Ottawa St. Pats Overpower Halifax 11-2

A Maritime hockey championship will be at stake tonight when the Charlottetown Legionaires and the Berwick Bruins meet, at the Forum, tonight in the second game of their series for the Intermediate crown. The Bruins took the opener at Kentville Monday night 8-5.

♣ ♣ ♣ ♣

Playing on a hard frozen ice surface, and with the encouraging support of the spectators the Prowse-coached team is given an even chance to bring the Island its first tri-province title this season. A three-goal deficit may loom rather large, but considering the rate at which goals have been scored all season and the final scores of games, many of which have been of the basketball variety, the Legion chances are rated highly.

♣ ♣ ♣ ♣

Berwick is an unknown quantity so far as local fandom can judge, but the fact that they topped the heap in the Nova Scotia circuit merits them a degree of respect that should not be regarded too lightly. The Legionaires will have to unleash their power early in the fray to even-up the count and then maintain the pressure to wear down the resultant drive that may be expected from the visitors.

♣ ♣ ♣ ♣

Coach Roy Prowse, yesterday, was confident that his team could take the game, but to overcome the margin secured by the Nova Scotia champions at Kentville was another matter. "We'll have to play plenty of good hockey and that means sixty minutes of it if we hope to come anywhere near taking the series," he stated. "The Bruins are good skaters and backcheck consistently. Our team will need to take advantage of all the breaks offered," he added as an after thought.

♣ ♣ ♣ ♣

Whatever the outcome, the game is expected to attract a large crowd. It will likely be the last big hockey match of the season exclusive, of course, the games in the City League finals. The Forum will be winding-up for the season in another ten days or so.

♣ ♣ ♣ ♣

How the Bentley's go, so go the Black Hawks seems to be a rule in the National Hockey League. The famed "Pony" line which carried the mail all winter were tied up by the Canadiens in their opening game and consequently the Chihawks suffered a 6-2 reverse. An interesting article—not only on Doug and Max, who along with Bill Mosienko made up the famous goal-getting trio, but the whole Bentley family which, in its way, is probably the most interesting family in the history of hockey is herewith reproduced.

♣ ♣ ♣ ♣

Out in Saskatchewan, about 25 years ago, they built a hockey and curling rink in the little town of DeLisle. It was one of those big wooden barns, built to keep out the snow and keep in the cold, and they built it because of the rising popularity of hockey and because the mayor of the town had six sons.

♣ ♣ ♣ ♣

The mayor of the town was an enterprising man. A Yorkshireman by birth, he came first to the United States and settled in North Dakota. Later he migrated across the border into Canada and settled in DeLisle. He ran a livery stable and raised running horses to start with. As time progressed he got into real estate and general merchandising and wheat and eventually got mixed up in politics in DeLisle—population 400.

♣ ♣ ♣ ♣

The little man with the snow-white hair—his hair has been snow-white since the day when, as a child he was riding horseback and a bolt of lightning threw him off the horse—was elected mayor of DeLisle about 15 times. He's still around the little town, spry as ever at the age of 72, but he isn't mayor any longer and the big thing in his life now is keeping a scrapbook on the hockey careers of his six sons.

♣ ♣ ♣ ♣

Two of those Bentley boys—Doug and Max—will have before their hockey careers are finished, several scrapbooks of their own. Jack and Roy and Wyatt and Reg played hockey too, but Max and Doug are the two who managed to come up into the big league and stay here to become established as among the best of their time.

♣ ♣ ♣ ♣

Recently Frank Boucher, coach of the New York Rangers, was talking of the Bentleys. "They are like the other great brother combination of the National League the Cook boys, Bun and Bill," he said. "The one knows where the other is and what he will do every minute they are on the ice together." Boucher should know what he is talking about because he was the centre ice man for the Cooks—one of the greatest forward lines of all time in the years that they played with the Rangers.

♣ ♣ ♣ ♣

Doug, who at 29 is four years older than Max, was the first to come up to the Big Time, in 1939, and on one of those first days, when he had flashed his tremendous speed and potential ability and someone had complimented him on it, they quoted him as saying, "If you think I'm good you should see my brother." That may not have been exactly what he said, but it certainly was what he meant and he wanted everybody to know Max was a great hockey player.

♣ ♣ ♣ ♣

"Between the two of us," Doug once told this writer, "Max and I, when we were little kids, used to carry the sticks for the DeLisle club. Every kid in the family played hockey and at one time we even had a whole team of our own and Dad used to play with us."

♣ ♣ ♣ ♣

Max and Doug may not be the two fastest skaters in the National League but they are certainly among the fastest. Doug was asked if he was faster than Max, or vice versa. "It's hard to say," he said. "Our father was a speed skater and one day in DeLisle they ran a race in the rink between all of us brothers. I beat out Reg by a step in five laps around the rink, but Max was the leader for the first three rounds."

♣ ♣ ♣ ♣

Reg, who is 31, is the one disappointment to these two brothers. They think he is a very good hockey player, and because they think that and because they want to be playing with him they talked the Black Hawks into bringing him up for a trial back in 1941, but he couldn't make the grade and on the last report he was playing with the Westminster club out on the Pacific coast.

♣ ♣ ♣ ♣

"I don't know why he couldn't make it," Doug said. "He was on the same line with us and we did everything we could for him. We passed to him all the time." That statement typifies the spirit of the Bentleys—and not only of the Bentleys but of the whole Chicago Hockey Club of this year.

Ottawa Team Takes Series Two Straight

HALIFAX, March 20—(CP) — Ottawa St. Patrick's College ran wild against a weak Halifax St. Mary's defence here tonight to swamp the Maritime champions, 11-2, and capture the best-of-three, first-round Memorial Cup series in straight games.

The Ottawa victory, coupled with their 9-5 win in the series opener, advances the Ottawa and district titleholders along the trail for Dominion junior honors against the Quebec representatives in the eastern semi-finals.

St. Mary's were never in the running tonight after the fast-moving St. Pat's rapped home three goals in the first four minutes of action to assume a commanding lead; from there, they coasted the rest of the way for an easy triumph.

Defence Cracks

The Maritimers made their best showing in the second session when they managed to keep pace with the Ottawans, each team collecting one goal. But their defence cracked wide open in the final period, allowing the St. Pat's attackers to ride in on goalie Harry Gilfoy unmolested to outscore St. Mary's 6-2.

St. Pat's second line of Sammy Gaw, Wally Samanski and Phil Maloney were the big guns in the capital city squad's offensive, connecting for six goals, while the first-string trio of Les Anning, Bobby Dennison and Dave Maguire were close behind with five markers to their credit.

Anning Is Star

Anning was the individual star of the night and a constant threat to the harassed Halifax defenders as he tallied four times. Gaw accomplished a well-earned hat-trick with three counters and his linemate, Maloney, banged home two while Samanski and Maguire each scored singles.

The Halifax goals were chalked up by Johnny Young and Dick Gamble, the former Moncton Bruins junior ace. Elmer MacGillivray and Bert Hirschfeld were the best of the other St. Mary's forwards, while Doug McNeil tried hard on the Halifax defence.

Halifax goaltender Harry Gilfoy, who turned in a great performance in the first fixture, was not up to par in tonight's contest, being fooled on several soft shots. He blocked 39 shots while Ottawa's Fred Murphy was tested 28 times.

Referees Leo Murray and Sibbey Mundey were more lenient than in the other game, handing out eight penalties, all for minor infractions. The fixture was almost devoid of body checking as the goal-hungry players paid little attention to defensive tactics.

LINEUPS:

Ottawa: Goal—Murphy; Defence Mulvihill, Brennan; Forwards—Maloney, Samanski, Gaw. Subs—Dennison, McGuire, Anning, Kavanaugh, Aubrey D'Aoust.

Hamilton Tigers In Saint John For Game Tonight

SAINT JOHN, N. B., March 20—(CP)—Members of the Hamilton Tigers hockey team arrived here today by train and had a workout this afternoon in preparation for tomorrow night's tilt against Saint John Beavers in the quarter-finals of the Eastern Canadian Allan Cup playdowns.

Coach George Redding said his boys had a good trip from Hamilton. The regular goalie, Art Childs, and defenceman Bobby Laurent are scheduled to arrive by plane tomorrow. If they are grounded, John Miller will be used in goal.

Announcement was made tonight that Saint John's netminder Bill Giggey, will be in harness for the game. Giggey played sensationally against Halifax Navy in the Maritime finals but suffered a broken bone in his left hand and a cracked rib.

Coach Jackie Keating reiterated his intention not to use replacements for any injured Beaver.

"I'm going to finish with the players I started with," he said. "They have stood by me and I am standing with them in victory or defeat."

Walter Butler, who suffered sprains to both feet in the series against Halifax, will be back in centre and injured Gerry Lynch also will be able to take his front line position.

Rookies Hold Key To Cleveland's Chances This Year

BY JACK HAND

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 20—(AP) — Rookies hold the key to Cleveland's chances in the American Baseball League race with manager Lou Boudreau rebuilding for power and speed to back up his four-star pitching staff.

If Gene Woodling can play a big league centre field and if Sherman Lollar can prove he's a major league catcher, the Tribe will be dangerous all the way.

Boudreau has Ed Robinson, a fine looking first sacker who may edge into the regular lineup. Bob Lemon, a hard-hitting third sacker, is giving Don Ross a scramble for the hot-corner job. With veteran Ken Keltner still a holdout, Cliff Mapes and John Ward are trying for the vacant right field post.

Pitching is Cleveland's strong suit with Bobby Feller, Steve Gromek, Allie Reynolds and Red Embree forming the nucleus of a strong staff. Don Black, acquired from the Athletics, figures to take a regular turn and the veteran Mel Harder with 212 victories to his credit will pick up a few more on a once-a-week assignment.

The outfield is the big headache. George Case is the left fielder but the other two jobs have been wide open. Pat Seerey, Paul O'Dea, Felix Mackiewicz and Buster Mills will scramble with Mapes, Ward and Sepkowski for the honor.

Frankie Hayes, the man of iron, figures to be the No. 1 receiver but young Lollar is showing plenty. Last year in Baltimore, the 21-year-old slugger from Fayetteville, Ark. slugged International League pitching for a league-leading .367 average. His 306 total bases included 34 home runs although it was only his second year in organized ball.

The Tribe is pretty well set in the middle of the infield with Ray Mack at second and the manager at shortstop. Keltner probably will be on third base and Les Fleming on first although Fleming has two strong rivals in Micky Rocco and Robinson.

G-O-L-F

By BYRON NELSON

Ty Cobb, who was acclaimed by many experts as the greatest ball player of all time, invited a group of us golfers out to his home to have dinner one evening. It was one of the most enjoyable evenings I have spent in a long time and I found Ty to be an intense student of golf just as he was always an intense student of baseball during his years in the major leagues.

Baseball is one of my favorite sports, but Ty is now so intense about golf that I am afraid we weren't very polite as we spent the evening talking about our game and gave him very little chance to talk about his own. His theory is that you must think everything out in advance in sports before you try to accomplish it and I am inclined to agree with him. Another word for his theory might be: Concentration, which has been mentioned before in these articles.

During the course of the evening we discussed slumps since I happened to be in a bit of a one at the time and Ty asked "What do you do when you're in a slump?"

I answered that I went out on a practice tee and worked with a number eight iron until I could get the feeling of the ball. After which I worked through the various other irons, 7, 6, 5, etc.

Cobb then went into his kitchen and brought back one of his favorite baseball bats which he keeps around the house as a sort of good luck souvenir. Using a pillow for a plate, Ty went through all the motions very dramatically while he told us and demonstrated what he used to do to get out of slumps during a 154-game schedule.

"In order to be great at anything," Ty told us, "you've got to put back into it what you take out. I led the American League for 12 years, but any time I went into a slump I also worked my own way out of it.

"I would go out to the ball park early picking up a boy on the way out to toss the ball to me. I would start out by bunting the ball right back at him. This helped my timing. Eventually, I was able to hit the ball harder until I began to get my timing back and was hitting the ball again."

Ty's theory applies to golf as well. When he was in a slump he didn't go out and try to hit home runs, and it is my opinion that golfers shouldn't go out on the practice tee and try to get out of a slump with a driver. Work along with your shorter game until you're playing it exactly as you want to play it and then gradually work through all the clubs until you have command of them again.

Most golfers try to hit the ball 200 yards before they have any idea of the special kind of timing required in golf. I doubt if we professionals will ever be able to get them to do it, but most beginners would be better golfers if we could get them to start with the putter and work through the other clubs.

The same theory applies to your game when you're in a slump. Work out with your putter and your short irons first. After you get them in shape you'll find that the rest of your game will come along much easier.

The same is true in every sport. It's timing that counts whether it is boxing, football, bowling or ice hockey. And the way to improve your game is to go slow until you have mastered it.

Ty was surprised that we knew as much about baseball as we did. During the course of a conversation he turned to me and said that had he coached me as a boy he would have made a first baseman out of me. This interested me because that's exactly the position I played on the kid teams I was a member of around Fort Worth.

"I have played baseball before as many as 70,000 people and never was nervous," Cobb told me. "What's more, the roar of the crowd never bothered me, but when I have a six-foot putt to make, if a chickadee sneezes two miles away I'll hear him and it will upset me so that I'll want to fling my clubs away."

Canadian Mile Record Unchanged

HAMILTON, Ont., March 20—(CP) — The Canadian record for the mile run was not threatened tonight when Leslie MacMitchell, ace miler from New York, covered the distance in 4:18:2 in a special invitation race at the 91st annual meet of the Hamilton Amateur Athletic Association.

MacMitchell's time was 1 3-5 seconds slower than the Canadian Record set by Glen Cunningham of New York at the same meet 11 years ago.

West Kent and Queen Square school hockey teams played to a three-all draw in an exhibition game at the Forum last night. In an opener to the boys game the Prince Street girls hockey team defeated the West Kent girls team 1-0.
