BIG MOMENTS

The Thrills of Speeding Motor Cars and the Tension of Cowboy Stunts and in "THE ROAD DEMON"

It is a bog gripping moment—when Hap Higgins the lazy cowboy, swaps his horse for a broken down automobile and drives it back to the ranch, using a rope instead for a steering wheel.

When Hap fails to stop the car and drives it through a barn and a fence.

When Patricia jumps from McCabe's auto into Hap's and thus escapes the motorcycle cop who has arrested them.

When Hap does a true Western stunt in rescuing McCabe from the county road gang so that he can arrive in time for the big auto race.

When Hap appears in his old car as a starter in the big auto race.

And many other big thrilling moments.

VALUABLE MEMORIAL—Mr. Joseph B. Arsenault has received the King's memorial in honor of his son, George Arsenault, who was killed in action, October 22, 1918. The plaque is of bronze, circular and about five inches in diameter. It bears the name of the deceased soldier, a figure of Britannia and the British Lion. Around the rim are the words: "Lied for Freedom and Honour." The King's letter and signature accompanies the plaque. Naturally Mr. and Mrs. Arsenault value the memorial very highly and are having it suitably mounted to be kept as a cherished heirloom in the family.

ENJOYABLE OUTING—On Wednesday afternoon the Ladies of Memorial Lodge spent a most enjoyable outing at Rocky Point. The day was ideal, and the location all that could be desired for a good time. Amusements of various kinds were indulged in, till some where from a suggested nook came a call to supper, which was eagerly responded to by the merry-makers. The Ladies of Memorial Lodge have long been noted for their art in the culinary line, and judging from the table they spread at this time, they certainly have not fallen back any in the ranks. Delicious sandwiches, of all kinds, cakes, pies, confectionary and relishes, such as potato, peas, and the most fastidious appetite to say nothing about the steaming kettle of good old fashioned tea. At eleven o'clock the happy picnicers wended their way homeward with only one heart ache, and that was for those who were not there.

RUSTICO NOTES—An event of more than passing interest was the departure of Miss Edna Peters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Peters for Montreal on Thursday, August 11th. Miss Peters was a former graduate of Prince of Wales College and the popular organist of St. Augustine Church, filled a place in the community that was a credit to herself and a source of pride to her parents and her many friends. Possessed of an unassuming yet lovable disposition she shall be sorely missed and her many acquaintances shall bid her God-speed in her chosen profession. From early childhood she showed a singular attachment for the religious life and her going is but the natural step to that ideal she has ever sought. To the good nuns of the order of Notre Dame she has gone for admittance, followed by the ardent prayers of her many friends. She was accompanied part of her journey by her brother, Clarence, student of St. Joseph's University, and also by her sister Mrs. W. A. Doucette of Wheatley River.

KENTVILLE'S NEW RESIDENTIAL DISTRICT TO BE NAMED MASTERS PARK

The owner of the property, John F. Masters of Boston states that great interest has been taken in the Contest, over 100 names being submitted by persons throughout the Annapolis Valley. Many of the names were very original and the majority appropriate, but the Committee decided on the above as most suitable.

The residential area to be opened up covers 25 acres and contains 127 building lots. Mr. Masters is providing for a public park of about 3 acres to be eventually laid out in shrubs and walks, two pools as it occupies a ravine, two pools or lagoons will be provided by damming up the flow of water.

Mr. Masters was formerly superintendent of the Yarmouth Line of steamers, and is to be commended for his enterprise in helping to build up his home town of Kentville and which will undoubtedly have a stimulating effect on all towns in the Annapolis Valley and Nova Scotia in general.

Mr. L. H. D. McCoubrey has returned from a trip to Sydney, N. S.

Miss Evelyn Stevenson, of the office staff of McLeod & Bentley, Charlottetown, is spending her vacation with her parents G. and Mrs. Stevenson.

Rev. J. I. Wheeler, wife and little son left by auto Monday on the return trip to their home in Annapolis, Ohio. Mr. Wheeler has ably filled the pulpit of the Christian Church here during the past two months.

—Five hundred million dollars—keep it if you say it quickly, represents a huge pile of money.

Yet the Wall Street Journal gives these figures as the amount squandered during 1920 on the North American Continent on absolutely worthless securities.

This points a moral: Invest wisely before you invest. We offer the same financial counsel to the small investor as we give to the man who can put up $10,000.

SEE CHANGE IN MOTHER-IN-LAW

CUSTOMS OFFICER AT BEAVER HARBOR, N. B., SAYS WIFE AND HER MOTHER HAVE BOTH BEEN BENEFITED

FITED

"Both my mother-in-law and my wife are enthusiastic about Tanlac and they ought to be, for it certainly has been a wonderful help to them," said G. W. McKay, Customs Officer at Beaver Harbor, Charlotte County, N. B.

"My mother-in-law was about as badly run-down as people get to be. She had stomach trouble in a bad form. Her appetite left her and what little she did manage to eat caused her great distress afterwards. She suffered so much that her nerves finally gave away and she complained of not being able to sleep at night.

"Hearing so much about Tanlac I asked one of the druggists to bring a bottle on my next trip and I have never seen such a change in anybody as this little medicine made in my mother-in-law.

"The first thing that Tanlac did for her was to give her an appetite and soon she was not only eating heartily but she ate without trouble. She sleeps well, has gained ten pounds in weight and looks twenty years younger. My wife was run down, too, so her mother insisted that she take Tanlac and it certainly has done her a world of good."

Tanlac is sold in Charlottetown by Reddin Bros. and all leading druggists everywhere.
