

EVERY day since January 1st, 1876, the firm of J. E. Morse & Co. have been doing their best to supply the people of this country with an extra good quality of tea. The universal popularity of MORSE'S TEAS today, indicates how well they have succeeded.

GROWING STOCK NEED A DEVELOPING MASH

Many poultrymen are of the opinion that after the first few weeks of a chick's life, commonly known as the critical period, it makes little difference what the chicks are fed on the care that they receive. They forget that rapid growth together with proper development of the digestive tract and the reproductive organs depend largely upon the care and feed they provide the stock through out the growing period. Growing stock that is turned loose and made to scratch for their living will be stunted, slow in maturing, and under-developed with little chance of their being profitable. They will not have developed the capacity to handle sufficiently a lot of feed which is so important for maximum egg production. To get good growth, it is necessary that the growing stock get a developing mash. Proper growth cannot be made on grain alone. Grains are largely carbohydrates. What a growing chick is a variety of proteins, minerals and vitamins which are all readily available in correct proportion to build strong, large bones, firm flesh, rich blood and good plumage. Keep growing mash before the birds all the time. Be sure to provide enough hopper space. Insufficient hopper space means that only a few of the larger pullets will be able to get their mash requirements. Growing stock should have unlimited opportunity to eat all the growing mash they want, but do not let them waste it because of faulty hopper equipment.

Minard's Drives Away the Headache.

MRS. JOSEPH E. DEAGLE

The truth of the inspired declaration, "in the midst of life we are in death" was brought home with doleful realization to the members of her own household, and likewise to friends in general, when on Monday, February 10th, 1930, at Bear River, the tidings quickly spread, on wings of surprise and sadness, that Mrs. Joseph E. Deagle had passed away, after an illness of only a few days. During an active lifetime, devoted to the interests of her own family with unstinted and unremitting assiduity, and after that, with solicitude little less attentive to the welfare of the community in which she was an exemplary member, she had never suffered from serious illness. At what, from the temporal viewpoint, might naturally be expected to be the zenith of her life, just as the time had come when she might confidently look forward to reaping the reward of the efforts of a life, the summons came to Life Eternal, and at the early age of fifty-two she entered into rest. In keeping with the spirit of her constantly devoted life, the illness which proved the medium of its ending was contracted in a "temporal" work of mercy, attending the funeral of a friend. From what was at first regarded as a cold, pneumonia developed rapidly. Medical skill proved of no avail, and constant attendance of a professional nurse, supported by ministrations of a devoted family, was equally ineffective. The Last Sacraments were administered by Rev. A. L. Sinnott, parish priest, whose daily ministrations at this time of anxiety and distress were a source of comfort and consolation not only to the stricken patient, but also to the grieving husband and all the family. With that composure so characteristic of her life she awaited the final summons and then, with unflinching trust, strengthened and sustained by the soothing grace of the Holy Viaticum, her soul went forth to its reward. In the cold embrace of death she features still bespeak the humanity that stamped their gentle mould.

Dust, to its narrow house beneath! Soul, to its place on high! They that have seen their loved one in death, No more may fear to die. Deceased, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Chaisson (nee Mar-Phee) of Bear River, leaves a sorrowful husband, six daughters and a son, Mary and Anna, of Boston; Christina, Alphonse, Frances, Maxima and Patricia at home. She is survived by six brothers: Frank, of Incentown, B.C.; Peter, New Jersey; Angus, Saint John, N.B.; David, New York; Joseph, Worcester, Mass.; and James, at home, to all of whom her sympathy is extended in the bereavement.

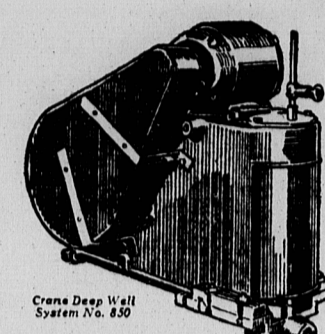

Three daughters were absent in the United States and were sent to meet her on this sudden and unheralded illness, assuming such a serious aspect. One had the great consolation of being able to reach home to be with her mother in her last hours, and the other two—thanks to special courtesies by officials of the Railway and Car Ferry, made quick connections for that time of year, and arrived shortly after, proving a source of strength and comfort in the cross which he was so unexpectedly called upon to bear. Fort especially to the grief-stricken husband. The funeral will be held at the funeral home of St. Alexis Church on the following Wednesday morning at one of the largest seen for years in that fine old parish of Rollo Bay, friends coming from far and near to pay their tribute of respect to both the living and the deceased.

The pallbearers were Messrs. John MacKinnon, Alfred O'Hanley, Joseph P. Deagle, Thomas McDonald, and Chaisson and Gregory McCormack. A Solemn Mass of Requiem was said by Rev. A. L. Sinnott, P. P., who presided at the graveside. The service was officiated by Rev. Louis Callaghan, D.D., St. Charles, and formerly curate in this parish.

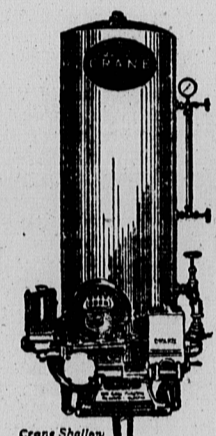

The following tributes and mementoes are thankfully acknowledged.

Imperial Sunshine

Puppy Foxes, raised in pens, get very little sunshine and, in order to offset this, it is necessary that sunshine in artificial form be given them. The ideal way to do this is by feeding IMPERIAL COD LIVER OIL FOX BISCUITS either in Biscuit or Puppy Food form. These Biscuits each contain Fifteen drops of the very best medicinal Cod Liver Oil, (so aptly called "Bottled Sunshine"), which is exceedingly rich in vitamine content. In buying our Cod Liver Oil, we specify strictly August catch as that oil contains TEN TIMES as great vitamine content as that of May or June. We are even now making our contract for 1931 supply so as to be sure to obtain this most valuable ingredient so vital to the success of the fox industry. Fox Pups fed generously with IMPERIAL BISCUITS or PUPPY FOOD never develop rickets but show a steady growth and progress without any setbacks. Order through leading distributors or direct from factory.
