GOVERNMENT TO ASSUME CONTROL OF WELSH MINES.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Under the defense of the realm act the board of trade announces that from December 1, it will assume control of all the coal mines in South Wales. A committee has been appointed, representing the board of trade, the home office and the admiralty, for the administration of the mines, and will meet tomorrow to consider the question of wages. There has been a long dispute concerning the demands of the South Wales miners for an increase of the war bonus. The board of trade attempted by intervention to procure a settlement, but the mine-owners objected to an investigation of their affairs with a view to ascertaining whether they could justifiably meet the miners demands.

The government's new departure appears to have been caused by the imperative necessity of preventing a trade dispute. Earlier in the course of the war the government had taken steps to control the price of coal, to some extent, but from the beginning of the war there has been trouble in the South Wales coal fields, arising from the constant conflict between the coal miners and the owners on the question of wages.

No Cessation.

London, Nov. 29.—Ronald McNeill, Unionist member of parliament, for the east division of Kent, asked the government in the house of commons today:

"Whether, with the view to the discovery of intrigue in America or elsewhere, having the intention of bringing about peace before the declared objects of the Allies are attained, it would be possible to make a declaration that no question of even temporary cessation of military operations could be entertained so long as German troops remained in occupation of any territory of the Allies.

A. Bonar Law, secretary for the colonies, replying for Premier Asquith, who is confined to his home with a cold, said the question was one for the Allies to consider in concert, and that until it was considered he could not make any statement except that "The Allies whose territory is occupied by the enemy may be assured of the full support of the British government."

Secret Sessions.

Paris, Nov. 29.—Secret sittings of the chamber of deputies likely will continue several days or until all questions concerning the conduct of the war and subordinate issues have been discussed to the fullest extent by the members of the government and of parliament. No decisions will be taken, as the votes must be cast in open session.

It is assumed by the public that important announcements probably will be published at the end of the secret meeting and that propositions will be submitted upon which the chamber will vote.

I shall kneel, praying to the King of Heaven,
A thousand blessings for their kindness Lord.

There shall be joy, forever and forever,
When all our Father's children are at home,
No strangers there, no fear that we must sever,
Methinks in heaven we shall know our own.

SPRINGHILL N. S. MINE FIRE EXTENDS.

SPRINGHILL, N. S., Nov. 30.—The fire in the Dominion Coal Co.'s mine here, which started early in the week has resisted the efforts of the many mine workers to combat it, and this water is now pouring into the blaze.

The flames are working down in the slope in which it started. The loss is heavily.

The water supply of the mining will cut off a large supply of oxygen. Smoke is still emerging in large quantities. The officials from Cape and this water is now pouring into the blaze.

The conflagration was driven back over sixty feet, but to oppose this, it has broken out at the seven hundred foot level. Despite the heat, the men reached the eight hundred foot level on a feat which could not be accomplished at any hour on Monday. The fan used to ventilate the mine has been stopped and this to a certain extent will cut off a large supply of oxygen. Smoke is still emerging in large quantities. The officials from Cape

Breton are all on hand, and hold out hope of saving the mine.

Take Care of Your Eyes

Most people—you included perhaps are extremely negligent in regard to their eyes, and very culpably so in regard to their children. This is because the public generally have literary no idea of the number and variety of eye defects. They know in a general way of near sight, for sight, old sight, squint etc., and many with one or other of these defects, foolishly think it is only necessary for them to pick out at random from a number of spectacles a pair that suits. Alas, many of the glasses selected in this way, that seem to suit exactly, prove most injurious and cause permanent injury. The fact is that optical defects occur in such varying degrees and in so many combinations that only the competent Optician with a complete Eye-testing Equipment, such as we possess, is qualified to discover the exact nature and degree of the trouble and properly correct it.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. MARSHAL CHAISSON

The community in the vicinity of the Western Road was saddened by the sudden passing away of Mrs. Marshal Chaisson. Although the deceased was in ill-health for almost two years, yet the end came suddenly. On Sunday the 19th inst, she had dinner with the family and seemed to be better than usual until about 10 o'clock at night. A sudden change for the worse seemed then to come over her and after lingering in great pain for almost five hours, passed peacefully away to meet her Maker. The last rites of the Church had been administered to her a short time before and she was visited by Rev. Father McDougal during her last hours on earth. She howsoever the last lapsing into unconsciousness in which state she remained for almost two hours before the Death Angel came. The funeral took place on Wednesday morning to S. S. Simon and Jude's Church, Tignish and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery. The services both at the Church and graves were performed by Rev. Father McDougal. Upwards of fifty sleighs followed the remains to their last resting place. The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the husband and bereaved family.

Life's now quiet, sad and lonely,
Once it seemed so bright and fair
And our heart's knew not a sorrow
Nearth a loving mother's care.

In our happy days of childhood
Fondly for us you would toil
All is changed for Death, Grim-reaper
Robbed us, carried off his spoil.

Away from earthly friends he took you
Up into the land afar
Through the portals of God's heaven
Gone beyond the "Gates Ajar."

Though we know that you are happy
Away up with the Angels fair
Who can take the place of mother?
Who can fill her vacant chair?

To your home of happy blessing
In that radiant land afar
Mother darling, we will join you
When we too have crossed the bar.

MRS. VIELLARD

All that was mortal of the late Mrs. Viellard was brought to Tignish on Monday evening and interred in the Roman Catholic cemetery, there on Tuesday morning, the funeral taking place at nine o'clock. Although not a resident of Tignish for the past few years her passing away was deeply regretted here, as she lived nearly fifty years of her life, in this village. She was a convert to the Roman Catholic Church of which she was a faithful and exemplary member. Her husband predeceased some years ago, and one of her last requests was that she be laid to rest beside him.

When we have passed from out this shadow glooming,
And hear no more the vesper bells of earth,
Shall we with happy kindred spirit roaming
Rejoice together in this second birth.

When standing by the land's unceasing river,
We note a tiny soul bark on its tide
Can we say, looking to the great Good Giver,
Lo, one I loved upon the other side?

And when the jeweled jasper gates wide swing
Shall tell us that a ransomed crowd comes home,
Can we among the grateful voices ring,
Be first to recognize a dear one's tone?

And looking on these heavenly lighted faces,
Can we, the friends of other days desery,
Though lighted now, with fair transcendent graces,
To fit them for their dwellings pure and high.

Oh! what a joy to see brights wreaths immortal,
On brows our hearts love crowned in fleeting time,
Oh, with what bliss we hail the opening portal,
That brings a new guest to this feast divine.

And when one comes who ought to us has given
A single joy, a gentle soothing word
