less about the work we're at. Pretty soon you'll be like the old one who never bothered to call her man in from the field to dinner. If he happened to come himself it was all right; if he didn't she took no notice of it, but sat down and ate her own, then cleared away the things from the table. Yes, I'm thinking that's what you're coming to!

However Jamie and I came to the field to watch the cloverly masses fall before the mower. To catch the rich scent of it and to find some regret that the soul of summer is passing. Perhaps never again shall we look upon the abundance that has been granted this season to farm folk. For the weaker workers there was wedding to do—Jamie in her garden and Jamie and I with much conversation among the flowers. He keeps his plantings at home free from weeds. He has potatoes in a plot in the yard now in blossom, as well as a number of perennials of his own. We admired them when we visited there last evening—James and I.

We had strolled along the fields when the sun was slipping to rest behind the edge of the world, colorfully edging the cloudlets with coral and tipping the dark treetops below with flame. At the outset we had kept carefully to the farm, and that's precisely when disaster struck at my Sunday stockings. James remarked in a relieved voice: "Well, now that they're ruined Ellen, we may as well walk in the fields. We can take note of the crops much better that way." It is a fine time of year for such strolling, when the farms are rich with promise.

We came finally to the stumpy field, where the ewes and lambs, with startled plaintive bleats vassure, and flustered a mother parturidge, that held our attention until every poult had vanished from sight. Raspberries are beginning to hang ripe now, amid the fragrance of the bracken there. Crossing the neighboring farms, we came then to Rob's. Duak was commencing to mist the far hills now, drifting softly in above the quiet farmsteads to meet us. Jamie's other grand-parents were his visitors as well, and aunts and uncles of his from the city. . . . But dear me, James is calling again: "Bed-time, Ellen!" Until tomorrow — Diary — Good night.

MacLeod-MacLean

On Wednesday at seven o'clock in the evening, July 28th, the prettily decorated United Church at Vernon River was the scene of a wedding of great interest, when Agnes Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas MacLean, Alberly Plains, and Weston George, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. MacLeod, Kinross, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. A. S. Weir.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white brocaded nylon sheen, fashioned on graceful lines, with finger tip length veil falling from a halo head dress. She carried an arm bouquet of sweetheart roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Anne Elizabeth, who as her maid of honor, looked charming in a floor length gown of turquoise taffeta. She wore a picture hat done in natural straw, and carried an arm bouquet of American beauty roses.

The groom was supported by Mr. Horace Hayes of Charlottetown. Messrs. Monroe MacLeod and Wallace MacLean acted as ushers. For a short period previous to the marriage the organist played appropriate nuptial music. As the wedding party approached the altar the Bridal Chorus (Wagner) was played.

During the signing of the register at the close of the ceremony, Mrs. Lloyd Martin sang, O Perfect Love, most acceptably.

The bride and groom, with their attendants left the church to the accompaniment of Mendelssohn's Wedding March. For the occasion of their marriage, the bride's mother chose to wear turquoise crepe with black accessories while the groom's mother wore a gown of pale leaf green with contrasting accessories. They each wore a corsage of sweet peas. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Riverside Inn, Vernon. The bride's table was artistically arranged, centered by a nicely decorated three tiered wedding cake flanked by pint candles. A profusion of flowers adorned the rooms giving them a lovely festive air, suitable to the occasion. The beautiful and luscious lunch was served by girl friends of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. MacLeod left on a short tour of the Maritimes. They will make their home at Kinross, where their many friends wish for them a long and happy married life.

Mother 21, Slain Husband Released

Found slain in a hotel room at Blind River, Ont., Mrs. Leonard Rivers, 41, is seen with her daughter, now 10 months old. The young mother, part Ojibway, was found almost nude, her face battered and a belt tightly about her neck. Her estranged husband, 19, was released by police after questioning.

In Memoriam

EDMUND DELANEY

Many friends deeply regret the passing of Edmund Delaney at his home in Bailie after a long and trying illness. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Delaney and was only 34 years of age. Last autumn he became ill and acting on the advice of his physician he went to Montreal for treatment which seemed to benefit him greatly for a time.

The deceased through all his illness was patient and submissive and had always a smile of welcome to his many friends who visited him as long as he was able to receive them. His brother, Rev. Ronald Delaney came home to be with him in his last days of suffering.

The funeral took place in St. Mary's Church, Indian River, on Friday morning and was largely attended. Requiem Mass was conducted by his brother, Rev. Ronald Delaney, C.S.S.R., assisted by Rev. Father Baldwin, C.S.S.R., Rector Holy Redeemer, as deacon, and Rev. Walter Mann, C.S.S.R., as sub-deacon.

Present in the sanctuary were Rev. R. F. MacDonald, Rev. Eugene Murray, Rev. J. A. MacInnis. There are left to mourn, his father and mother, also three brothers, Joseph, of Montreal, Rev. Ronald, and Marshall, at home.

This bereavement to the family is exceptionally sad at this time, as the father is so seriously ill that he did not realize his son's passing.

The deceased was laid to rest in the adjoining cemetery of St. Mary's Church. The pall-bearers were Leslie Ramsay, James Wall, Bruce Riley, William MacGillivray, Vernon MacGougan and Bernard MacLellan.

Sincere sympathy of a host of friends is extended to the bereaved family.

Scout News and Notices

Aug. 1, '48 Camp Buchan, P.E.I.

Saturday afternoon in front of St. Paul's Hall, the headquarters of the 7th Ch'town, it was a scene of intense activity. For why? The departure of the advance party of the 3rd and 7th Ch'town troop camp to be held at Camp Buchan from Aug. 2nd-11th. The camp promises to be the best yet and for ten good camping days the twenty three Scouts should arrive back in town bronzed, alert and completely refreshed to carry back to their respective troops the useful lessons learned in camp. A camp is only as good as its leaders and in this respect it is well staffed as follows:

George Anderson (Beaver), Camp Chief who has just returned from a Gilwell Training Course.

Sterling Walker (Red Pine), Assistant Camp Chief—Gilwellian of last year.

John Burrows (Eagle) — Assistant Camp Chief—An English S.M. with many years of experience.

Paul Cudmore—O.M. — P.E.I.'s jamboree Scout — now a troop leader of the 7th.

Assistant O.M.'s — Graham Jenkins, Jim Abbott.

Sports and recreation — King's Scout, Wendall Barrett.

Those making the trip Saturday afternoon were Camp Chief, G. Anderson (7th); Assistant Camp Chief, S. Walker (3rd); A.O.M., J. Ibbott (7th), and the following Scouts: Bill Ives (7th), Keith Beaton (7th), Earl Beaton (7th); Tom Scantlebury (7th); Alan Massey (7th); Lloyd Dalziel (7th); Roger Gardhum (7th); Ian Taylor (3rd).

This morning the rest of the Scouts of the 3rd (Kirk) and 7th (St. Paul's) troop camp arrived accompanied by the most important man in camp, the cook, Mr. Horace Smith who lost no time in getting a big lunch ready for the hungry, dusty Scouts. On arrival the Scouts were met by the "chief"—Beaver and after a few minutes rest the Scouts were gathered around the flag pole for the first flag-raising. The "chief" introduced the other teachers and then proceeded to name the patrol leaders for the camp and the Scouts in each patrol. The "chief" then talked to the Scouts telling them that at this camp the leaders were going to stress quite strongly camp sanitation, strict inspection and for all of us the law of the camp was:

"The Scout Law is the law of this camp."

After an excellent lunch prepared by the cook, the Scouts put up their tents, started on their gadget making and in general getting well prepared for the first camp fire and a good night's sleep. Before supper the Scouts enjoyed a swim in the "ole swimming hole". At the end of this news report is a list of the Scouts in camp by patrols. Parents and interested friends we know, will welcome the idea that we intend to send in a news report every day.

Till tomorrow, "Beaver" WEDDING BELLS

One of the prettiest of July nuptials took place in St. Anthony's R. C. Church, Bloomfield, on Wednesday at 8 a.m., July 7, when Virginia Theresa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Doyle of Bloomfield, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to George Jewell, son of Mr. and Mrs. George MacDonald of O'Leary.

The bride was very beautifully attired in a suit of turquoise blue wool with white accessories and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses and maiden-hair fern. She was attended by her sister Florence, who wore a pearl grey ensemble with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

The beautiful young bride walked up the aisle leaning on the arm of her father, by whom she was given in marriage, and closely followed by the beautiful, marble center of the beautiful marble altar, where they were joined by the groom and his attendant, Mr. Earle Wallace, the Rev. Fr. M. J. Rooney, parish priest officiating.

The bride's mother wore black crepe with blue accessories and a corsage of red roses, while the groom's mother wore blue with white accessories and her corsage was of pink roses.

Mr. C. J. Gallant played the Wedding March and the soloist was Albert Noonan of O'Leary, who rendered beautiful and appropriate hymns during the nuptial service and also during Mass.

Following the ceremony the nuptial party with their immediate relatives motored to the home of the bride where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served to about thirty invited guests, including Rev. Frs. Trainor and Griffin, also Mr. and Mrs. Peter Delghan, the bride's grand parents from Freetown.

The dining room table was tastefully decorated with pink and white peonies, the table centered with a three-tier wedding cake which was cut as is customary, by the bride and groom. The toast to the bride was given by the Rev. Fr. Trainor and answered by the groom.

The bride's gift to the groom was a leather travelling case. The groom's gift to his bride was a white prayer book and pearl rosary; to the bridesmaid a gold identification bracelet; to the groomsmen a leather wallet.

After breakfast the happy couple went on a honeymoon trip through the Maritimes. For going away the bride wore a grey crepe ensemble with black accessories and corsage of red roses. On their return on July 12th they were tendered a shower at the home of the bride's parents, where they received many useful and beautiful gifts, showing the esteem which was held for them by their many friends and relatives.

A delicious lunch was served, after which the guests all wended their way to Bloomfield Station Hall where a very enjoyable dance was held in their honor.

Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald will reside in O'Leary where he serves on the staff of Co-operative Store, How.

NEW LONDON W. I.

New London W. I. met at the home of Mrs. Morton Adams on Friday evening, July 9th. President presided, opening the meeting with the Creed. Thirteen members answered roll call, and two visitors were present. Minutes were read and approved. Reports of committees followed. Sick made two calls and a bill of $4.75 was moved to be paid. New sick committee appointed was Mrs. Fred MacEwen, Mrs. Claude MacEwen and Mrs. Dan McKay.

New business was in connection with helping repair the schoolroom. Mrs. George Cole, Mrs. Claude MacEwen and Mrs. Reed Cotton were asked to meet with the trustees and decide what was to be done.

Mrs. James Cole and Mrs. Murray McKay were appointed on the executive for another year.

It was decided to hold an ice cream social in the school the following Monday night.

Mrs. George Cole extended a hearty vote of thanks from the annual school meeting to the members of the institute for their generous help last year.

Plans were made to have a picnic for the district at Cavendish whenever suitable.

Next place of meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred MacEwen, roll call to be answered with a donation of old cotton suitable for bandages or dust clothes for Prince County Hospital. Collection amounted to $4.10. Meeting closed with the National Anthem. Lunch was served by hostess and committee.

TRICKS WITH COLOR FOR PAINTED WALL

The only difficulty with this increased color consciousness which has become evident in Canada today is that sometimes the rules can get a bit confusing.

For instance, scientific tests have shown that time is generally over-estimated in rooms painted in shades which are predominantly red, and underestimated in rooms where the general color is blue. The inference is that the working day would appear to pass more quickly in blue-painted surroundings.

But then there is another trick of color which has been discovered. It has been found that rooms painted blue create a feeling of coolness, while those finished in "warmer" colors such as cream, buff, ivory, tend to create a feeling of warmth.

So if you want the color which makes time appear to pass quickly and if at the same time you want to create a feeling of warmth, you've got a problem.
