WEALTH OF CRAFTWORK SHOWN BY IMMIGRANTS

Exhibition by Canadian Handicrafts Guild Shows Value of Preserving Native Foreign and Canadian Handicraft.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 17.—Twenty-one years ago the Canadian Handicrafts Guild was organized with the object of preserving the varied crafts native to this country, or brought here by settlers from European lands. The hope behind the movement was that these crafts might be stimulated to take root in Canada and to develop along distinctively Canadian lines.

Today the guild's exhibition room at Montreal is a veritable wonderland of beautiful and useful articles, designed by the brains and shaped by the hands of Quebec habitants, Scotch-descended natives of the Maritimes, Central Europeans settled in the Prairie Provinces, Siwash Indians of British Columbia and a dozen other races which for untold centuries have boasted peculiar skill in one or other of their crafts.

Not until one views this remarkable display can one realize the sure sense of design and color harmony and the painstaking workmanship which these men and women, living for the most part in remote districts isolated from the influences of modern city life, put into their creations. Here are a number of finely proportioned animals—a bear, a cow, a deer—carved from wood with a sure touch of the artist by French-Canadian peasant women upon the walls of half a dozen strikingly decorative hooked rugs, portraying old time barbetines in full sail or quiet rural scenes. They are the work of farm wives in Prince Edward Island for the most part, though many come from New Brunswick and Nova Scotia as well.

The sense of movement which these rug-makers by the Atlantic have succeeded in catching in a difficult medium is astonishing.

Upon the shelves are squares of "catalogue," the French-Canadian carpet weave in the province of which the habitants wives are so expert. Beside them are piled rolls of homespun for dresses and men's suits. On little tables rest intriguing examples of Indian beadwork, baskets woven from scented hay and finely made wicker, as well as the ovens of St. Andrew's, N. B., and of British Columbia.

One of the most striking exhibits in this striking collection is a conglomeration of diminutive totem poles that received from an aged Siwash Indian living far west of the Pacific coast. Any eye which loves the oddie beautiful will at once be caught by these weird replicas of the Redman's most ambitious adventure in creative design. The animals and birds surrounding the combinations of line are given by this ancient craftsmen in black

War in the Air Commented on by Lloyd George

(Canadian Press)
LONDON, Aug. 17.—If the recent air manoeuvres over London have proved anything, they have proved that cutting down of armament of the air is most urgent in the opinion of Dr. Lloyd George, the Liberal leader.

Commenting in an Evening Star interview on the lessons of the air manoeuvres which many experts declare revealed that London was vulnerable to an air attack, Lloyd George said: "It is horrible to think of what war in the air will mean in the future. It will be devastation, annihilation—nothing less."

The Liberal leader said that the whole thing showed "that pacts are not the slightest use unless you have pacts as long as nations are perfecting the machinery of destruction. It is bound to end sooner or later in a smash. Of all the armaments that should be cut down, armament of the air is the most urgent."

Convention Has Been Postponed

(Canadian Press)
EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 17.—Major-General Hon. W. A. Griesbach, Dominion President of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, announced today that the convention of the army and navy veterans to have been held in Quebec, Sept. 25th to 29th next had been postponed until next year. General Griesbach stated that the cause of the postponement was a lack of sufficiently important business to bring the delegates from all over Canada to the City of Quebec.

The general pointed out that at the last session of parliament a mass of legislation was passed dealing with the ex-soldier. It is felt that it would be unwise to attempt so soon an analysis of the convention of such legislation. A year hence the situation would be clarified by the experience gained and reported upon.

Cock-Fighting Still Popular

(By British United Press)
LONDON, Aug. 17.—A recent exposure of cock-fighting, when a number of men, some of the socially prominent, were fined for promoting or assisting in a cock-fight, was believed by most people to be an isolated case, but it now appears that cock-fighting is carried on in many parts of the country. The "sport" still flourishes, surreptitiously, highly organised, heavily bet on, and regularly pursued Sunday after Sunday. Men of all classes mix in disused mansions and secluded barns to watch a succession of mains.

The breeding of fighting cocks is highly specialised and deeply studied and the followers of the sport have a headquarters, known as the "Cock-Fighters' Club," in a great University town.

A man who has witnessed many cock-fights described his experience as follows: "Let us say that this is a deserted country house we have arrived at. The stage is set in one of the bedrooms. An enclosure, about 12 feet square of wood and canvas has been erected. The floor of the enclosure is covered with turf, or more usually a double thickness of rich carpet, because the fighting is quicker on carpet and the floor is not stained.

"Forms and chairs are arranged round the arena, and there is a bar in the next room where you can have sandwiches and heavy drink like a third room serves as a dressing room for the birds and it is here the silver spurs are fixed on their legs in place of the natural ones which have been removed.

"The meeting is presided over by a master of ceremonies, who announces that the contesting parties to the match are fighting for the best of the main, that is normally the best of the eleven separate battles, and solicits bets for either the main or the separate battles.

"The first pair of cocks, hackles trimmed short, flight feathers of the wings cut off, tail cut off about half way, heeled with the silver spurs, are brought out. Throughout the match the birds are handled by two men known as setters, who act in something like the capacity of boxing seconds. Their duty is to separate and refresh the birds, his memoirs, he stated, but will not publish them for some time, although he may release excerpts to prove the truth of certain war time events.

"Battle follows battle, money changes hands, bets are settled and fresh wagers made, and there is an interval for drinks. The hat is passed round for the setters who receive perhaps $150 to share between them.

(Canadian Press)
FREDERICTON, Aug. 17.—The Nova Scotias mens doubles title-holders, A. C. Wiswell and E. Piers, of Halifax, defeated A. Stewart and D. Morton of Charlottetown, P. E. I. champions, in the first round of the Maritime tennis playoff on the courts of the Fredericton club this morning by scores of 6-1, 6-1, 6-3. Their victory was decisive and they had a distinct edge over their opponents throughout the match.

Mrs. F. V. Woodbury and Miss Mary Currie of Halifax defeated Miss Eleanor Bourke and Miss Isabel Bourke of Charlottetown, champions of the Island Province, they had little difficulty winning by straight sets 6-0, 6-2.

Amazing Auction Bridge Deal

LONDON, August 17.—An amazing chance combination of cards in a game of auction bridge, by which the four players were each dealt a hand consisting of a complete suit, is reported from the United Berkeley Club, Knightsbridge. The Secretary of the Club states: "It is an event which I believe has not occurred more than two or three times in the history of the game. The chances against its happening must run into billions. We have played bridge here for twenty-five years, and every day between forty and fifty tables have been in use, but such a thing has never occurred before. I am certain of the genuineness of this incident. None of the players would for a moment think of doing it as a joke, and by a fortunate coincidence there was an independent witness, an on-looker, who was waiting to cut in."

"What happened was this. The pack had been played with several times, and it was shuffled and cut, before the dealing in the usual way. On viewing his hand the dealer called 'Grand slam' in 'hearts' while the second player went 'Seven Spades'. Therefore, the third and fourth players who had the diamonds and clubs, could not reveal their strength in the auction. Then the hands were put down, and the players were nearly dumb with astonishment, for each had imagined that he or she was the only one with a complete suit. I was called up to examine the hands while they were still on the table. The players were a city business man and three women, all members of the club."

Friday evening Rev. E. Stiff, pastor of the Murray Harbour Church, gave the address of welcome which was responded to by the President, Mr. C. L. MacKay, which was followed by a preaching service conducted by Mr. A. E. Smith of the Summerside Church.

Saturday morning opened with a devotional period led by E. S. Norton after which the business of the convention was taken up, reports being heard from the different churches, all showed a material gain over last year both in giving and additions. Rev. C. E. Armstrong then addressed the meeting on "Ways and Means."

Saturday afternoon addresses were delivered by Mr. R. H. MacNeill on Sunday School work; Rev. J. O. Turner on the "Summer Camp" and Rev. H. B. Kilgour, All-Canada Secretary, presented the resolutions of the All-Canada Convention and Rev. W. C. MacDougall made a strong appeal on behalf of the College.

Sunday morning Rev. Dr. W. P. C. MacDougall preached a deeply spiritual sermon to a large congregation, and as the building was small necessitating two services, Rev. H. B. Kilgour took this service.

The Convention President opened the afternoon meeting which he handed over to Wilfred MacDonald, President of the Young People's work on the Island. Dr. MacDougall spoke on the benefits derived from a summer camp in the developing of a fine Christian character, new ideals and a deeper spirituality, his address was followed by Mr. Stewart Linkletter, formerly of Summerside, but who now ministers to a large congregation in Bolderside, Colorado.

In the evening Miss Royce, who is a leader in Girls' Work across Canada, spoke of the advantages of a summer camp for young people as a training ground for Christian service. Miss MacArthur and Mr. Hadden Stewart, who are here with Miss Royce, in connection with the summer camp at Canoe Cove, spoke on the aims and object of the All-Canada College. Rev. J. O. Turner preached the closing sermon of the convention. At the close Miss Ennis, missionary on furlough from Blasphore, India, repeated the Lord's Prayer in Hindu, the benediction was pronounced and thus closed one of the largest and most enthusiastic conventions of this brotherhood for a great many years. A number of the delegates spoke words of appreciation for the hospitable manner in which they had been entertained in the home of the good people of Murray Harbour.

Miss Barbara MacNeill, the talented soloist of Charlottetown, sang with very much feeling and expression at both Sunday morning and
