get over the Manitoba muddle by an expedient that would prevent a war-election he thought that such a process was "contrary to the democratic nature of our institutions." The Toronto Star, the most persistent apponent of a war election, now rejects a proposal to postpone the election until after the war is over. Other liberals have moderated their views about the "crime," and the reason may just as well be stated boldly. They did NOT want an election. They knew that the people had not forgotten the speeches they made and the articles they wrote in derision of the German "menace" and in opposition to Mr. Borden's proposal to contribute something toward the EFFECTIVE naval defences of the Empire. THEY— perhaps I should say most of them— WERE PLAYING A POLITICAL GAME UNDER THE GUISE OF A PATRIOTIC PURPOSE. They played it shrewdly enough—So shrewdly, indeed, that many conservatives "fell for it."

EVERY OBJECTION BUT THE RIGHT ONE.

THEY DID NOT WANT THE SOLDIERS TO HAVE VOTES. They pointed out every objection that could be made to it. It was bristling with difficulties, anyway, and they made the most of them. Sir Wilfrid himself spent a whole afternoon trying to "KNOCK" it. Other liberal members joined him in expressing ALARM lest the ballots would be tampered with. They expressed every fear EXCEPT THE REAL ONE— the one that was at the back of their minds. WHAT they feared most was that the soldiers would vote. They feared the honest ballot more than a dishonest one.

NOT SO SCARED NOW.

They are not so fearful now. Many of the soldiers will never vote because they are not now alive. Many others cannot be polled because they are doing duty or convalescing in inaccessible places. Consequently our liberal friends have lost much of their FEAR of a war-time election. They are brave now. They are out to "defend the constitution' against such a breach as the extension of the parliamentary term. They bow down now before the god "Constitution" as they did two years ago before the god "Autonomy." Their change of attitude does not surprise me in the least, nor does it surprise the average conservative member of parliament. We knew WHY they feared a war-election. We knew WHY they opposed the soldiers' franchise. They knew as well as we did that a large majority of the men who went to help save the Empire would resent the pacifism of the liberal press, the Laurier apotheosis of the kaiser as a prince of peace; the myopia which made the German peril invisible; the struggle which, with the aid of the Canadian Bundesrath, enabled the liberal party in parliament to defeat the naval project of the Borden government, based upon the recommendation of the British admiralty.

COURTESY WASTED ON THEM.

Four years have gone by since these men lost power through making a mistake (common enough with them when any great National issue arises), but they still talk and act as if the reins were in their hands. And not without reason. IN HIS DESIRE TO BE FAIR AND COURTEOUS, SIR ROBERT BORDEN HAS YIELDED TOO MUCH TO THEM. They have not accepted his concessions with grace or gratitude they have not reciprocated; they have on the contrary broken faith with him on more than one occasion. If he were inclined to take advantage of his position and powers, what would have happened them had he dissolved the house a year ago, as he might very well have done? Surely, after the strenuous fight they put up in 1913 against his naval proposals, and their running fire at his militia estimates, he would have been justified in SEEKING THE CONSENT OF THE PEOPLE to proposals far more sweeping than those the liberals opposed! Surely he had a right to ask for protection in putting through these proposals against the partisan senate, which finished the work the liberals were unable to do in the commons when it threw out the Naval Aid Bill.

JOCKEYING TO DELAY THE START.

The plain truth is that they played skilfully, but pharisaically, the very game they suspected the conservatives of playing. They thought Sir Robert Borden meant to go to the country last year, or this, and they knew that any other time would suit them better. THEY JOCKEYED TO DELAY THE STARTING OF THE RACE. They feel more confident now. Their expectations are based upon the assurance that THE "PRO-ENEMY VOTE" will go against the Borden government, already weakened by the absence of voters who went away to fight the Huns. They count upon their "solid Quebec" being "solid still," and figure that Manitoba federally will be affected by Manitoba provincially. They still have confidence in their own calculations which went so hopelessly away four years ago. They still have confidence in their leader although he always failed to strike the right key UNTIL the German guns were thundering against Belgium and France. He is wise NOW. Most men are AFTER the event. There is no fault to be found with his attitude since, except that he still appears to think that it was "preparation for war brought on the war." It helps him bolster up his argument of two years ago that "Germany is arming BECAUSE Britain is arming." It puts Britain in the same class with Germany. But do not all of our Pacifists do likewise? "I have been trying to find out the cause of the war," said W. J. Bryan to the Friends of Peace at Chicago. There are other children doing the same, but it does not take them so long to find out.

THEY KNOW NOT THE PEOPLE.

Whether or not their expectations are well-based time alone will tell. It is foolish to prophesy when so many unusual features enter into the contest. The Germans had a spy system that brought them ALL the news that was worth having from every other court in Europe. We may be sure that even Austria, Italy and Turkey were not exempt from the operation of those spies, although it would not be so thorough as in the courts and chancellories of possible enemy countries. Yet much of the information they received only misled them, because they understood not the temper of those people. "Knowledge comes but wisdom lingers," as Lord Tennyson said. Personally I DO NOT BELIEVE THAT THE CANADIAN PEOPLE WOULD AT THIS CRISIS TURN OUT A GOVERNMENT WHICH FORESAW THE DANGER and adopted means to avert it. I do not believe they would think for a moment of turning them out AND PUTTING IN THEIR PLACE THE MEN WHO REFUSED TO SEE THE THREATENING storm and who took the most responsible means of preventing the government from carrying out its defensive measures. I cannot believe that the Canadian people would care to lighten the face of Germany with the "PIOUS, HOLY JOY" WHICH WOULD COME FROM THE NEWS THAT CANADA HAD TURNED DOWN THE GOVERNMENT THAT TRIED TO CONTRIBUTE THREE DREADNOUGHTS TO THE BRITISH FLEET and that succeeded in sending a hundred thousand men to fight the Germans in France. Such heartening news would but prolong the struggle, and restore to the kaiser's confidence the men who told him that Canada would NOT take part in any struggle in which the Empire might become engaged!

PSYCHOLOGICAL MOMENT.

"Now's the time to spring that new gown on pa."

"Why, is he in a good mood?"

"The best. I just heard him bragging that he played the best golf of his life yesterday afternoon."—Detroit Free Press.

EXTRA CANADIAN UNIT TO BE FORMED

(From our own Correspondent.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 27.—The formation of an extra Canadian unit by General Alderson to be commanded by Brigadier General Mercer who is in turn to be succeeded in command of the first brigade by Lieut. Col. Garnet Hughes was announced tonight. News came from headquarters which stated that General Alderson, who commands the new Canadian Army Corps not at the front, has formed under General Sir John French's authority, what are termed "corps troops" over and above the two regular divisions. The units composing them are understood to be Col. Charles A. Smart's cavalry brigade, the 42nd Montreal Highlanders under Col. Cantlie, the 45th of Edmonton under Col. Griesbach, the Royal Canadian Regiment, under Col. Madonell. The command of the force it is understood will be given to Lieut. Col. Garnet Hughes. The cable states that "it must be clearly understood that Major Gen. Hughes had nothing to do with his nomination, which was made by the authority of Gen. Alderson. It is understood that his promotion to the rank of Brigadier General comes as a recognition of the splendid work done by Col. Hughes at St. Julien and Festubert.

TERROR HAS TURNED THIS CHINESE WHITE.

MONTREAL, Sept. 26.— How Wah Ching, a Chinese donkeyman on board the steamer Hyndford, torpedoed on March 15, last, was so frightened by the shock that his complexion turned white, as related by Quartermaster C. H. Somers, of the Allan liner Sicilian. The Hyndford did not sink as a result of the torpedo which knocked a tremendous hole in hold No. 1, but that fact did not help the Crinese to regain his color.

The phenomenon created great interest in London among the few scientific men who heard of it, but they had little opportunity of investigating the strange effect produced, for Wah Ching was ashamed of himself so soon as he became a white man, and went to sea with other Chinese messmates to escape the desire of puzzled scientists to investigate him. Some of his Chinese friends on board the Hyndford found it difficult to recognize Wah Ching after the change, but the oblique eyes and characteristic hair remained to mark him as the man he had been.

LONDON, Sept. 2.6— The Times correspondent at Berlin wires:

Newspapers here are full of the Balkan situation, the "offensive against Serbia," and an impending "junction" of the central powers and Turkey, The steamer Tageblatt says:

"It is to be supposed that the first shots fired by the German artillery on the Serbian frontier will be seen and noticed with special joy by our loyal ally. Turkey. They are in greeting for the Turkish people and the brave Turkish army."

The Berlin correspondent of the Hamburger Fremdenblatt in an article called "The Final Fight," begins: "The shells which have been hurled across the Danube introduced the most important, perhaps even the last chapter of the war."

After saying that the attack is to be so violent as to demolish speedily the whole Serbian people, the article proceeds:

"But in reality Serbia's fate is still of only minor importance. Much more is at stake. It is a matter of the Balkans and the Dardanelles; it is a matter of Egypt and the final decision of the war.

"Even our victory at Vilna recedes into the background in view of this importance."

NEW DEFINITION OF HELL BY PRESBYTERIAN DIVINE

HAMILTON, Sept. 27.—There have been many attempts by clergymen and religious orators among laymen to desribe hell, that region beyond the Plutonian shore. At the Saturday night recruiting meeting, Rev. W. H. Sedgewick, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, gave an entirely new definition of the future punishment of the damned.

"We have heard a great many speak of hell," said the speaker. "Many tell us that it is a region of fire and brimstone. Others say that it is merely the torment of the mind. I will tell you what hell is. When, after a man has seen his Empire fall into destruction, and has to see the ruins of his once beloved country, and then has to admit that if he and others had done their duty that it would not have happened, the torture of that man's mind and body will be hell! That is hell enough for any man and will be hell enough for you if you are placed in that position.

"The grand Empire of Great Britain was not built upon sentiment. Sentiment is all very well, and we are thankful for it, but the Empire was built upon sacrifice and the only way that we can maintain it is by sacrifice. Every one of us must make sacrifices for the cause of our native land."

Prior to the monster recruiting meeting which was organized by the Hamilton Recruiting society, the whole Hamilton garrison marched around the city. It was a real recruiting parade, headed by the brass bands of the 13th Royal regiment and the 91st Highlanders, and the bugle and drum band of the 86th Machine Gun Battalion. About 1000 men were in the line. The men made a decided impression by their marching and general appearance, parading like men who had had months of training, instead of having only recently been recruited from the various offices and factories of this city. The recruiting League posters were carried on sticks, the same as it is done in the big recruiting parades in England, calling upon the men who frequent the curbstones when the parades march by, to come into the road and join the colors.
