WHAT ARE YOU ?

The world is not so much concerned as to who you are as to what you are. Solomon says, "I have seen servants upon horses and princes walking as servants upon the earth," and he might have added that the former constituted a much less elevating spectacle often than the latter. Of all the asses in this world the man who is always trying to appear "somebody," is the most hopeless. It is said that the celebrated wit, Sydney Smith, had the habit of going up to the street and asking the question very gravely, "Pray, sir, are you anybody in particular?" One feels like asking the same question of many he meets. You can always tell the upstart from the fuss he occasions wherever he happens to inflict himself. In the railroad coach he rows about the seats and in the Pullman orders the porter about like old boots and exacts all kinds of attention. At the concert hall and in church he is always suffering from drafts and fuses about the management. The other day one of these self-important individuals was making his presence felt on a street car, when a seedy looking, red-nosed individual gave the whole car the cue to his antecedents by going up to him and saluting him with "Hello, Billy!" When you find an old fellow who is anxious to impress his possession of blue blood upon his acquaintances or neighbors, you can safely put it down that you won't have to go back two generations to find the soap grease cart or the pick. And in nine cases out of ten the cart or the pick were handled by cleaner hands than those that make greater pretensions. If you are worth knowing, people will find it out, and if you are not, no amount of tin horn tooting will help you out.—Stray Shots.

NEW YORK HIPPODROME.

Beginning with Monday's matinee the Hippodrome had an augmented arena program under the head of the Mammoth Durbar Circus. A number of star European circus features have been specially engaged for this part of the program which will of course be given in conjunction with the regular spectacular show "Around the World." Among the circus features may be mentioned Powers' Hippodrome elephants which will be seen in a big new act; La Rose Marguerite who will introduce an equestrian specialty that is said to be a genuine novelty; the seven Francois acrobats; Louise and Robert Cottrell in an equestrian act in which three horses are used; Sie Hassen Ben Ali's whirlwind Arabs in their tumbling and pyramid building specialty; the Mirano Bros., one of whom performs astonishing feats of balance from the top of a pole 61 feet high, the Gasch Sisters in a hand balancing act; the three Donalds in an exhibition of physical culture and several other features. The new circus will be added to the Great Durbar scene as an addition to the pageant-spectacle which has been so successful a feature of this season's show. The Butterfly Ballet, the Sandstorm in the Desert, the Forest Fire and scenic representation of nearly every country in the world will be given entirely as heretofore. Last Sunday at the Hippodrome there was a charity concert in aid of the Hebrew Infant Asylum.

SASKATCHEWAN HOUSE DEMANDS RECIPROCITY

REGINA, Sask., March 16—The legislature of Saskatchewan was prorogued last night by Lieutenant-Governor Brown.

The final feature of the fourth session of the second parliament of Saskatchewan was the adoption in the house of what might be termed the bill of rights of the province, which will be laid at the foot of the throne through a petition to the lieutenant-governor.

The petition is the summary of the demands that have been made at Ottawa, on the unanimous vote of the legislature, as well as a request for reciprocity with the United States.

The demands in detail are: Removal of the exemption from taxation now enjoyed by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. Access for Saskatchewan to a port on Hudson Bay, granting to the province of the public domain within its limits.

The Gill-nets had another good day of fishing, although the catch was not up to the preceding day. About 30,000 pounds in all was brought in, steamer L. S. HATS OFF IN CHURCH!

ALLEN TOWN, Penn., March 16—The Rev. George A. Greiss, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, created a stir at the opening of the services last evening when he requested the women of the congregation to remove their hats during the hour of worship. "The ladies of the church will kindly comply with the request," continued the pastor. "They may leave them in the Sunday school room."

Immediately there was a rustling of millinery, and a survey of the congregation showed that all except six women had complied with the order. One of the women members of the congregation declared that she would refuse to move her hat any time, citing the admonition of Paul the Apostle that women should not appear in church with uncovered heads.
