CATHOLIC SOCIAL GUILD—The regular monthly meeting of the Catholic Guild was held Monday night in the Holy Redeemer Hall. A very interesting program was carried out. A very instructive and enjoyable address on "Interior Decorating" was given by Miss Ruth Heartz. Miss Heartz gave a complete review of her subject beginning with the arts of the pre-Christian Grecian era and tracing its changes and characteristics through each succeeding era up to the present age. Miss Heartz by her accurate and instructive description of its various stages not only delighted and informed her audience, but also showed an intimate knowledge and comprehensive grasp of her subject. A vocal and violin solo respectively rendered by Misses Garnhum and Kenny were highly appreciated by the audience. Rev. John Gallagher, C. SS. R., speaking on the Catholic Church and the Education of the Ages showed the part played by the Church in fostering and influencing education especially in the early Christian era when learning and education were at such a low ebb. Rev. Fr. Fleming the Spiritual Director then made a few brief remarks, after which the meeting closed with the singing of the Hail Mary. Miss M. Harrington was in the chair.

GRAIN

(Canadian Press)

CHICAGO, March 27—Stop loss selling plunged the grain markets swiftly downward today, holders of all grains letting go on a large scale.

Likelihood of drastic governmental measures to curtail speculation in stock and commodity markets was the dominating factor. For the time being, the trade paid little or no attention to supply and demand conditions.

Wheat closed unsettled 1⅛ to 1½ under yesterday's finish, May 85⅝ to ½, corn 1¼ to 1½ down, oats ⅝ to ½ off and provisions showing 5 to 17 cents decline.

MINING

(Canadian Press)

TORONTO, March 27—A declining tendency on the industrial boards today was reflected only moderately in the mining section of the Toronto Stock Exchange. Losses were of modest proportions and volume was sharply down. In the midst of the afternoon sell off the big gold stocks suddenly developed a firm trend, led by Hollinger and the group had more gains than losses at the close. Base metal, silver and secondary gold issues closed on the down side.

Buying of Hollinger by New Yorkers in the last hour pushed that issue up to 17.30 where it closed with a net gain of 80 cents. More than 6,000 shares changed hands. Lake Shore gained 70 cents, McIntyre 50 and Wright Hargreaves 15 cents. Dome lost 75 cents and Teck Hughes 10.

Noranda drifted down to 37.85, off 90 cents. Other recessions in the base metal group were 10 for Falconbridge, 45 for Hudson Bay, 5 for Sudbury Basin, 4 for Pend Oreille, 2 for Sherritt, and Base Metals Corporation and 4 for Waite Amulet.

GIRL GUIDE NEWS

First Charlottetown Company

Most of Monday's meeting was taken up by practice for the coming concert. The plays and musical numbers are slowly taking shape, and by the end of May, when it is planned to hold the concert, it is expected that the Company will be prepared to offer a pleasant evening to the general public, and especially those interested in Guide activities.

The newly-appointed Company Musician led the sing-song at the end of the business meeting and concert practice. A new song was learned and many old familiar ones sung over. During the coming months before camp it is planned to add several new songs to those already on the company's repertoire.

The Guide banner will be presented next meeting to the Swallow Patrol. This banner is presented every two or three months to the patrol having the highest number of points won by skill and speed in games, regularity of attendance, and careful attention to details of uniform. It is a source of much keen competition and rivalry among the patrols, and the patrol which wins it may well be proud.

Next Monday being Easter Monday, there will be no meeting; but the following week a full company is expected to carry out the usual activities, guide work, and concert practice.

2nd Charlottetown Company St. Paul's

On Saturday, March 17, a supper meeting was held at the Headquarters, of this Company, St. Paul's Parish Hall. Included in the program was a pearl hunt, the legend of Saint Patrick and a discussion on the care of small children. After supper a sing-song was held at which several boxes of delicious home-made candy were passed around. This welcome treat was kindly provided by Mrs. Raymond and members of the congregation.

Last Friday's meeting was spent in test-passing and the playing of several amusing games including The Imaginary Orchestra, The Farmyard, Poor Pussy, and various relay races. At this meeting Captain Ray was assisted by Patrol Seconds Janet Stewart and Dilys Owen.

Next Friday, being Good Friday, there will be no meeting of this Company. The Color Party, however, is asked to meet at St. James' Hall at 7 o'clock to parade colours at an investiture ceremony of the 3rd Charlottetown Company.

Further announcements will be made in this column next week.

3rd Charlottetown Company St. James

The first enrolment of Guides in connection with the 3rd Charlottetown Company (St. James') will be held in St. James' Hall on Friday night of this week at 7.30. All interested are invited to attend. There are about twelve recruits who have passed their Tenderfoot Tests and are therefore ready for enrolment.

The 3rd Charlottetown Company has now 36 members in 6 patrols. The patrol leaders are Roberta Hill, Helen Agnew, Sandy Brehaut, Marion Robertson, Margaret Martin and Helen Tidmarsh.

The Guiders in charge of the 3rd Charlottetown are Jessie Fullerton, Captain, Effie Brehaut and Betty Large Lieutenants.

Twenty-one members of the company are now equipped with full uniform. Rapid progress is being made along this line. To the St. James' Church Guild we are greatly indebted for their generous financial assistance which enabled us to provide hats and belts for part of the company.

At a Court of Honour meeting on Wednesday, six guides who are working on their Second Class Tests passed the "Posture Test."

How to Produce Early Potatoes

(Experimental Farms Note)

In order to produce early potatoes the sprouting of the seed tubers has been employed with varying results, but most of those employing sprouted seed agree that some gain has been made. The sprouting should be done in diffused light and under conditions where the temperature can be maintained around 50 to 55 degrees Farenheit. The growth should be slow, so as to develop sturdy stout buds.

As a rule seed potatoes sprouted in the open become withered badly before planting time arrives. An experiment has been tried at the Central Experimental Farm whereby the seed tubers are placed in flats or shallow boxes and sand filled in around the tubers. These flats are fitted with four blocks, one in each corner, one inch square and projecting two inches above the edge of the box. The blocks facilitate the stacking of the boxes one on top of the other, allowing light to enter and permitting the application of water when desired.

Water is applied to the sand at intervals as required by means of a watering can with a piece of 1-2 inch hose attached to the spout.

The boxes may be stacked in the potting shed, in the corner of the kitchen or even in a warm cow barn. Four to five weeks will produce well sprouted and rooted material, that when planted out of doors will start growth at once, when the soil warms up. Plant to a depth of 4 inches and cover the tip of the buds with about a 1-2 inch of soil. Potatoes sprouted in this way will come through the sprouting process perfectly firm.

The yield from the various treatments were as follows, with whole small potatoes being used as seed: Dormant tubers planted, yielded, when dug July 25th, 43 pounds, a second digging Aug. 16th, 55 pounds in all cases 60 hills were dug for comparison. Sprouted in flats, with the tubers stood on the stem end, when dug July 25th, 45 pounds, a second digging Aug. 16th, 70 pounds Sprouted in sand flats, the sand bein moistened, yielded July 25th, 74 pounds, a second digging Aug. 16th, 108 pounds.

One of the drawbacks with the tubers sprouted in the sand and fully rooted is that they must be dropped in the rows by hand. The increased earliness and larger yield compensates for this.
