Reveals Britain

new types: Five new motors "have been brought from experiment to manufacture in nine months."

Although the numbers of British planes are a closely guarded secret, the headlines in the Sunday Chronicle proclaimed that Britain now is producing 3200 of all types in a month and that her production peak has not yet been reached.

Arrival of the first giant bombers from the United States with range enough to bring the remotest corners of German-dominated territory into the Royal Air Force's target area was disclosed in a statement issued by the aircraft production ministry.

It did not give the time or number of the arrivals but said the first to come were what the British officials called "Liberators"—long-range, heavy bombers produced by the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation of San Diego, Cal.

These planes, with power plant of four Pratt and Whitney engines which develop 1200 horsepower, are said to have a range of 3000 miles, enough to bomb any point in Italy, Germany or Nazi occupied countries from Royal Air Force bases in Britain.

The Aircraft Production Minister said close collaboration between the United States and Britain was the "winning goal" made possible by the war.

"And how has it come about?" he asked, answering:—

"The close co-operation of the (Prime Minister) Churchill, through the vision of the President (Roosevelt) through the foresight of my own countryman Mackenzie King, together with the heroic resistance of the British people and through the wave of comradeship and resistance they have awakened in the American nation."

A blessing of the war, he said, was "hope that when victory is won we shall enjoy a union of interest and purpose between two sundered fragments of the Anglo-Saxon race."

"Such mighty concentration of power and influence will subdue the proud and hold in check the wicked, will secure peace in their own hearts, will bring men of good will to the aid of the oppressed."

The Aircraft Production Minister named only one of the new types of engines—the G. P. Bulman, for many years in charge of engine production in the air and aircraft production ministries, was largely responsible for it.

The Sabre has been disclosed to have the highest power output of any engine type. It also has an extremely small frontal area.

All-Canadians' Princes Among Air Fighters

By DOUGLAS AMARON Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, March 20—(CP)—Veteran pilots of the Royal Air Force Air-Donor Squadron hold the respect and admiration of all fliers posted to their station.

At battles over Dunkerque last spring and over Britain and France last autumn and this winter took a heavy toll of "originals" from this great squadron but whenever possible men from home have been posted as replacements in an attempt to retain its Canadian identity.

ADMIRER OF BADER

Price couldn't speak highly enough of Squadron Leader Douglas Bader, the lesser British commanding officer of the "all-Canadians" who flew with the all-Canadians for several months before receiving transfer to a Royal Canadian Air Force Army Co-Operation squadron, called it "a thrill and an honor" to have Bader in the squadron.

"Those fellows are prices and certainly know their stuff" Price said.

He told of one flight in which Bader and another pilot came across a Messerschmitt. Bader got in a burst with his machine guns, saw the German was hit and then "stood by" to let the other pilot finish the job. "Somehow" the Messerschmitt returned to the ground and the other pilot was out of ammunition. Price said. "When Bader saw this he stepped in again and finished the job."

There's great rivalry among the pilots for places among the raiders, but there's no favoritism shown and everyone gets a chance. When there are only two or three vacancies left, it's a down and the unsuccessful pilots are first in line for the next

Trinity United Church

MONDAY.—W. M. S. Study Class, Mrs. Puncner, 105 Hillsboro St.

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

At the morning service of Trinity United Church, Rev. Mr. Miller preaching on the text "Lift up the soul," told the congregation that God holds up a mirror to our souls but after we look into it we turn away and do not see our own faces. Our prayer should be that God "take the dimness of our souls away." Then as in the last hymn, "I have heard from the minister's theme was taken we should ask God to "Teach me to love Thee as Thine angels love."

One holy passion filling all my frame. The optimism of the heaven-de-cended dove. My heart an altar and Thy love the flame."

The music was under the direction of Mr. A. R. Kendall, with the choir singing the anthem, "Jesu, Word of God incarnate—Mozart."

The speaker of the evening was the guest preacher, Captain Rev. H. E. Parker, of Winnipeg, chaplain of the forces at Debert. Capt. Parker took as his text, "Jesus' words: 'All things whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive.'"

"Six per cent of the evening was spent by prayer by this world's prayers, earnest and faithful prayer will bring about a speedy victory.
