Thin Hogs

We find that there are a number of small, thin, unfinished Hogs, under one hundred pounds (100 lbs.), being marketed at the present time. During the winter weather there is considerable butcher shop trade for these Hogs; but from now on, with milder weather, there will not be this outlet; and as these Hogs are too small for packing purposes we must refuse to receive thin Hogs, even at a reduction in price.

We do not anticipate any marked decline in the Hog market, and the Farmers will do well to feed, and finish their Hogs properly, before marketing.

Makes Plea for National Unity

(Canadian Press)
HAMILTON, March 14.—A plea for a spirit of national unity, undivided by sectional interest and leading as its basis development of Canada along broad Dominion lines was made by Sir Henry Thornton President of the Canadian National Railways in an address before the Hamilton branch of the Canadian Manufacturers Association here last night.

Sir Henry chose "Freight Rates" as the subject of his address and while he emphasized the fact that no one was more opposed to oppressive freight rates than he was, it was nevertheless necessary to strike a happy medium whereby "railways were entitled to receive reasonable return for services given." Unless that were assured, Sir Henry, was convinced that "hard times" would inevitably come to Canada.

 pu formed close harmony male choir, composed of a large number of commercial travellers who spent the evening in singing old favorite hymns while seated round the large fire place in the hotel dered in delightfully blending harmony, and both the musicians and the audience enjoyed themselves immensely.

Preaches on Liquor

This invisible bootlegger has the law of supply and demand down to the very finest point. He knows all about the source of any supply. He knows St. Pierre as well as some Prince Edward Islanders know Eaton's catalogue. Demerara is his Paradise. This astute bootlegger knows all about the demand. He knows better than anybody else the great Sahara desert of human nature. He trades with dry humanity—and the drier the better.

This man has the price and he knows it. He knows what he can buy and he buys it. He knows that vessels are a matter of price and he buys them. He knows he can buy up crews to sail his vessels, and he buys them. He knows the can buy up certain officers of the law, and he buys them down to the price, and the officers fall for the money. His invisible hand is stretched out upon the transportation facilities of our country. He knows how to get the booze inland, for he is the invisible centre of a system that outrivals in real cleverness and ingenuity, the best organized railway system in the world. Sir Henry Thornton is not in it, for a moment, with some of our star bootleggers. They are transportation geniuses.

We want to get—so far as it is possible—a picture of these mighty men of booze, cloaked in the robes of church and state, of living and moving and having their being under powerful and brilliant social and commercial prestige; these men of brains and brass, who defy law and order—as we have it—and, as a result, amass fortunes, that fairly stagger the most vivid imagination.

The invisible bootlegger never goes to jail, he can always find a substitute, for he always has the price. He sits serene and secure behind the fortress of big money, while the lesser breed sell bodies and souls in order to carry the commands of the modern potentate in the kingdom of wine and woman.

In the midst of our carnival of drink and song, you ask: Why has prohibition not made more progress? And that is putting the question mildly. Some people are asking: Why is prohibition a failure?
 I think, I am safe in saying that, at present, prohibition is under fire, and it looks as if it were in the melting pot.

But why? That is a pertinent question. I think I am justified in saying that, part of the reason lies with professed prohibitionists themselves. There are prohibitionists who believe in prohibition for everybody. Christians need temperance, professional probi-tionists need repentance. A lot of us have not been sincere. We have not played the game according to the rules. We have "kidded" ourselves. We have sowed the wind, we are reaping the whirlwind.

What do we need? We need a living, powerful, everyday Christ.
 We have had, altogether too much of the critic's Christ. We need a positive, a practical and a constructive Christ.

We have piles upon piles of legislation. We need the law of Christ. We need the law of heaps of machinery. We have more wheels than power. The fire has gone out in the boiler, and our train is stalled on the tracks.
 Power for the individual, power for the church, power for every great cause, that is what we need, must have or bite the dust.

Next Sunday night—in view of the fact that we have not taken the ship to the Provincial Normal College of Nova Scotia Mr. Mc-Donald will preach on the subject "Clothes, Brains and Dollars."
 The Normal School Epistle.

Mystery Surrounds Friday Nights Shooting Affray

William Gormely a young man about twenty years of age, is in the Charlottetown Hospital suffering from gunshot wounds that he received in a shooting affray on Sydney Street on Friday night. His condition, however, is not serious.

The whole affair is still shrouded in mystery, and no one seems to know just how the shooting occurred or who did it. But an arrest was made on the following day, Saturday, and a thorough investigation will no doubt be held immediately.

According to information from the police and other sources, Mr.
 Patrick McKenna, whose home is on Sydney Street West, heard a disturbance in front of his house about half past ten and came out to investigate.

When he reached the street he was attacked and during the ensuing struggle some one fired a gun, hitting Gormely on the hand and thigh, and causing about seventeen lacerations.

The injured man was conveyed to the City Hospital, and is still a patient there.

The Chief of Police is now at work on the case, and developments are soon expected.

N. B. Liberals

considered as the candidate in Middlesex. Mr. Lesueur was regarded as an exceptionally able member during his term here. He was defeated in the general elections last October.

The Government has not decided whom to nominate for the custom inquiry committee in place of Mr. Elliott, but G. W. McPhee, new member for Yorkton, Sask., is being considered. He is a lawyer and much the same type of man as Mr. Elliott. The latter can hardly be retained on the committee, as he will have to devote his time for the next two weeks to his campaign, and after that, if he is elected, the affairs of the Labor Department will require his attention.

The entry of James Macleod of Bruce North into the Cabinet is being held up. It is still believed, however, that he will come in without portfolio, thus avoiding a by-election. He held his seat in October by a majority of under two hundred in a three-cornered contest.

A delegation of New Brunswick Liberals appeared before Premier King today to make representations in connection with the New Brunswick phase of the Maritime rights question. They were led by Hon. W. E. Foster, former providential premier. It is understood that those eastern Liberals are urging action on the Government toward the satisfaction of Maritime claims with a view to counteracting the political effect of the vigorous demonstration made in the Commons since the opening of the session by the Conservative members from New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, who are getting credit for putting up the strongest and most compelling fight for the redress of Maritime grievances that has so far been made and consequently has rendered more difficult the task of the Liberals of recovering the fortunes of their party in the provinces by the sea.

Realizing the political effect of the campaign of the Conservative members, the New Brunswick Liberals are seeking to stir the Government to something resembling voluntary action.

The New Brunswick delegation did not make public any concrete proposals before the Prime Minister, but it is understood that they favor the restoration to Mon-ton of the headquarters of the Intercolonial Railway.

It is reported that Hon. W. E.
 Foster, who was a member of the King Government for a few weeks during the election campaign last fall but who was relieved of his office by the electors, is willing to again enter the Cabinet. The suggestion is made that J. G. Robichaud, Liberal member for Gloucester, might be induced to resign his seat in Mr. Foster's favor. One of the representations made by the delegation was that New Brunswick should be given a voice in the Cabinet forthwith.

HORSE-PULLING CONTESTS.

The interest in horse-pulling contests continues unabated.

Three new records have been reported this season. The first was made at Regina, where the team that held the record last year excelled their best previous performance by exerting a tractive pull of 3,200 ponds, as registered by the newly invented dynamometer or hydraulic wagon.
 At Wapello, Iowa, on August 27, a pair of horses weighing 3,310 pounds, set the record of 3,400 pounds.

It always has been believed by experts that no horse could register a tractive pull equal its own weight, but the Wapello team exploded this notion.
 Their record stood only six days, however, for, on September 1, at the Iowa State Fair, in Des Moines, a red roan team of mixed Percheron and Belgian blood set the mark at 3,425 pounds.
 This is equal to starting a load of 44-100 pounds on granite block pavement and to start it over again 15 or 20 times in quick success, for the team at Des Moines dragged the hydraulic wagon 27 feet, while the dynamometer registered 3,425 over every inch of the ground.

Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse Association of America, said the other day that the power they exerted was simply amazing. The heavy sledges attached to the wagon were splintered and broken by their efforts, and then a pair of steel ones were substituted, only to be bent out of shape under the terrific strain. Heavy sledges finally stood the test.

MONTAQUE The March meeting of this Club was held in the new school with seventeen members and one visitor attending. The meeting opened with the President in the Chair and the usual business routine was disposed of.
 Reports of school and sick committees were given. It was announced that Bazaar and Supper. The members are now planning for a concert to be held the latter part of March. The report of the Essay committee was given by Mrs. Beck, Miss Doris Stirling won first prize and Miss Alice Fraser, second.
 Both these young ladies are to be congratulated. After the business was over, Rev. Mrs. Stirling gave a very beautiful reading, entitled "The Watchman", which the members enjoyed very much.
 The meeting then adjourned.

LOWER BEDEQUE Twenty one members and three visitors attended the regular monthly meeting of this Institute held on March 4th at the home of Horace Wright. The meeting opened in the usual manner and after the business routine, arrangements were made for a social to be held at the home of Mrs. Harrison MacFarlane on March 5th.
 At this function an address and presentation will be made to Mr. and Mrs. East Sherry who are leaving the province.
 The War Memorial pictures for the schools were sent to Mrs. Anderson by the I.O.G.E. The next meeting will be
