and a Mohammedan manservant. He was buried in Africa, and it was more than thirty years before his countrymen brought his body home and reinterred his remains in Oak Hill Cemetery, Washington. A statue was erected to mark the spot, and that is the only post mortem recognition his countrymen have made him until the present movement was launched to build a memorial on Union College grounds.

TOO HEAVY.
"I say, you fellows," said Smith at the club; "you are supposed to be good at guessing. Tell me where the lightest men in the world are to be found?"

"The lightest men," ruminated Jones; "I should say the lightest men would be in Ireland; you know, men of Cork."

"Well, I would say Scotland," remarked Brown; "Men of Ayr."

Several guesses were made, but none right.
"I'll tell you," said Smith. "Although in Ireland there are men of Cork and in Scotland men of Ayr, in London—the Thames—there are lightermen."

Smith still wonders why the club fellows did not laugh.—Ideas.

"WHAT ME MUDDER TINKS I AM."
While walking down a crowded city street the other day,

I heard a little urchin to a comrade turn and say:
"Say, Jimmy, you know I'd be as happy as a clam,

If I only was the fellow that me mudder t'inks I am."
She t'inks I am a wonder, and knows I never mix with nuthin' that would be, gee whiz,

If a feller was de feller dat his mudder t'inks he is."
So, my friends, be yours a life of toil, or undiluted joy,

You can still learn a lesson from the small unlettered boy;
Don't try to be an earthly saint with eyes fixed on a star,

Just try to be the fellow that the people think you are.

KNOW HIS STRONG POINT.
Dr. Bones decided to have a day with the birds, and started out early one morning, fully armed, "game" writ large on his features.

"About four in the afternoon he returned, tired out, and empty handed. "Not a feather, John," he told his coachman. "I didn't seem to be in form somehow."

John scrutinized his master's features for a while before replying. Then he said:
"I allus ses, sir, every man to his trade, I does. Look at me, sir. I couldn't shoot if I tried; but I can groom a horse, sir, as well as any body. There's your gun, one of the best doctors in the town, sir. You ain't much good with the gun, sir—beggin' your pardon for the liberty—but I'll defy any man to beat yer with the med-sin bottle!"—Tit Bits.

BY THE ROADSIDE.
The little boy sat by the roadside idly poking the warm dust with his bare toes. When the big man came along the little boy looked up and said:
"Mister is this your park?"
"What'll you gimme for it?" quizzed the big man.

"Fourteen hundred thousand million dollars," replied the little boy.
"All right," smiled the big man, "just take it right along with you."—Youngstown Telegram.

THE NEW YORK CORRESPONDENT

of a well known journal says:—
"One of the most significant signs of the times in the investment business is the great increase in the number of reputable and high class dealers and bankers who are offering bonds in the American market in units of $100. Up to very recent times it was practically impossible to find in the purely investment lists, bonds that came in pieces of less than $1,000. Nowadays, however, the small investor scattered all over the country, is being eagerly sought by the investment bankers, and hardly a week passes that new advertisements do not begin to appear in the newspapers offering the little bonds."

For several years past the requirements of small investors have been looked after by investment houses in the Maritime Provinces: this is evidenced by the number of high grade issues of bonds that can be purchased in $100 denominations. A list of our offerings will be sent to you upon request.
