Try Magnesia For Indigestion

People who suffer from indigestion usually have tried peppermint, charcoal and various digestive aids and get little more than slight temporary relief—sometimes not even that.

But before giving up to chronic dyspepsia, just try the effect of a little Bismarck Magnesia—just the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk, but pure Bismarck Magnesia which you can obtain from practically any drug-gist in either powder or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or four tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous and harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment, and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You can eat your meals without a fear of indigestion.

The Evening of Life

A Charlottetown lady recently wrote to Mr. Basil King, the well-known author, complimenting him on his latest book. He replied in a kindly letter, in which the following beautiful thought and comforting passage occurs:—

"I quite agree with you in feeling that we grow older the Spiritual World infringes more and more clearly on this denser material existence. Indeed it is one of the advantages of growing old that these glimpses or half glimpses become clearer. I can never understand how people can think that youth is a more privileged time than age. Youth, it seems to me, has nearly all disadvantages. The one thing to its credit is its physical health and strength which we lose only among the minor blessings.

Age is the full rich period of life, with all the capacities for enjoyment at their highest. I have been young and now am old, most of us can say with the psalmist, but personally, I would not go back an hour, infirm as I am, and compassed about with all kinds of physical decrepitudes. I am certain that I get more pleasure out of life today than I did a year ago, or forty or fifty years ago. And not the least of these advantages is the brighter dawning of the Spiritual life. I suppose that it never gets beyond the dawn, but that is something."

UPS AND DOWNS FROM TRYON AND VICINITY

Like "Noonie" the Sunshine Kid, I feel sure Spring is here. Several robins have been seen in this vicinity, also crows in great numbers and many other Spring birds—even the common post—the fly has made his appearance and is likely to stay with us through the coming months.

The poor condition of the roads leading to the different points of shipping throughout the Island make it almost impossible for the farmers to land the remainder of their spuds there. After every snowfall—small as it may be—the roads are alive with teams, double and single, hauling their produce to market. Soon all shipping will be done by trucks, which will fit to and fro under the summer sunshine.

The Misses Juanita Miller and Mary Royerson, also Master Willard Regerson, of the nearby village of Victoria, were visitors to Tryon on Sunday.

Mr. Ivan Dawson, of Bedeque, P. E. Island, is visiting in Augustine Cove, the guest of his brother, Mr. Elmer Dawson, potato monarch of that community.

Mr. and Mrs. David Marchbanks of Montrose, formerly of Marchbanks Mills, of De Sable, have returned home after spending a fortnight's vacation with friends and relatives in De Sable, Hampton, Victoria and Augustine Cove, who were delighted to see them again looking so hale and hearty.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cameron of Millville Road, were visitors to Augustine Cove on Sunday, where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Campbell.

Miss Katy McIntosh of Rose Valley is spending a pleasant week in Crapaud, the welcome guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Thompson.

The host of friends of Mrs. Harry A. McPhee, regret to learn that it has become necessary for her to enter the Prince County Hospital for treatment, after being ill for several weeks. The best wishes of everyone goes with her for an early recovery to health and strength.

Miss Katherine Dobson of Augustine Cove, spent last week the guest of her cousin, Miss Anne Bradshaw, of Middletown.

Miss Ida McDonald, of Tryon, spent last week end at her home in Rose Valley.

Mrs. Alfred Wood and daughter, Miss Olive, of Mount Tryon, paid a flying visit to Crapaud on Monday.

Mr. Harry Inman and son, of Augustine Cove were visitors to Crapaud on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Bell, of Tryon, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dawson and Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald, of Augustine Cove on Sunday, March 25.

Mr. James Chisholm, one of our local potato barons, recently disposed of his potato farm to Mr. Lester Francis, of Mount Tryon. This farm is conveniently situated within a couple of miles of Albany station and is an excellent farm for spud-growing.

The residents here have observed the Canadian "Honkers" wending their way northward to their nesting grounds. This fine game bird has a wide area of flight, extending from the Atlantic seaboard to the western plains of Saskatchewan. This bird as well as other migratory birds is protected by what is known as the Migratory Bird Act, prohibiting the gunners from shooting them in the Spring.

The silver fox kings of this vicinity and other vicinities as well as anxiously awaiting the coming of Spring and the arrival of soft balls of fur, which at the end of about seven months may turn out to be the highest prices for fox furs of any place in the world, also including live foxes. This is an industry which our fair Island may well be proud of, and every day in every way it is growing bigger and better. Our seed potatoes are in demand from South Carolina, extending Virginia and practically all the States on the Atlantic seaboard, and who says this is not important? It is a pity the Island people are not more like our Southern neighbors, the Yankees, and when we have something worth while, why not let other countries know about it.

Mr. LeRoy Howatt, progressive merchant of Victoria, has been laid up for a few days with a severe cold, but we are glad to report he is well on the road to recovery.

Dr. and Mrs. Bell, of Cape Traverse, were visitors to Tryon on Saturday.

Talking about industries! Maybe you think I have neglected mack-hocking. It may be last, but not tainly not least. Almost every woman is engaged in this business and are hooking all sorts of mats, square, oval, round, semi-circles, oblong, chair mats, mats for their Chesterfields, organ stools and almost every made fabulous sums by selling their mats at the Guilds, located at different points. At our provincial guild, Charlottetown, fine p. tics have been obtained for hooked mats and other handicraft. Say, just leave it to the ladies and they'll find a way out—and I don't mean maybe!

Skating and hockey are over for another year, and the young people say they miss it very much, but are hoping for an early start next winter.

My notes are done For another week. And now I'll say good-bye. If you more news would seek, Just watch the Guardian every week.

Top Dressing the Lawn

Top dressing in early spring is one of the most efficient methods of caring for a lawn. It is an essential house of recognized standing, and best grass is used for garden. Rich loam is the basis with seed, one-third of well-rotted stable manure or compost. An ordinary wheelbarrow load to a square yard is sufficient if the lawn is in good condition. If it is badly worn or thin two barrow loads will be better. This should be rolled smooth after it is carefully and evenly spread. It is rather a burdensome job but it gives results that repay the labor.

A very profitable move at this time is the application of a dressing of bone meal to the lawn. A pound to a square rod of lawn is the proportion. This gives a rather thin dressing but bone meal is the most lasting of fertilizers and its effect will still be in operation the following fall. Bone meal works for six months and for this reason is one of the most valuable garden fertilizers.

An excellent stimulant to growth of the lawn in early spring is a thorough raking with a garden rake, dragging out the dead grass and stirring the soil. This raking should precede the application of fertilizer.

Do not be in a hurry to make the first cutting of the lawn. Let the grass get a healthy start before the mower is run over it.

A supply of high-grade grass seed should always be on hand to be applied at any time a thin spot in the lawn becomes apparent. It is often necessary to dig out weeds such as Thymus, etc., before the seed is sown. There you'll see the doings of Tryon. Place of wonders and lots of fun. You say: Be Done! Yes, guess I'd better.
