YORKSHIRE HOGS.

Although there are supposed to be three breeds of yorkshires in England the large, medium and small only the large Yorkshire has come to the front in Canada and the U. S.

They are strictly speaking a bacon breed and their proper use is in the production of thick, streaked, of hogs to produce more length of side. The yorkshire is the largest and longest breed of hogs in Canada, the Lincoln another large, white curly coated British breed, little if at all known in Canada being its closest competitor for size. Apparently the extreme length that was in demand a few years ago has given place to the medium long, showing a trifle more breadth of back and depth of middle. Animals of medium length are evidently considered to be better or more economical feeders.

Yorkshires are not easily fed off their legs and consequently will stand heavy feeding in closed in quarters perhaps better than any of the other breeds. In fact (it is not economy to allow the yorkshire as large a range as is necessary for the thicker breeds as they are liable to rustle too much. Some hog breeders seem to be prejudiced against the bacon hog, claiming that they are not as easy feeders as the shorter, thicker breeds. Be that as it may, credit must be given to the bacon breeds and the yorkshire in particular for establishing the Canadian bacon trade in Britain as well as in our home markets.

Yorkshires are: solid white color, with medium length of face; light jaw; ears a good size and fairly upright, slightly forward; shoulder smooth; sides deep and long; hair straight, thick and silky.

HUN AGENTS CAUSED RUSSIAN TROUBLES

LONDON.—The Times correspondent at Petrograd in despatches under date of Tuesday, says: "Opinion of the crowd on Monday night was divided, but the majority favored the Government."

"No one knew what the origin of the disturbance was, but the cause, or rather the excuse, was the decision of the provisional Government to disband the first quick-fire regiment which had refused to send reinforcements to the front. They came out to demonstrate and in order to prove that they owed no allegiance to the provisional Government, and then in sympathy with other troops, joined in a demonstration with a number of workmen in factories."

Soldiers Dropped Out.

"I feel sure that numbers who took part in the night affair were persuaded that all would pass without shooting, and General Polovostoff kept the loyal troops in the barracks. I noted a number of soldiers in the demonstration, who did not know what they were out for, and who when they realized the object, left the ranks to return home. However, much the disbanding of untrustworthy regiments was the pretext of the disturbances, there can be no doubt the resignation of the cabinet ministers made the moment opportune, as it was naturally thought; the Government was not in a position to take reprisals. While the cadets took this opportunity to leave the ministry it was the duty of all patriotic men to stick to their post whatever their personal opinion of the world, if necessary, he differs from or their party call."

UNEARTHED BONES.

TORONTO.—The Rev. Dr. Mackay, secretary of Foreign Missions Board of the Presbyterian Church, has received a letter stating that James Menzies, formerly a Dominion Land Surveyor, and now a Presbyterian missionary in China, unearthed "oracle" bones and discovered the city of Yin, capital of Wu, which was lost many centuries before Confucius.

Yuan Menzies described his trip along the river in the locality from which others hoped to unearth something of a genuine nature, which would aid them in their study of early Chinese culture, when he met some jagged children in fields harvested for cotton and on the river banks, gathering leaves from the willows. He stopped to pick up some bones and aroused the curiosity of some of the children, who said they would get him some dragon bones.

According to Dr. Mackay's correspondent, it develops that these bones will be of great assistance to students of Chinese history. They form the basis of Menzies' work, which will cover five volumes.

Varied Pastimes

"Do you enjoy hunting and fishing?"

"No, much," replied Mr. Howley, "but my wife does. She puts in most of the autumn hunting a fat and most of the winter fishing for invitations."

He: "Will you go to the dance with me?"

She: "I'm sorry I can't, but I'll introduce you to a very handsome and clever girl whom you can take."

He: "I don't want a handsome and clever girl—I want you!"

The foundation is not the most important thing

True, you can't have a good barn without a good foundation, but don't forget either that the roof has to stand most of the punishment. Upon it falls the burden of resisting the destructive influences of weather and changing seasons.

Now, the question is "Where am I going to find a roof which will meet these conditions?" Certainly not in wooden shingles which have rapidly deteriorated during the past few years. Not in anything so perishable as wood, nor yet iron, which lets in driving rain, but rather in a permanent mineral composition such as Brantford Roofing.

Now, let us look at a section of Brantford Roofing. First, you notice it has a pure, long-fibred felt base. This is thoroughly saturated with a filler coat of asphalt or mineral pitch. Then it is given another coat. Finally, the surface is thickly covered with crushed slate. You can imagine what a job rain, snow, fire or heat would have penetrating a roof like that. As for comparing with shingles on the score of permanency, or protection, or appearance, or even economy, there is no comparison. You put a Brantford Roof on once, and it will last as long as the building; it will always look well and it will never need repairing.

Brantford Roofing

Nature's Water-proofing

Why not let us send you samples, also a copy of our booklet which explains how Brantford Roofing is "Always on the job." Or, if you will give us the dimensions of your barn or house roof we will gladly submit estimates without charge or obligation.
