BACCALAUREATE SERMON OF WORTH

Preached by Dr. M.W. Stryker President of One of the New York Leading Faculties.

The Rev. Dr. Melancthon Woolsey Stryker, D.D., L.L.D., president of Hamilton College, Clinton, N.Y., preached the baccalaureate sermon before the faculty and students of that institution recently.

Of all those Hebrew prophets Ezekiel is the most remote from our ways of thinking. His vision is a strange wonder—a weird apocalypse, yet vast and vague as it is, it coerces imagination and shines with a light which has no limitations of date or place.

By the banks of the Chebar in far Chaldea, he saw that whose unearthly splendour, his face gleaming with splendour, he saw that whose unearthly splendour, his face gleaming with splendour, he saw that whose unearthly splendour...

Order makes a true appeal. "Nature (it has well been said) lends herself lovingly to accords." We instinctively fall in with rhythm. Poetry invokes meter. The terror of uncertainty, while in the regular tread of the regiment there is the echo of law, and its serried front outfaces twenty times its own bulk. It is a unit. This an army, a battleship, a great business corporation, show how interlocked strength is far more than the mere sum of its parts.

Keep Children Well During Hot Weather. Every mother knows how fatal the summer months are to small children. Cholera, infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery and stomach troubles are alarmingly frequent at this time...

ness and strength. The wheel makes rotary power linear, minimizes friction—saves energy while increasing the load—in short, squares the circle. Thus the device increases a hundred-fold the convenience, the comfort, the commerce, of the world.

Put a strong glass on the label and examine it closely every time. Always look for the name "Gillett's."

Like all good articles, which are extensively advertised, Gillett's Lye is frequently and very closely imitated. In some instances the imitators have actually copied directions and other printed matter from our label word for word.

Insist On Getting Gillett's Lye and decline to accept anything that looks to be an imitation or that is represented to be "just as good" or "better," or "the same thing."

say, God will inhabit any soul to whom the nearest thing is hallowed as a stage of embodied life and duty in which the mortal is garmented with immortality and the wheels are swallowed up of motion!

Now it remains to say that always there is a strife (tendency) between those who perceive that the world is spiritual and those who only observe its mechanical features. The vitalists are always opposed by the formalists.

Organization (as it could be a substitute and a finality) is made to be at strife with inspiration as shown in the preference of priest over prophet, of law over liberty, of party over patriotism, of letter over ideal, of agnostic over mystic, of definition over devotion, of the good over the best, of the most brought a minimum of organization and a maximum of inspiration. Any, or all, organization is but body—the spirit is the life.

That Immanent One who moves the orrery of worlds is the Spirit who is willing to dwell in us, and to save the world. The tasks of the prophet, the proxies is not furnishing the power, it is but a bland shrieking to lade the ears of the shoulders of some committee, who has appointed our capacity ready to imitate His strength. It is not he who makes the bones that makes the spirit of life. That Paul for whose activity no continents were not too many, nor for whose program a world too large his own life. Every scene was group fulcrum. His message sped him. His whole horizon swam in the light of the heavenly vision which he never after for a moment disobeyed. Yes, I
