The late Mr. Nesbit had been in failing health for the last two or three years and his death was not wholly unexpected. At the time of his death he was residing with his youngest daughter, Margaret (Mrs. Harold S. Huling) at Menomet, Mass. CAPITOL SUMMERSIDE

"Down in San Diego" Smartly Acted Melodrama

Thrilling action of American defense preparedness is adroitly woven into "Down in San Diego," new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture which opened at the Capitol Theatre.

With a cast of talented young players directed by Robert B. Sinclair, the story concerns a group of youngsters who become involved accidentally with a spy ring in San Diego.

How the boys cooperate with the U. S. Marines in a daring capture provides a modern touch that is as new as today's newspaper headlines. The background of busy San Diego, with the Army, Navy and Marines constantly active, adds interest.

Ray Macdonald, Bonita Granville and Dan Daley, Jr., have the principal roles. They receive excellent support from Leo Gorcey, the original "Dead End" kid, Charles B. Smith, Dorothy Morris, Henry O'Neill and Stanley Clements.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth MacKenzie are visiting relatives in Summerside and Montague.—S.

NAZIS TIGHTEN

ing of the Bastille in Paris July 14, 1789, the classic symbol of the overthrow of political tyranny.

First fights occurred in Marseilles, Vidy and Lyon, when thousands of persons in those cities of unoccupied France attempted to parade in Vichy Marshal Petain's flag.

French saboteur or anti-German assassin would be shot unless the Frenchman surrendered himself.

Wait Major Clash
But previous drastic Gestapo measures failed to halt France's underground army which is awaiting the day for a major uprising against the Nazis and their Axis-sponsored puppet.

Women's Institutes

Convene At Pt. Hill

The Women's Institutes of Port Hill and vicinity held the opening session of their convocations at 2 o'clock yesterday. The President, Mrs. Laurie Birch, was in the chair and presided most acceptably. Mrs. Arthur Yeo extended a welcome on behalf of the Port Hill Institute to the members and visiting friends, her remarks being followed by an enjoyable program of music and readings. A report was read, showing the work accomplished during the past year, the results as outlined being most satisfactory. An instructive paper on "Mistakes in Food" was read by Mrs. D. J. Riley, Charlottetown, and received with much interest and appreciation. This was followed by a talk on food and food values by Miss Louise Hazard, assistant supervisor, who illustrated her remarks with colored views. Pamphlets were distributed containing new recipes for fruits, salads, etc. At a night meeting Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan of Charlottetown spoke on "The Cross and the Plow" and needs, while Prof. W. J. Reid of Middleton discussed the problems of agriculture. The Annual meeting at Port Hill also spoke briefly. The meetings closed with the National Anthem.

U. S. NAVY

gan on the morning of June 4 at a time when it was estimated that only about 10 of their ships had escaped the attack would still be pressed forward.

As a result of the action, in which naval surface craft and army, navy and marine aircraft participated, the navy said this damage was inflicted upon the enemy:

(A) Four Japanese aircraft carriers, the Kaga, Akagi, Soryu and Hiryu were sunk.

(B) Three battleships damaged by bomb hits, one severely.

(C) Two heavy cruisers, the Mogami and the Mikuma, were sunk. Three others were damaged, one or two severely.

(D) One light cruiser was damaged.

(E) Three destroyers were sunk and several others were damaged by bombs.

(F) At least three transports or auxiliary ships were damaged, and one more sunk.

(G) An estimated 275 Japanese aircraft were destroyed or lost at sea through a lack of flight decks on which to land.

(H) Approximately 4,800 Japanese were killed or drowned.

Long-Range Duel

The carrier Yorktown was put out of action in what amounted to a long range duel of planes between the United States ship and the Japanese carrier Hiryu, which at that time, June 4, was still undamaged.

A force of 36 enemy planes found the Yorktown and her escorting ships and attacked. Those planes were from the Hiryu.

Eleven of 18 Japanese bombers in the group were shot down by fighters before their bombs were dropped," the communique reported.

"Seven got through our fighter protection. Of these seven, one was shot down by a surface ship anti-aircraft fire; a second dropped its bombload into the sea and plunged after it; while a third was torn to shreds by machine gun fire from the Yorktown's fighters.

Four enemy bombers escaped after scoring three direct hits."

A flight of 12 to 15 enemy torpedo planes escorted by fighters followed up the bomber assault on the Yorktown. Between four and seven of this group were destroyed by American fighters and three were fore launching their torpedoes.

"Five succeeded in launching torpedoes," the navy related, "but all were destroyed before they attempted to escape. The Yorktown was hit during this assault and put out of action. The damage caused a list which endangered her flight deck unless for landings and takeoffs. Her aircraft, however, continued the battle operating from other United States carriers."

Locate Hiryu

Meanwhile, some of the Yorktown's French Commandos—training for future operations against the continent—were reviewed by Gen. De Gaulle, British and American military leaders watched the review at Wellington Barracks.

Expansion of United States military organization in Europe is indicated by an official announcement that Maj.-Gen. M. W. Clark, of New York, is in command of all American ground troops in Belgium, with the supply services for that theatre under Maj.-Gen. J. C. H. Lee, of Junction City, Kans.

Leaflet Message

Eden's leaflet message to Frenchmen of his confidence in their "unflinching hostility toward the invader" was borne out during the day by a German radio announcement that the Nazi commander in Lille, Lt.-Gen. Niemciff, had arrested 50 more Frenchmen charged with sabotage.

Unless such was evident in Belgium and Holland, Representatives of their exiled governments said the Nazis had seized additional large numbers of hostages whom they have threatened to execute unless sabotage ceased.

Despite these new Nazi measures the Belgian spokesman said a steel mill had been blown up at Charleroi, and that 1,000 tons of flax intended for German parachutes had been burned in central Belgium.

Evidence of Germany's uneasiness about the prospects of the promised Allied "second front" operation in Europe was seen in a Netherlands government spokesman's report that important Nazi military offices at The Hague have been moved and that Hitler and other points closer to the German border. High German officials also were reported to have moved away from the coastal provinces where heavier German defenses were being built.
