Australia Protests

Patriotic organizations have more than once protested against the use in this country of United States text books, particularly in the teaching of modern history.

"The British collected a motley army, composed chiefly of colonial troops, and landed it on the tip of the Gallipoli Peninsula, close to the Dardanelles."

"Still," our enemies say, "you did not win the Peninsula." We did not, and some day, when truth will walk clear-eyed, it will be known why we did not.

"Does our contemporary consider that it will be satisfactory to the farmers if the manufacturers do not increase their price? Should they not, in all reason, lower their price?"

"The United States was the only great power that fought in the war without demanding or even desiring territorial gains for herself."

All Eyes on Bennett

By the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett had secured international patents on his speedy double-action tariff methods, he would shortly be in receipt of considerable royalties.

working out of a general tariff with preferences to the dominions. According to the cable dispatches, half the Labor party is equally intrigued by the Bennett proposal, which has also been subscribed to by all the British dominions at the Imperial Conference.

Coal Production in 1920

Coal production in Canada during 1929 amounted to 17,496,557 short tons, which was only 0.4 per cent lower than the total output for 1928 but 11.8 per cent higher than the average for the past five years.

The report contains figures on Canadian production, imports, exports, consumption, prices, mine accidents, and world production. Each coal producing province is reviewed in a separate chapter and detailed statistics on capital employed, salaries and wages paid, man-days work done, etc., are shown, together with a list of the names, location and output of the principal Canadian collieries.

Changing The Tune

"The farmer who voted for the Bennett Government will be rewarded by having to pay higher prices on cultivators, tractors, ploughs, harrows, seed drills, ploughs, mowing machines, harvesters, reapers, spraying and dusting machines, hay loaders, hay tedders, potato planters and many other kinds of agricultural machinery."

Farmers and Protection

The emphasis placed on federal issues by the Lea Government and its party press in last week's by-election in Second Prince is noted by the Sydney Post, which thus sums up the result:

The Turn of the Lane

"A Prince Edward Island Liberal stronghold of fifty years' standing has gone Conservative in a by-election just held; which shows that even politically speaking, it is a long lane that has no turn."

Editorial Notes

If Mr. Trainor accepts the Liberal nomination tendered him in Third King's, and if the Government decides to open the constituency, and if the Liberal candidate is elected, why, Premier Lea can then appoint Mr. Trainor Attorney General, and he will have his "legal adviser" in the Legislature! We admit that the latter part is a fair one; but "hope springs eternal."

Notes By The Way

And now it is the Right Honourable P. B. Bennett in virtue of his recent elevation to membership in the Imperial Privy Council by his Majesty King George. This is an honor upon which all Canadians will congratulate Canada's Prime Minister and all the more because it is a worthy tribute to his talents and his integrity.

With the end of the various rebellions in sight, as he hoped, Chiang Kai-Shek, president of the Chinese republic, predicts that a unified, chastened nation will emerge and effect its rehabilitation. Already he has laid down his programme: First, eradication of communism and banditry; second, rehabilitation of national finances; third, creation of honest, efficient government; fourth, achievement of industrial development; fifth, development of national and local autonomy, thereby paving the way for true democracy.

The results reported by the Hudson Bay Fisheries Expedition, sent out by the Dominion department of fisheries is disappointing to those who looked for the opening of an immense new fishing industry when the Hudson Bay Railway and the projected extension of the Temiskaming and Ontario Railway to James Bay were completed.

Rumania is the latest country to discover that it has been honeycombed with Soviet spies. The trail of this particular serpent appears to be evident over most of the world.

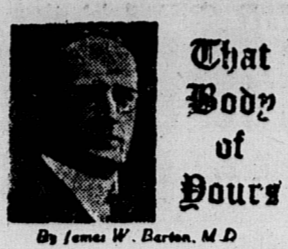

The situation in England is a trifle mixed so far as inter imperial relations are concerned. The obvious solution says an exchange is surely that Mr. Bennett stick to the principle of his proposition, which is that some way be found by which Great Britain can provide Canada with a sure and profitable market for her wheat in exchange for a sure and profitable market in Canada for British manufacturers.

A preference of a few cents in the British market is desirable for its permanent value, but it is not in itself sufficient protection against such dumping as Russia was doing this year, when cargoes of Russian wheat were sold at eleven cents under Manitoba's.

It would seem that in a land of plenty it should be possible to provide for everybody's need, says the Toronto Star (Lib); in a country where there is an excess of food many people should not go hungry. Yet they do. There is no effective organization for handling the job of feeding those in need with the surplus food that can be had for nothing.

The world generally is in a healthier state after its spree. Everybody has lost money, but it makes them think says Henry Ford. Fortunately the great Henry can do his thinking in comfort. He does not have to think where the next meal is coming from or how the kiddies are to be protected from the winter's cold, says the Toronto Telegram (Ind.-Con).

WHAT ARE ADHESIONS?

Perhaps you or some member of your family has had an operation for appendicitis and although life is saved there is still pain or discomfort in the region of the appendix.

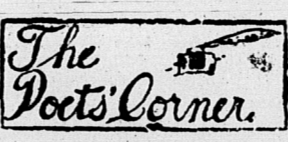

Your doctor informs you that likely there are some adhesions. What is meant by adhesions? Covering all the abdominal organs and lining the abdomen itself is a sort of net work or apron of tissue which manufactures a juice to enable the organs in the abdomen to rub or roll against one another without friction.

Now if something irritates this peritoneum it is called peritonitis, and a sort of roughened surface is formed which "sticks" to the coils of the intestine or the surface of other organs, or coils stick to one another. This "sticking together" is called an adhesion.

It was formerly thought that these adhesions were rather rare, and only followed cases of appendicitis or gall bladder trouble where there was much pus formation.

As a matter of fact they are now learning that practically one in every three persons has some adhesions in the abdominal cavity.

However the point is that about one in three persons have these adhesions, and by the proper care of the bowels—exercise, massage of abdomen, or mild laxatives—they never have any trouble.

MOUNTAIN CHILD

Among the great oak's roots she comes to play. A scrawny little maid with solemn face; Her feet and legs befouled with dust and clay. Her cornob doll swathed in a scrap of lace.

She gravely sets her table. Her toy cups Are scorn caps; her dishes broken plates; Her whole menu mud pies. She eats and mends In silent make-believe, then sits and waits—

Waits for the shrill call from the cabin door: 'You Pearlina! Water's out! Come get some more!' —Edwin Carlisle. Litsy in New York Times.

Mr. Bennett In London

(London Daily Express.) Mr. R. B. Bennett, the Canadian Prime Minister, is a man of integrity and truthfulness. Yet he creates a once a definitely false impression: Any one looking at him would say that he was a man in the late forties.

Mr. Bennett is, in fact, fifty-eight years of age. Mr. Bennett has lived a hard and vigorous life. What then, is the secret of his youthful appearance? Secret, within the character of the man, there certainly is. For Mr. Bennett is that living paradox—a man physically powerful and superbly well without ever having been the devotee of physical sport.

Circumstances, of course played their part from the beginning in producing in the Bennett character and the Bennett body this admirable adjustment. Mr. Bennett was born in New Brunswick. He lived as a boy a simple life in a God-fearing atmosphere. He was nurtured by parents strong of purpose and strong of body, inured to the stern life of New Brunswick in those days. That was his birthright.

But, like the one man in the Biblical parable, he neglected none of the talents with which he had been endowed. By unremitting effort he made the most of that inheritance to which he had been born. He stands today as the embodiment of the word "successful."

His character and habits remain unchanged by the gradual attainment of wealth, and ultimately of power. He has never smoked. He does not drink alcoholic drinks. Not even food excites his interest.

His joy and his self-realization he finds now, as he has always found them, in intellectual pursuits. Mr. Bennett started his career at an early age as a teacher in a school at Douglastown, New Brunswick. At that time his mind influenced no doubt by the wave of evangelical enthusiasm which swept across Canada, had taken a marked turn towards religion in its evangelical shape. In fact, when I met him for the first time, whilst he was still a schoolmaster, he had with him a small book.

In those days the practice of publishing the separate books of the Bible in separate volumes had just begun. It was such a volume, containing one book of the Bible, that the R. B. Bennett of that time carried with him. He often turned to Ecclesiasticus—the book which fascinated him more than any other.

The career which began in this fashion in Douglastown has been varied and comprehensive. Mr. Bennett went to Western Canada and built up a flourishing practice as a lawyer. Yet as if to disprove the familiar theory that lawyers can always advise action but can never

ARMISTICE SEASON APPROACHING

Sir,—May I on behalf of the members of the Canadian Legion, P. E. I., through your columns, ask that the approaching Armistice Season be more generally observed throughout the Province.

In the first place I would suggest that suitable references be made to the anniversary and prayers suitable to the occasion be used on Sunday November 9th in the various churches.

Secondly, let there be suitable memorial services at eleven o'clock on Armistice Day about the many monuments which have been erected to the memory of those who fell, so that adults and children may be brought together to give thanks for the blessings of peace.

Where there are no monuments let the children in the schools observe the two minutes of silence, in memory of the fallen to be followed by the Lord's prayer and an address suitable to the occasion.

direct it, he had an even greater success in the management of some of the biggest businesses in Canada.

Now he has crowned all that has gone before by becoming, as leader of the Conservative Party, re-emphatic by his own personality, Prime Minister of Canada.

I said at the beginning of this character-sketch that Mr. Bennett was a man of integrity and truthfulness. Considering his career as a whole until this moment, I believe that those two qualities have been more responsible than anything else for his achievements.

Defects—Mr. Bennett is a human being. But such defects as he has are not defects of intellect or moral purpose. They do not diminish the moral essence of the man.

What, any one considering him must be moved to ask, is behind this straight-forward yet complex man? Not for the first time in the valiant history of success, behind the man you find the mother.

The influence of Mr. Bennett's mother on his early days has, I think, remained the strongest influence for good throughout his life.

PROVINCIAL QUOTAS

Inquiries having come from the Chairman of the Provincial District Committees as to the total amounts which their localities should give toward the

the Campaign Executive Committee yesterday (Monday) morning held a special meeting, which was largely attended, and compiled the following list of the minimum totals that should come from the

which it is reasonable to expect from the Provincial District Committees.

In arriving at this estimate, the Executive Committee has endeavored to take all conditions into account. It is the unanimous belief of the Executive Committeemen that there are at least five hundred persons, many of them farmers, in Queens and Kings Counties outside Charlottetown who are well able to give from $200 to $1,000 each by using the two-year payment plan, and that there are thousands more who can give from $20 to $100 apiece.

The Executive Committee hopes that no Prince Edward Islander will put himself in the wrong class.
